HAWES DECLARES WILLIAMS SAID HE VOTED FOR REED

Quotes Republican Senator as Telling Senior Missourian So in Presence of Others.

DEMOCRAT LAUNCHES DRIVE AT ST. JOSEPH

Declares for Law Enforcement but Favors Enactment by Congress to Permit Stronger Beer.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Sept. 17.—Harry B. Hawes, Democratic candidate for the United States Senate, opening a Democratic State campaign here this afternoon, definitely stated that Senator Williams, his Republican opponent, told Senator Reed that he voted for Reed in the election of 1922. Hawes made this declaration while discussing Williams' course during the debate in the Senate on the World Court.

"No youthful and ardent lover ever paid more assiduous court to his first sweetheart than Williams paid Senator Reed," said Hawes. "He anticipated the need of a glass of water, when Senator Reed snapped his fingers Williams answered like a page; when Senator Reed took snuff Williams sneezed; and, in a wild outburst of affection, personally told the senior Senator and other Senators that his affection and admiration had been so great that he had voted for Senator Reed, the Democratic nominee, and against Brewster, the Republican nominee.

"A rumor of this wooing found its way back to Misousri, accompanied by the story that Gov. Baker had appointed a man to fill the place of a Republican Senator who had, in a preceding election, voted for a Democratic against a Republican senatorial nominee.

Williams Dodged Question.

"It raised an interesting question, and the junior Senator was plied with questions by various newspaper men and, as usual, dodged, wobbled and evaded a direct reply.

"The dodging and the wobbling continued for a period of some six months. It became a source of embarrassment to Gov. Baker, who did not relish the charge of having appointed a disloyal Republican; and then Williams' Republican opponent told the story in public in the recent primary, and asked in public for an affirmation or a denial.

"So the mystery ran on until it became quite apparent that Senator Reed's friends had no intention of supporting the Governor's appointee. After a while danger threatened in the primary, and then for the first time did Gov. Baker's Senator deny that he had voted for Senator Reed. It is a significant fact that he never denied that he told others, including Senator Reed, that he had voted for him.

"Who was deceived, the Governor and his friends, or Senator Reed and his friends? Someone was fooled.

"But the courtship has stopped, and the Senator-by-appointment has adroitly attempted to change this pursuit of votes into an act of courageous statesmanship." This was a reference to Williams' vote against the World Court.

Hawes' Stand on Dry Issue.

Among the issues discussed by Hawes were, centralization of power, prohibition, tax reduction and the tariff.

Stating that he wrote the law enforcement plank in the Democratic State platform, he said:

"Every vote that I have cast in either the State Legislature or in Congress has been for law enforcement, and for the appropriation of money and measures to bring it about.

"During the primary campaign I advocated a modification of the Volstead law which would permit the manufacture and sale of non-intoxicating beverages of a higher alcoholic content.

"I made this recommendation in the interest of law enforcement, believing that it would make contented many millions of our citizens who now complain of the present arbitrary restriction.

"It will be generally admitted by prohibitionists, scientists, physicians and investigators that the present limitation of one-half of 1 per cent is arbitrary, and is not the limit below the point of intoxication.

"I favor trying the experiment of amending the law to conform to the eighteenth amendment, permit increase in the alcoholic con-

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—The skies were overcast and the dampness of an impending session of rain was in the air as the Cardinals and Phillies took the field this afternoon for the fourth game of their series.

Tomorrow will be the last day for the Cardinals here, and if any of the games should be prevented by bad weather, they will be lost, and that might be disastrous to the pennant chasers of Rogers Hornsby

Claud Willoughby, who started Wednesday's game against the Cardinals, went to the pitching slab again today, while Manager Hornsby selected little Bill Sherdel to face the tail-enders.

In the absence of Arthur Fletcher, who was notified this morning that he had been suspended for the balance of the season for his row with Umpire Klem yesterday, Catcher Jimmy Wilson, who was fined $50 for his part in the row, was appointed acting manager for the rest of the campaign.

Hornsby and his men, who are tied for first place as a result of their double victory yesterday, while the Reds were winning one game, hoped to assume undisputed possession of the lead today or tomorrow. A victory today, if the Giants should beat the Reds, would put the Cards a game ahead. Tomorrow they will have another chance to forge to the front, when they play a double-header with the Phils.

Alexander and Haines, the two aces of the St. Louis staff, will pitch the double engagement for Hornsby, and it is probable that Carlson and Dean, the two stars of the Phillies' staff, and really capable pitchers, will be on duty for the Fletcherless Fletchermen.

The game:

FIRST INNING.

CARDINALS — Douthit doubled against the right-field wall on the first ball pitched. Southworth singled to center, scoring Douthit. Hornsby walked. Bottomley hit a foul ball over the fence just a few feet from fair territory, and then hit over the wall for a home run, scoring behind Southworth and Hornsby. L. Bell walked. Knight then relieved Willoughby. Hafey hit into a double play, Huber to Friberg to Attreau. O'Farrell walked. Thevenow forced O'Farrell, Sand to Friberg. FOUR RUNS.

PHILLIES—Sand walked. Mokan hit into a double play, Thevenow to Hornsby to Bottomley. Nixon flied to Hafey. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING.

CARDINALS—Sherdel flied to Mokan. Friberg threw out Douthit. Southworth flied to Nixon. NO RUNS.

PHILLIES—Thevenow threw out Leach, making a good stop of his hot grounder. Attreau grounded to Hornsby. Thevenow threw out Wilson. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING.

CARDINALS—Hornsby grounded to Sand. Bottomley flied to Mokan. Bell walked. Hafey singled to center, Bell stopping at second. O'Farrell flied to Mokan. NO RUNS.

PHILLIES—Friberg doubled to right. Huber hit to Thevenow and Friberg was out at third, Thevenow to Bell. Knight struck out. Bell threw out Sand. NO RUNS.

FOURTH INNING.

PHILLIES—Mokan singled to center. Bell threw out Nixon. Leach grounded to Bottomley, Mokan going to third. Attreau beat out a slow grounder to Hornsby, Mokan scoring. Wilson grounded to Bottomley. ONE RUN.

FIFTH INNING.

CARDINALS—Hornsby beat out a grounder to Sand. Bottomley bunted and got a hit when Wilson fell fielding the ball, Hornsby stopping at second. Bell beat out a grounder to Sand, filling the bases. Hafey forced Hornsby at the plate, Huber to Wilson. O'Farrell sent a long fly to eachL, Bottomley scoring and Bell going to third. Thevenow flied to Nixon. ONE RUN.

PHILLIES—Bottomley tossed out Friberg, Sherdel covering first. Huber lined to Thevenow. Knight struck out. NO RUNS.

RADIO PRIVILEGE SALE BARS NEWSPAPERS, RICKARD SAYS

Right to Broadcast Dempsey-Tunney Fight Not Yet Disposed of, However.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Although denying today that he had yet leased the broadcasting privileges for the Dempsey-Tunney fight at Philadelphia, Sept. 23, Tex Rickard said any contract he signed would bar newspapers from broadcasting wire reports of the bout.

"I will not permit any telegraph wires at the ringside to carry reports which may be used for broadcasting in violation of any contract I may sign," Rickard declared.

The promoter said that an option held by Ray Helgesen, represting New York interests, had expired today.

Meanwhile it was learned that Helgesen, a former sports editor of a New York paper, had approached Station WEAF with a proposal to sell his option for $35,000. According to Leroy Harkness, vice-president and general manager of the American Broadcasting Co., WEAF submited the proposal to its advertising clients, who rejected it.

Tropical Storms in Atlantic.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The tropical storm that was off Cape Hatteras Thursday morning has recurved to the northeast and its center is about 150 miles southeast of Nantucket lightship. Winds of hurricane force have been registered near the center of this disturbance. The storm, which passed near Turks Island Thursday afternoon, is apparently central in Bahama waters and moving rather rapidly west-northwestward, attended by winds of hurricans force near its center. "This is a very severe storm," a Weather Bureau warning said.

MEXICAN BANDITS KILLED AMERICAN TO BLOCK RESCUE

Troops, Closing in on Band, Had Slain Two When Captive New Yorker Was Put to Death.

$10,000 RANSOM HAD BEEN DEMANDED

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17. — Results of the investigation of the American Embassy at Mexico City into the death of Jacob Rosenthal and the resultant United States representations to the Calles Government are awaited by the State Department which has been stirred by news of the New York business man's murder by Mexican bandits.

Charge Schoenfeld is under instructions from Secretary Kellogg to impress upon the Mexican administration that the Washington Government feels that such an offense against its nationals demands prompt action by the Mexican authorities.

The instructions were sent by Secretary of State Kellogg last night.

Two Accounts of Killing.

Official advices received at the department said that Rosenthal had been "beaten to death" by the brigands, who had seized him Sunday not far from the Mexican capital, and held him for $10,000 ransom. The slaying followed the killing of two of his captors by Federal troops.

News dispatches, however, said that the outlaws stabbed the aged American, who was weakened by a recent illness, because he hampered their flight and because they preferred not to have him rescued alive by the Federal soldiers, with whom they were engaged in a running fight in less than 40 miles from Mexico City.

The pursuit was halted to recover the body, which bore many wounds, but was resumed immediately under orders to redouble efforts to capture or kill the outlaws. The body was taken to Cuernavaca and will be removed to Mexico City.

A letter received Wednesday from Rosenthal was turned over to the American embassy in Mexico City. He said that he was ill, had been compelled to sleep in rain, and was suffering from exposure. He requested that the $10,000 ransom be sent quickly. The outlaws had appended to the note instructions that messengers with the 20,000 pesos in gold meet them at a certain spot.

Trap of Army Failed.

Mexican officials laid a trap for the brigands, which failed. Soldiers in civilian clothes simulated the messengers and carried a sack filled with pieces of iron instead of gold. It was planned to capture the bandits' envoys and force them to guide the soldiers to their camp. No details of the miscarriage of the plan have been received.

State Department officials declined today, pending further advices, to forecast what further action might be necessary.

A belief was intimated, however, that the Calles Government had shown good faith in dispatching a detachment of troops in pursuit as soon as the kidnaping of Rosenthal had become known.

The abduction of the New York business man was the latest in the long list of similar acts against Americans in recent years. Several of these have been committed in th Cuernvaca district and drew repeated protests from Washington.

If a change of American policy toward Mexico is determined upon it is evident that it will be only because the most serious considerations appear to demand such a decision. President Coolidge's administration has been making a studied effort to maintain friendly relations with Mexico, and even the fundamental differences over the new Mexican land and oil laws have not been permitted to reach a crisis.

Jacob Rosenthal of Woodmere, Long Island, retired business man, was in Mexico on a pleasure trip. His party was returning from Cuernavaca, where they had spent a week-end holiday when stopped by the outlaws. In the party were Jack J. Zahler, an American resident of Mexico City, his wife, and Joseph Ruff, son-in-law of Rosenthal, also a resident of the capital. All were robbed of money and jewels and the outlaws disappeared into the brush with Rosenthal as a captive.

ANNOUNCE PROCESS OF MAKING HELIUM OUT OF HYDROGEN

Berlin Professors Say They Have Changed One Elemental Gas Into Another.

Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (New York World and Post-Dispatch.

BERLIN, Sept. 17.—Success in changing hydrogen into helium, now in demand for airships, is reported by Profs. Paneth and Peters of Berlin University, after years of research. The quantity of helium which they have been able to produce in their laboratory thus far is extremely small, but that it has become possible to make one gas from another, both supposedly chemical elements, is considered a tremendous triumph.

The professors also say they have discovered a method of detecting the presence of an extremely small quantity of helium in its natural state, as little as 1,100,000,000th of a cubic centimeter, with the result that it is now known that German "earth gas" deposits, formerly believed to contain too small a quantity of helium to be of commerical value, actually contains two-tenths of 1 per cent, almost as much as the Canadian deposits, which contain three-tenths.

JUDGE WITHHOLDS DECISION ON SACCO-VANZETTI RETRIAL

Announces That Ruling Will Not Be Forthcoming for Several Weeks.

By the Associated Press.

DEDHAM, Mass., Sept. 17. — Judge Webster Thayer today took under advisement the motion for a new trial for Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, Italian radicals, convicted of murder. At the conclusion of arguments he said that he would require several weeks to reach a decision.

In completing his argument today against the motion for a new trial, Dudley T. Ranney, assistant District Attorney, denied accusations of defense counsel that State and Federal authorities had conspired to manufacture a case against the two convicted men.

He said also that whatever had been introduced to implicate the so-called Morelli gang in the murder for which Sacco and Vanzetti were convicted was indefinite and circumstantial.

WORLD COURT COMMITTEE ALTERS U. S. RESERVATION

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Sept. 17.—It is understood that, at the final meeting of the Drafting Committee of the World Court delegate conference today, it was agreed to recommend to the main Committee of Fourteen that a position of perfect equality with members of the League of Nations Council be granted the United States in all matters pertaining to requests for advisory opinions by the court.

Presumably, this does not wholly meet the American wishes as expressed in the fifth reservation, in case advisory opinions should be asked by a majority vote of the Council, because an American veto would not be effective.

The drafting committee will present its report to the full committee tomorrow. Those close to the deliberations persist in the belief that the Committee of Fourteen or the conference itself will find a way of satisfying the United States.

Air Mail Pilot Makes 5000-Foot Parachute Drop Through the Fog

Unable to See Ground Lights and With Gas Tank Empty, C. A. Lindbergh Goes Over the Side

CHARLES A. LINDBERGH.

With the ground 5000 feet below shrouded in impenetrable darkness and fog, and his Liberty engine coughing on the last few drops of gasoline in the emergency tank, Charles A. Lindbergh, chief pilot on the St. Louis-Chicago air mail route, last night leaped from the cockpit and parachuted safely down near Wedron, Ill., 60 miles south of Chicago.

Spurred on by the postal motto —"The mail must go"—the wearied pilot then made his way from the cornfield where he had fallen, to a farmhouse a half mile away, found the wreck of his plane two miles distant, and, salvaging the mail from its compartment, delivered it to the postmaster at Ottawa, Ill., to be sent on its way by train.

But just after sundown, as he headed northeast from Peoria, he ran into the greatest enemy of the flyer—a heavy fog. It swept down upon him as he hit the first breath of chilled air from Lake Michigan, 50 miles southwest from Chicago, completely cutting off his view of the ground.

Lights Below Blotted Out.

As he saw the lights in a town below him yellowed, reddened and finally blotted out by the welling mist, Lindbergh knew that he must depend for the rest of his trip upon his homing instinct and the vagaries of the magnetic aircraft compass on his dimly lighted instrument board.

Meanwhile, the big swinging beacon at Maywood Field had been lighted early, and the field force, realizing the danger of the situation for incoming flyers, stood by the hangar doors listening for the noise of the approaching motors.

The beacon, quite obviously, was to be of little use to any flyer that made his way that far. Its finger of light, ordinarily to be seen for 30 miles, seemed to break off sharply within a few feet of the powerful lens and it was plain to see that a pilot's only chance was to catch a glimpse of it through a rift in the fog.

It was just a few minutes before 7 o'clock, however, that the men on the field heard the steady drumming of a motor which increased in volume until it has reached the characteristic roar of a Liberty.

Motor Heard on Field Below.

It was Lindbergh, guided unerringly to his field. Apparently he knew he was there, for the plane could be heard above the field for several minutes, the propeller swishing softly as the pilot throttled his motor for a vain attempt to look through the fog, and thrashing noisily above the thunder of his motor as he "gave it the gun" again.

Finally the noise of the motor died away to the south and the field men knew the pilot had gone in search of clearer weather. But two hours of flying, it developed later, brought Lindbergh no view of the ground.

In desperation he released his parachute flare. It flamed up brightly for a moment below him, dwindled to a fine point of light and finally was swallowed up in the fog. Then there was nothing to do but fly until the gasoline gave out and go over the side if no landing place showed by that time.

Shortly after 9 p. m. the emergency gasoline tank ran low. Lindbergh set his controls, threw his leg over the side and jumped. After a breathless fall of three or four seconds he pulled the ripcord and his parachute billowed up over him, easing him to the ground.

Plane Glided Down Easily.

With his first thought, as he recovered from his stumbling fall, for the safety of his mail, he set off at once for the nearest house and with the aid of several farmers soon found his wrecked plane, got the mail sacks and carried them to the Postmaster at Ottawa, a nearby town. From there they were forwarded to Chicago by train within two hours after the crash.

Lindbergh, a slim and imperturbable young man, who at the age of 24 is a veteran flyer, took a train to Chicago, returning to Wedron this morning to salvage all that was worth saying from his plane. From there by long distance telephone he told a Post-Dispatch reporter of his experiences.

"I never would have jumped

KNIFE IS THROWN AT TOKIO PARTY TO SWEDISH PRINCESS

Assassin's Weapon Strikes Son of British Ambassador, but His Cigarette Case Stops It.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Sept. 17.—A knife was hurled toward Princess Louise of Sweden, Sir John Tilley, British Ambassador, and Albert de Bassompierre, Belgian Ambassador, yesterday while a luncheon was in progress at the British Embassy. The weapon struck Roger Tilley, son of the Ambassador, near the heart, but was deflected by a gold cigarette case. Young Tilley was not injured. The would-be assassin escaped.

Both British and Japanese officials are reticent concerning the incident.

Officials are giving out various censored versions, but it is learned that the following is authentic:

A Brazilian knife, a curio of Ambassador Tilley's, disappeared Wednesday from the drawing room of the Embassy. Yesterday, Ambassador Tilley and the Belgian Ambassador were seated, one on either side of Princess Louise, at luncheon at the Embassy in honor of the Princess and her husband, Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus. Their backs were toward a window. Roger Tilley was seated near the end of the table, partly facing the window, when he saw an intruder cautiously peering in.

The intruder drew a knife. Young Tilley sprang to the window just as the man thew the knife.

The men at he luncheon hurried out after the would-be assassin. The Embassy was surrounded almost immediately by police, but the man escaped.

Princess Louise remained calm and insisted that the luncheon continue.

It is not known whether Ambassador Tilley, Ambassador de Bassompierre or the Princess was the intended victim.

Police are searching Tokio for the intruder. His nationality is not known, but young Tilley, apparently the only one who saw him, said he was dressed in occidental attire, but resembled a Japanese. Police and newspapers are inclined to think him a Chinese.

In the northern part of the province the snowfall is from six inches to a foot in depth. In Saskatchewan a farmer, his wife and two children were killed by lightning.

DAUGHERTY IN NEW YORK WHEN PAY-OFF TOOK PLACE

"MAN FRIDAY," SMITH ACCOMPANIED HIM

Societe Suisse Claims Rushed Through in Same Day They Were Filed Auditor Testifies.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The Government today placed on record documentary evidence tending to prove that Harry M. Daugherty was in New York on Sept. 30, 1921, when Thomas W. Miller gave Richard Merton, German metal magnate, checks for $6,453,979.97 at a dinner in the Ritz Carlton Hotel.

Daugherty and Miller are on trial charged with conspiring to defraud the Government of their "fair and unprejudiced" services as government officials in permitting the relase to Merton of assets of the American Metals Co. impounded during the war. At that time Daugherty was Attorney-General and Miller Alien Property Custodian.

Travel Vouchers Fix Date.

United States Attorney Buckner placed on record travel vouchers, railroad and Pullman records showing that Daugherty and Jesse W. Smith, his "man Friday," returned from a trip to Ohio Sept. 29, and their expense accounts were shown to prove that they were still in New York on Sept. 30.

Similar records were offered to show that Daugherty and Smith were in New York April 19 of the same year. This date the Government has stated is that of the original meeting between Merton and Smith and the late John T. King, Republican leader. Merton has testified that he obtained release of the American Metal Co. assets by action of Daugherty and Miller after he paid King a fee of $441,000.

Greene did not remember that Miller or G. R. Williams, first assistant to the alien property custodian, spoke to him about rushing the two swiss claims.

In the previous days of the trial 20 witnesses have been examined and 90 exhibits placed on the record. These exhibits—letters, telegrams, checks and travel vouchers—the prosecution has promised to link into a chain evidence to prove the guilt of the defendants.

The first witness of the day was Charles E. Stewart, administrative officer in the Department of Justice since 1914. Stewart said that he met Smith for the first time at the Harding inauguration. He said that Smith came to his office in the Department of Justice Building and introduced himself. The witness said he saw Smith a "good many times" later, "here and there around the department, in his own office, in Mr. Daugherty's office, and elsewhere."

Smith's $4-a-Day "Subsistence."

Stewart identified documents showing that Smith, whom the Government asserts was not a Government employe, received $4 a day for subsistence while in Washington. The documents showed that Smith was supposed to be an employe resident in Columbus, O., and entitled to $4 a day subsistence allowance when away from there. Stewart identified an account for April, 1921, on which Smith received $122.82. On another for December, 1921, Smith drew an equal amount. Several of these subsistence accounts and railway transportation vouchers on which Smith traveled at Government expense were introduced as exhibits. The subsistence account for December, 1921, was signed by Daugherty.

Stewart related that he had assigned a room in the Department of Justice Building in Washington to Smith on Daugherty's order. The witness said he understood that Smith was a confidential employe of the Attorney-General.

The next witness called was John D. Harris, Controller of the Department of Justice.

Daugherty Offered Repayment.

Under cross-examination Stewart previously had identified letters and photostatic copies of letters interchanged by himself and Daugherty in April, 1922, regarding Smith's expense account. Max D. Steuer, counsel for Daugherty, read these letters to the jury. They showed

SLAIN CONVICT HAD TOLD OFFICIALS OF PRISON CONDITIONS

REPORT FILED BUT NOT MADE PUBLIC

Findings Will Be Submitted Either to Grand Jury or to Congress at Next Session.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The murder of John Bowers, convict in the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., is looked on here as related to an official investigation of the administration of the prison, just completed by 17 agents and examiners of the Department of Justice, who delved into convicts' charges of graft in the purchase of supplies and irregularities and rank favoritism in granting paroles, all of which has been embodied in a report that will be submitted to a grand jury or to a special committee of the next Congress.

Bowers, who was one of more than a hundred convicts questioned by the investigators, was stabbed to death a week ago last Sunday. Another convict, Edward Murphy of San Francisco, was charged with the crime, but denied that he did the killing.

To Indict Two Politicians.

Should the report of the investigation go to a grand jury, the purpose would be the indictment of two politicians of Missouri and Kansas, who have displayed active interest in the affairs of the prison. The Missouri politician divides his time between Missouri, Leavenworth and Washington, and is said to have shown a keen interest in the parole of certain prisoners. Both he and the Kansas politician are friends of Warden W. I. Biddle.

If on the other hand, it is decided to lay the report before Congress, it is likely a special committee will be appointed to investigate further and make recommendations that might result in a change of administration at the prison.

The Department of Justice had just completed its inquiry and made a report when Bowers was slain. The matter contained in the report was partly supplied by Bowers and was gathered in the prison over a period of several weeks, without the assistance of Warden Biddle, whose aid was not sought by the investigators.

Warden Barred From Room.

A room was assigned to the investogators in the administration building, and prisoners were called daily to the room for questioning. Warden Biddle was not questioned. He was not told what had been found. At no time was he permitted in the room while the convicts under his charge were being questioned, and when the investigation had been completed, he was not called upon for information or explanation.

Shortly after the investigation got under way, Dr. Albert F. Yohe, physician in the prison for 20 years and member of the Parole Board, was dismissed without explanation by the Attorney-General, and the parole of J. A. Urbanowitz, convict, who had been chief clerk to Warden Biddle, was revoked. Instead of being brought back to Leavenworth, Urbanowitz was sent to the Federal Prison in Atlanta.

He was questioned there by Department of Justice agents and admitted he received $500 for procuring a good job for a certain prisoner in the Leavenworth prison while he was chief clerk.

The Parole Board of Leavenworth Prison consists of the warden, the prison physician and the superintendent of prisons in Washington. The votes of two members are sufficient to recommend a parole to the Attorney-General.

Mrs. Willebrandt's Order.

During the time of the alleged irregularities in paroles to favored prisoners, Warden Biddle, Dr. Yohe and Superintendent of Prisons Luther White composed the board. White has since died and one of his subordinates now acts as parole officer. Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney-General in charge of prohibition enforcement, who has taken over other duties of Whites' office, ordered the investigation of the prison.

It is not known outside official circles what the report of the investigators contains or whether there is other information in possession of Mrs. Willebrandt not contained in the report.

What some of the convicts told is known. Some of them openly charged that prisoners with money or influence, or who had friends with money, were given preferred jobs in prison, granted other favors and given preference in paroles. Several prisoners of affluence who had thus been favored were named by the convicts, and it is likely that other paroles granted in the period under investigation will be revoked.

The convicts told of favors granted a rich manufacturer of a Northwestern city almost immediately upon his arrival at the prison. This man was paroled, and is said to have told friends that he was influential in procuring paroles for other convicts whose acquaintance he had made in prison. An investigation of his case now is under way.

Two Bootleggers Paroled.

The investigators were also told that two wealthy bootleggers had spent $12,000 each before getting paroles, and that two brothers from another locality had gained their freedom by the same means.

There were the usual complaints by convicts of abuse of prisoners by guards, cruelty to prisoners in solitary confinement and improper feeding, but aside from the paroles feature of the investigation, the department agents were more impressed by what they heard of alleged grafting in the purchase of supplies.

Convicts further charged in their interviews with the Government agents that women visited convicts at night on the prison chicken ranch; that special permits to favored prisoners had been granted to purchase groceries outside the prison through trusties with outside passes, and that certain prisoners with special jobs had paid sums ranging from $10 to $2500 for privileges, passes, special food from the kitchen and special quarters.

The agents also investigated reports of the purchase of narcotics and whisky by convicts through the medical department in the prison hospital.

No expense or time was spared by the Government in running down the stories told by the convicts, and how much or what part of the information given has been confirmed is not known outside official circles.

Bowers Was Drug Peddler.

Bowers, the convict who was murdered, was 34 years old, a native of Russia. He has no relatives in this country, and as no one claimed the body it was buried in the prison cemetery. He was convicted of peddling narcotics. Edwards, who is charged with the murder, is 27 years old. He was sentenced on the same charge.

Warden Biddle, who declined to discuss the killing or the investigation of his administration, when the correspondent called on him at the prison, except to remark that he had no reason to fear the result, made a prompt report to Washington of the killing. He added that his administration would be vindicated of any charge when the investigation was finished.

The Warden's version of the murder was that Bowers and another convict quarreled over a trivial affair while at work in the boiler room, and that Bowers knocked the other convict down twice, and then reached for a hammer, whereupon Murphy rushed in and stabbed Bowers in the back.

COLUMBIA, S. C., BANK INQUIRY

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 17.—Indictments have been drafted for presentation to the grand jury against W. W. Bradley, state bank examiner, and two officers of the American Bank and Trust Co. of Columbia, which closed in June, following several weeks of inquiry. Ivy M. Mauldin, president, and J. Pope Matthews, chairman of the bank's board, are charged with conspiracy and both are named with Bradley on a charge of violating the state banking code. The bank now is in receivership.

ENGLISH SWIMMER CROSSES CHANNEL; FIFTH THIS SEASON

By the Associated Press.

DOVER, England, Sept. 17.—Norman Leslie Dereham of South End, England, today finished a swim across the English Channel from Cape Griz Nez, France. He left Cape Gris Nez at 9 o'clock last night and landed in St. Margaret's Bay at 10:56 a. m. today. His time was 13 hours, 56 minutes.

The record for the swim is 11 hours, 5 minutes, set by the Parisian baker, Georges Michel, on Sept. 10.

Dereham wins the prize of $5000 offered by the News of the World for the first British-born swimmer to beat Gertrude Ederle's time of 14 hours 31 minutes. Dereham used the breast stroke most of the way, but changed to the back stroke toward the end. He was given a rousing reception by a crowd which watched his approach to the English shore.

After walking up the beach, he sat down and smoked a cigarette, later going to a hotel for a rest.

This was his third attempt this season. His second, a few weeks ago, was abandoned when a dense fog descended after he had come within two miles of Dover.

Interviewed at the hotel, where the first thing he asked for was a cup of tea, Dereham said he was 28 years old and had a wife and two children, of whom he was thinking most of the time during his swim. The swim, he added, was uneventful.

Asked what he would do with the prize money, he replied: "Charity begins at home."

Jane Darwin, the mystery girl, again has failed to swim the channel. She started from Cape Gris Nez at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and abandoned the swim at 3:30 a. m. today. In her previous effort Sept. 8 she started from Cape Gris Nez and was about half way across when the sea became too rough for her to continue.

Dereham is the fifth person to swim the channel this season. The others are Gertrude Ederle of New York who set a new record; Mrs. Clemington Corson (Mlle. Gade) of New York; Ernst Vierkoetter, the German, who broke Miss Ederle's record; and Georges Michel of France, who lowered the records of both Miss Ederle and Vierkoetter.

"Miss Darwin" was identified by the Evening News today as Miss E. Marriott, a Barnstaple (Devonshire) school girl.

HAWES DECLARES WILLIAMS SAID HE VOTED FOR REED

tent of beverages not beyond the point of intoxication, so that this demand, coming as it does, from millions of our citizens, may be satisfied and at least the experiment attempted of substituting for the bootlegg product a more acceptable nonintoxicating beverage.

"My opposition to the principle of Federal prohibition rests upon my devotion to the preservation of state sovereignty.

"When men desire the repeal of the eighteenth amendment they are raising a moot question, either deceiving themselves or trying to fool the public; for no sensible man, giving consideration to the subject, can honestly promise or hold out hope for repeal.

"My opponent has refused to take a defiinte stand on this subject, except to say that he will be bound by a referendum. There will be no referendum on this subject. None is proposed. Proposition No. 4 is one of law enforcement. It does not relate to a modification of the Volstead act.

Rakes Williams as Deceiver.

"Senator Williams attempts to deceive either the wet voters of the State or the dry voters of the State by stating that this is a moral question. The prohibition forces deny that it is a moral question, and the antiprohibition forces make the same denial. Any subject which is translated into national and state statutes is a political question.

On the tariff, Hawes said tariff reduction should be a part of the next tax reduction, and declared for such a reduction as would protect the American worker, but lower the burden now resting on the consumer.

Discussing centralization, he said there were too many Federal bureaus, that legitimate industrial effort is the subject of "constant and annoying surveillance."

Hawes objected to the personalities injected into the opening of the Republican campaign and said Williams had used Homer Mann of Kansas City and former Gov. Hyde to do his fighting for him. The Republicans, he said, evidently planned a whispering campaign.

In particular, Hawes protested against the attack Hyde made on him because he went to Germany during the war to bring Mrs. Lily Busch back to America.

This, Hawes characterized as a "cowardly, wicked appeal for votes based upon the lowest possible plane."

Evidence Daugherty Was In New York "Pay-Off" Day

that Smith's expense accounts had become the subject of criticism within the Department of Justice and that Daugherty had offered to make restitution of $2,381.81 which was the total of Smith's expenses to April 28, 1922.

In a letter in reply to Daughery, Harris stated that he considered that Smith had done important and valuable work for the Government and that his expenses had been paid legally under a special appropriation out of which expenses of all employes not regularly appointed as employes of the Department of Justice were paid.

Under direct examination, Harris testified that he had signed Smith's expense vouchers on the theory that Smith was a confidential investigator for the Attorney-General and engaged in the reorganization of Daugherty's staff.

Smith's Political List.

The reorganization of the Attorney-General's office in 1921 as conducted by Jesse Smith, was based on the political faith of the employes, S. J. Bailey, former chief of the Bureau of Investigation, testified.

Soon after President Harding's inauguration, Bailey testified, Smith came to him and asked for a list of all employes of the Department of Justice with a note opposite each name to show whether Democratic or Republican.

This list came back to him, Bailey said, with symbols opposite each name to shew whether an employe could be retained or not.

No changes were actually made, Bailey said, but he had to do a lot of talking to keep old and trusted employes on their jobs when Daugherty or Smith ordered them discharged.

Bailey said he first met Smith at the inauguration of Daugherty in the Department of Justice Building March 4, 1921. He said Smith was so active in arranging affairs that "he began to wonder who he was." Counsel for Daugherty objected to this last phrase and it was ordered struck from the record.

Bailey then told of a conversation he had with Daugherty in which the Attorney-General told him that he was often too busy to discuss the affairs of the Bureau of Investigation. Bailey said Daugherty told him that at such times he was to go to Smith for consultation and to receive instructions.

Much of Evidence Only Tentatively Admitted.

A mass of documentary evidence is before a jury in Federal Court in an effort to prove Daugherty and Miller shared in a $441,000 bribe, but most of it has been admitted tentatively, over protest of defense attorneys, upon promise of the Government to show connection with the defendants.

The record consists of 90 exhibits, including hotel registers, letters, telegrams, checks, railroad vouchers and private papers of the late John T. King.

Twenty witnesses have testified, most of them identifying exhibits. Most of the evidence deals with the payment of $441,000 to King by Richard Merton, German metal magnate, for expediting payment by the Government of a $7,000,000 claim for seized German stock in the American Metals Co.

John D. Durkin, secretary to King, testified his employer had told him two checks for $2500 each signed by King and made out to Daugherty were contributions to make up a deficit in the Ohio Republican campaign fund.

Durkin said he had deposited Liberty Bond coupons amounting to $2125 in King's bank account. Federal Attorney Buckner has promised to produce from the Midland National Bank, Washington Courthouse, O., a deposit slip, reading "Harry M. Daugherty $2125, by New York check." The Midland is operated by Neal Daugherty, brother of the defendant.

When counsel for Miller had completed cross-examination, Durkin was questioned by Assistant United States Attorney Simpson. Durkin identified three checks, totalling $29,143.75. One check for $3643.75, signed by King, was payable to Jesse Smith, Daugherty's "man Friday." Another check, signed by King and payable to "Cash," was offered in evidence. Durkin could not remember having seen it before. The checks were dated Oct. 15, 1921, 13 days after the day Merton said he gave King $381,000 in Liberty loan bonds.

Trying to Trace Payments.

The Government alleged that these two checks represented coupon or interest value on Liberty bonds amounting to $195,000. Durkin testified he had deposited Liberty bond coupons on King's account.

The third check was for $25,000 and was dated Aug. 1, 1921. It bore the signature of King and was payable to "Cash." The date of the check approximated the date on which Merton said he gave King $50,000 as a "retainer." After a long dispute the check was barred as an exhibit.

Miss Vera Veail, for 17 years an employe in the Midland National Bank at Washington Court House, Ohio, could not identify the signature of Jesse W. Smith when called by the Government.

A telegram was sent to Miller in Pittsburg the day before the claims of the Societe Suisse were paid. Fred H. Wilson, secretary to Miller at the time he was Alien Property Custodian, testified. The telegram said the claims had not been paid. The next day, Wilson said, a telegram was sent Miller to Sewickley, Pa., informing him that the claims had been paid. Wilson identified copies of both telegrams, and they were admitted as exhibits.

Under cross-examination by William Rand, counsel for Miller, Wilson said telegrams about claims under investigation were frequently sent to Miller. Under re-direct examination, Wilson could not recall any specific claim other than that of the Societe Suisse and another mentioned in the same message, concerning which he had telegraphed or telephoned Miller.

TWO NEGROES SHOT TRYING TO FLEE FROM O'FALLON POLICE

Two Negroes were shot at 8:30 a. m. today when they attempted to flee from O'Fallon (Ill.) authorities who sought to question them in connection with the shooting last night near Carlyle of H. W. Kent, a Centralia taxicab driver, by a Negro fare who drove away in Kent's Chevrolet touring car after pushing Kent from the machine.

Clarence Love, 18 years old, of Memphis, was shot in the back, and Warren Cooper, 28, of McNabb, Ark., was shot in the right knee. With two other Negroes they were seen on a freight train when it reached O'Fallon. Marshal John Tiley and State Highway Patrolman Nichols shot at the Negroes when they started to run. Love and Cooper were treated for their injuries and were then taken, with their two companions, to Carlyle.

Kent's machine was found abandoned today at Breese, Ill., where the four Negroes are believed to have boarded the train.

PROMOTER GIVES BOND TO ANSWER U. S. CHARGE HERE

Lawrence B. Portman, Whose Ventures Cost St. Louisans $67,000, Is Arrested in New York.

Lawrence B. Portman, young promoter of Peoria, Ill., in whose projects St. Louisans sank about $56,000, gave $10,000 bond in New York yesterday, waived a preliminary hearing, and agreed to appear in St. Louis when called. He had been arrested earlier in the day by Postoffice Inspector Uttley of St. Louis on a warrant charging misuse of the mails in a scheme to obtain money by false representations.

It was charged that Portman, associated with his brother, Raymond, had sold numerous interim certificates on the representation that various large business corporations existed or were to be formed. The specific charge is that Portman in furtherance of the scheme, mailed a letter from Peoria to Charles A. Wasserberger, 111 Vine street, St. Loius, on Sept. 17, 1925.

Opened Office in June, 1925.

Portman, who is 28 years old, with his brothers, Raymond, 23, and Charles, 21, came from Peoria in June, 1925, and opened offices in the Boatmen's Bank Building as L. B. Portman & Co. They sold interim certificates of various apartment and warehouse building projects in Peoria, which ran into millions in paper figures, but neglected to obtain a permit from the State Securities Department.

In January they were dreaming of a $3,000,000 office building at Twelfth boulevard and Locust street and had sold some shares, when the crash came.

While the Finance Commissioner and various creditors and investors were preparing to act the Portman brothers abandoned their suite and went to Chicago. One of them left a $300 hotel bill, and a constable with an attachment for office furniture found the office doors locked when he called Jan. 8.

Twelve St. Louis Losers.

Twelve St. Louisans reported losses, the largest loss being $22,500 by Dr. C. A. Leavey, of the Metropolitan Building, and $16,500 by Charles A. Wasserburger, president of the National Printing Co.

Bankruptcy followed. The Portman offices in Chicago, Peoria and New York were stripped of furniture which had not been paid for. Lawrence Portman, interviewed at his father's home in Peoria, admitted he was "done for."

No date has been set for his next appearance in St. Louis.

Former Judge Sues for Libel.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Charging libel, Lucius J. Malmin, former Judge of the District Court of the Virgin Islands, has filed suit in the District of Columbia Supreme Court for $100,000 damages against Rear Admiral Sumner E. W. Kittelle. He contends that the admiral wrote a derogatory magazine article about his alleged dismissal from the bench under the naval regime in the islands.

"NOT DRUNK—POISONED," BUT DRIVER GETS 30 DAYS

Elmer Getcham's Plea That He Was Victim of Toxic Moonshine Fails to Impress Judge.

Elmer Getcham of 7800 Pennsylvania avenue was so drunk on bad whisky that he was past the stage of drunkeness and had reached poison-stupor, his attorney, Sigmund Bass, argued in Judge Rosecan's court today when Getcham appeared charged with driving an automobile when intoxicated.

"He wasn't drunk, your honor," Bass pleaded, "he was poisoned from fusel oil in bum prohibition liquor."

Testimony was that Getcham had been found slumped over the wheel of his stalled car in the middle of South Broadway near Davis street early in the morning of July 6.

The Judge refused to accept the plea and sentenced Getcham to 30 days in the workhouse and $100 fine.

TAKES PARACHUTE IN 5000-FOOT DROP TO GROUND IN FOG

while there was a chance of landing the ship safely," he said, "but as I flew about in the dark with the gasoline running lower and lower and finally giving out altogether I knew there was nothing to do but go over the side and get the mail afterwards, if I could.

"I dived over the side head first and the parachute opened after I had fallen about 150 feet. The ship glided in a spiral, coming down slowly. I could hear its wires whistle as it gathered speed and I soon found I was on the rim of the spiral for it passed me at least five times within a hundred feet. I was more worried about getting hit by it than I was by the prospect of landing in a tree or on a house.

"I came down easily in a cornfield and walked about a mile to a farmhouse. As the farmer helped me look for the plane another man called up to say it had crashed near his barn, so I went over there and got the mail."

So thick was the weather at Chicago last night that three other inbound mail planes made forced landings within a radius of 100 miles of their destination. Not a single ship left the field during the night and Lindbergh's plane was the only one to find Maywood in the fog.

The parachute jump makes Lindbergh the only three-time member of the Caterpillar Club, an organization composed of flyers who have saved their lives by jumping from airplanes. Several years ago Lindbergh and another flyer jumped 5000 feet after their pursuit ships had collided at an army field. Later, at Lambert-St. Louis Field, Lindbergh jumped from a spinning plane at 300 feet—one of the shortest jumps on record—and landed safely.

Maj. William B. Robertson, president of the contract carrying company, said today that the loss of the plane, worth $7500, would not hamper service, since four other ships of the same kind are available.

"I think Lindbergh's experience shows the devotion our flyers have to their mail," he said. "Even with the interrupted flight of last night our service has a completed flight record of 99 per cent for our five months of operation and that figure is not equaled even on the Federal line."

SPEEDY TRIAL FOR 4 HELD FOR HALL MURDER SOUGHT

Special Prosecutor to Ask for Jury to Hear Evidence in Killing of Pastor and Choir Singer.

DEFENDANTS TO BE ARRAIGNED TODAY

State Said to Have Witness Who Saw Henry Stevens at Scene When Crime Was Committed.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Following the return of indictments by the Somerset County (N. J.) grand jury, for the murder, Sept. 14, 1922, of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, his choir singer, the investigation of the four-year-old case produced yesterday the following developments:

State Senator Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor, announced the State had a witness who definitely placed Henry Stevens, retired broker, brother of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, and one of the four indicted, at the scene of the crime.

At Simpson's request, Chief Justice Gummer promised to convoke the Supreme Court at Trenton Thursday to hear Simpson's motion or a petit jury to try Mrs. Hall, her two brothers and her cousin for the murder of her husband and Mrs. Mills.

Simpson directed Prosecutor Bergen of Somerset County again to recall the April grand jury to consider perjury charges against several witnesses.

May Commit Mrs. Hall to Jail.

It was reported that Mrs. Hall ould be recommitted to jail today hen she, with the other three defendants, are arraigned before Supreme Court Justice Parker.

New testimony disclosed placed Ralph V. M. Gorsline and Mrs. Minna Clark, former member of Dr. Hall's choir, in the role of spying on Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills.

Speculation regarding the strength of the State's case against Henry Stevens, brother of Mrs. Hall, who until his arrest at his home in Lavallette, N. J., Wednesday night and his incarceration in the Somerset County jail in Somerville, N. J., shortly after midnight yesterday morning, had never yet been arrested or directly accused of participation in the murder of his brother-in-law and Mrs. Mills, is all the more widespread because of the unexpectedness of his indictment.

Places Stevens at Scene.

"There seems to be some doubt," declared Senator Simpson, "that we placed Henry Stevens actually on the scene of the murder when it was committed. Stevens was there. We have had a witness right along that saw him on the scene of the crime."

Asked if this witness had testified before the grand jury, he replied, "Of course, he did," but refused to give his name.

Ever since the combined efforts of Inspector Underwood, Capt. Harry Walsh and others of the Jersey City detectives investigating the Hall-Mills case succeeded in breaking down Gorsline a few days ago so that he abandoned the denials of four years and admitted that he had been with Miss Catherine Rastall, another member of the choir, in De Russey's Lane the night of the murder and had heard four shots and a woman's screams and moans, the report has persisted despite official denials, that he gave the police the name of a man he saw at the scene of the crime.

Gorsline Faces Perjury Charge.

Simpson's statements indicate that Gorsline is one of the persons against whom the grand jury will be asked on Monday to return indictments charging perjury.

"Gorsline has not told all he knows," Simpson said. "I do not think he is telling the truth. I don't guess it; I know it, and I can produce the proof."

The coupling of Gorsline's name with that of Mrs. Minna Clark, another member of Dr. Hall's choir, in the statements which Simpson last night disclosed had been made to the investigators by an aunt and cousin of Mrs. Clark, further strengthened the report that Simpson would seek to have Gorsline indicted for perjury and gave rise to the report that the grand jury would be asked to consider the sworn statements of Mrs. Clark.

Mrs. Clark, questioned by the investigators at State police headquarters in Somerville some time ago, denied any knowledge of the love affair between Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills, and denied also, according to the police, that she had ever carried any reports or letters exchanged by the two to Mrs. Hall.

Trailed Pair in Auto.

However, Mrs. Clark's cousin and aunt have made statements to the police that they saw Gorsline and Mrs. Clark trailing Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills in an automobile and spying on them from behind bushes.

The name of Mrs. Clark's aunt is not disclosed. The cousin referred to is Mrs. Mary Demarest, one of the mystery witnesses who appeared before the grand jury Wednesday and is said to have tes-

State Said to Have Witness Who Saw Henry Stevens at Scene When Crime Was Committed.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Following the return of indictments by the Somerset County (N. J.) grand jury, for the murder, Sept. 14, 1922, of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, his choir singer, the investigation of the four-year-old case produced yesterday the following developments:

State Senator Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor, announced the State had a witness who definitely placed Henry Stevens, retired, broker, brother of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, and one of the four indicted, at the scene of the crime.

At Simpson's request, Chief Justice Gummer promised to convoke the Supreme Court at Trenton Thursday to hear Simpson's motion for a petit jury to try Mrs. Hall, her two brothers and her cousin for the murder of her husband and Mrs. Mills.

Simpson directed Prosecutor Bergen of Somerset County again to recall the April grand jury to consider perjury charges against several witnesses.

May Commit Mrs. Hall to Jail.

It was reported that Mrs. Hall would be recommitted to jail today when she, with the other three defendants, are arraigned before Supreme Court Justice Parker.

New testimony disclosed placed Ralph V. M. Gorsline and Mrs. Minna Clark, former member of Dr. Hall's choir, in the role of spying on Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills.

Speculation regarding the strength of the State's case against Henry Stevens, brother of Mrs. Hall, who until his arrest at his home in Lavallette, N. J., Wednesday night and his incarceration in the Somerset County jail in Somerville, N. J., shortly after midnight yesterday morning, had never yet been arrested or directly accused of participation in the murder of his brother-in-law and Mrs. Mills, is all the more widespread because of the unexpectedness of his indictment.

Places Stevens at Scene.

"There seems to be some doubt," declared Senator Simpson, "that we placed Henry Stevens actually on the scene of the murder when it was committed. Stevens was there. We have had a witness right along that saw him on the scene of the crime."

Asked if this witness had testified before the grand jury, he replied, "Of course, he did," but refused to give his name.

Ever since the combined efforts of Inspector Underwood, Capt. Harry Walsh and others of the Jersey City detectives investigating the Hall-Mills case succeeded in breaking down Gorsline a few days ago so that he abandoned the denials of four years and admitted that he had been with Miss Catherine Rastall, another member of the choir, in De Russey's Lane the night of the murder and had heard four shots and a woman's screams and moans, the report has persisted despite official denials, that he gave the police the name of a man he saw at the scene of the crime.

Gorsline Faces Perjury Charge.

Simpson's statements indicate that Gorsline is one of the persons against whom the grand jury will be asked on Monday to return indictments charging perjury.

"Gorsline has not told all he knows," Simpson said. "I do not think he is telling the truth. I don't guess it; I know it, and I can produce the proof."

The coupling of Gorsline's name with that of Mrs. Minna Clark, another member of Dr. Hall's choir, in the statements which Simpson last night disclosed had been made to the investigators by an aunt and cousin of Mrs. Clark, further strengthened the report that Simpson would seek to have Gorsline indicted for perjury and gave rise to the report that the grand jury would be asked to consider the sworn statements of Mrs. Clark.

Mrs. Clark, questioned by the investigators at State police headquarters in Somerville some time ago, denied any knowledge of the love affair between Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills, and denied also, according to the police, that she had ever carried any reports or letters exchanged by the two to Mrs. Hall.

Trailed Pair in Auto.

However, Mrs. Clark's cousin and aunt have made statements to the police that they saw Gorsline and Mrs. Clark trailing Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills in an automobile and spying on them from behind bushes.

The name of Mrs. Clark's aunt was not disclosed. The cousin referred to is Mrs. Mary Demarest, one of the mystery witnesses who appeared before the grand jury Wednesday and is said to have testified that she saw Henry Stevens in New Brunswick early the morning of the day after the murders and that she overheard Gorsline threatening to expose Mrs. Mills' relations with Dr. Hall unless she consented to go out with him.

Mrs. Henry Stevens drove up from Lavalette yesterday afternoon and visited her husband in the Somerset County Jail in Somerville. She remained inside the jail two hours. When she came out she posed for photographers and greeted the reporters with whom she became acquainted during the surveillance maintained over her husband by deputy sheriffs of Ocean County for the two weeks preceding his indictment and arrest.

Sink or Swim Together.

Asked if her husband would have the same group of lawyers as his sister, Mrs. Hall, his eccentric brother, Willie, and his cousin, Henry De La Bruyere Carpender, all of whom are named in the indictments, Mrs. Stevens replied:

"Yes, we are all pretty keen on one another and we will sink or swim, survive or perish, together."

Mrs. Stevens was not at home the night of the murders and cannot personally support by her testimony the alibi her husband set up and which Senator Simpson says has been cracked by himself and the Jersey City police, but she expresses her implicit belief that he is not guilty.

First Visit Since Funeral.

After leaving the jail Mrs. Stevens paid her first visit to Mr. Hall since the funeral of Dr. Hall. She remained in the house only five minutes and told reporters when she came out that Mrs. Hall was pale from her voluntary confinement in her home since her arrest, July 28, and her release two days later in $15,000 bail. She also said Mrs. Hall was nervous, but attributed this to the fact that she drank so much black coffee.

Mrs. Stevens did not actually deny reports of coolness between herself and Mrs. Hall, but explained that they were as friendly as could be expected considering the distance they lived apart. New Brunswick, where Mrs. Hall lives, is between 45 and 50 miles by automobile from Lavalettte, the home of Mrs. Stevens.

Senator Simpson, when asked about the possibility of Mrs. Hall joining her three relatives in the Somerset County Jail, said it would be up to Justice Parker and said that, so far as he personally was concerned, he saw no reason for now putting her in jail. He did say, however, that he thought her bail ought to be increased if she was permitted to remain at liberty.

FACING ARREST IN KIDNAPING INQUIRY

MRS. AIMEE McPHERSON.

DR. JAMES R. ADAMS FUNERAL TO BE AT 2 P. M. SUNDAY

Overseas Veteran Died at Montgomery City From Effects of Being Gassed.

The funeral of Dr. James R. Adams, 32 years old, overseas veteran, who died yesterday at Montgomery City, Mo., of a lung infection caused by being gassed, will be at 2 p. m. Sunday from an undertaker's chapel at 3732 South Grand boulevard, with burial in Sunset Burial Park.

Dr. Adams, a former St. Louisan, is the son of James W. Adams, 3312 Bamberger avenue. He was educated at St. Louis University and practiced dentistry here until the war when he became a medical lieutenant with the 89th Field Artillery. He was an amateur athlete and baseball player here. His widow and two children survive him.

Diamond Holdup in Chicago.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—A handbag containing $50,000 worth of diamonds set in rings, was stolen from Gustav Englesmann, New York jeweler salesman, at a busy South Side intersection today, he reported to police. Englesmann said he had just emerged from a store when he was greeted by a stranger with a cherry "hello!" Stopping, Englesmann said he was confronted with a revolver and his handbag taken by the man who fled in an automobile.

ILLNESS DELAYS PLAN TO ARREST MRS. M'PHERSON

Doctor Says Evangelist Will Be in Serious Condition Three Days With Infection of Nose.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 17.—The reported serious illness of Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist of Angelus Temple—which developed shortly after District Attorney Keyes announced he would issue a warrant for her arrest—today threatens to delay the third investigation of her mysterious disappearance last May 18. After five weeks she turned up in Arizona with a story of having been kidnaped and taken into Mexico.

Reports of Mrs. McPherson's illness Wednesday were followed by her collapse at an Angelus Temple service yesterday and the subsequent announcement of her doctor that a dangerous infection of the nose might cause death if complications developed. The infection was said to be an abscess, close to the brain.

The physician said that although Mrs. McPherson's temperature had dropped from 102 last night, it would be three days before the danger would be past.

Five Accused of Conspiracy.

Keyes said yesterday that he had prepared complaints charging five persons in the case with conspiracy to defeat justice. He named Mrs. McPherson, her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, Kenneth G. Ormiston, former Angelus Temple radio operator and friend of the evangelist; John Doe Martin and Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Sielaff.

Mrs. Sielaff was named following her statement that she was hired by Mrs. McPherson to arrange the "Miss X" hoax, whereby she (Mrs. Sielaff) was to masquerade as the companion of Ormiston during a 10-day sojourn at a cottage at Carmel, Cal., shortly after the evangelist disappeared. Mrs. Sielaff named a "Mr. Martin" as the man who first asked her to undertake the "Miss X" role. It is alleged that Ormiston's wife was then about to sue for a divorce, naming Mrs. McPherson as corespondent.

As soon as the warrant for Ormiston's arrest is placed in the hands of detectives for service, he will surrender, if promised immunity, his attorney, S. S. Hahn, has announced. Ormiston was said to be near Los Angeles and in readiness to face the charges.

Says He Saw "Kidnaping."

A new witness came into the case last night. Harry C. Swift, a truck driver, who claimed to have witnessed the kidnaping of the evangelist from Ocean Park Beach, told Keyes that the persons who took her away in an automobile were Ormiston and her mother. Swift made a detailed statement.

Joe Watts, said to have posed as "Steve," one of the evangelist's alleged abductors, was confronted in the District Attorney's office last night by his accuser, Miss Bernice Morris. Watts was named by Miss Morris, formerly private secretary to the late R. A. McKinley, blind attorney, as the man whose voice and photograph were recognized by Mrs. McPherson as one of her kidnapers. Watts denied that he had any knowledge of the case but admitted Miss Morris had taken his photograph.

Other witnesses questioned yesterday were Mrs. E. J. Frame, admitted go-between for Mrs. McPherson and Mrs. Sielaff, Miss Morris and Miss Emma Schaffer, the evangelist's secretary.

MOTHER OF THREE ENDS LIFE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BEARDSTOWN, Ill., Sept. 17.—What police said was a clandestine love affair between the wife of a railroad engineer and the dispatcher who gave him his orders ended in tragedy here today when Mrs. Mary Young, mother of three children, shot and killed herself with a shotgun as she sat in her admirer's automobile.

"Buck" Renfrew, who was standing beside the machine, was taken into custody, while police made an investigation.

BOMB TEARS HOLE IN HOME OF BLAND (MO.) SHOE PLANT MAN

Note Signed "K. K. K. Boys" Warns Him to Leave Town in Five Days.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BLAND, Mo., Sept. 17.—A dynamite bomb, placed on a window sill of the two-story frame home of George H. Brodt, superintendent of the International Shoe Co. plant here, this morning, tore a large hole in the front wall and smashed windows in several nearby residences.

Brodt was in St. Louis at the time, and his wife and daughter, sleeping in a distant part of the house, escaped injury. A note was nailed to the front gate which read, "This is just a little shake-up, but if you don't leave town in five days, something serious will happen."

The note was signed "K. K. K. Boys," but it is not believed that the klan had anything to do with it. The opinion is that the dynamiting was the work of a disgruntled factory employe. Bloodhounds will be brought from Moberly in an attempt to trail the dynamiter.

TWO INSURANCE COMPANIES FIGHT ST. LOUIS TAX LEVY

Deny City's Right to Tax Reserves Which State Requires Them to Deposit.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 17.—A test of the right of insurance companies to deduct reserves required by law from their returns for taxation was instituted in the Supreme Court today in petitions filed by the American National Assurance Co. and the Missouri Insurance Co., asking for review of alleged arbitrary assessments of their personal property by Assessor Gehner of St. Louis and the St. Louis Board of Equalization.

The assessments are for 1926 taxes. The companies contend they are entitled to deduct from their returns their reserves, deposited with the State Insurance Department. The city contends the law under which this was done is unconstitutional and assessed the personal property of each of the companies at $50,000, although there is a wide variance in their total assets.

The American National Assurance Co. made a return of $1,026,998: including money on hand, notes and bonds, but claimed a deduction of $1,518,471, covering its reserves deposited with the State, and $19,750 in unpaid death claims. On this basis the company contended it had no assets subject to taxation.

A return of $354,265 for money and bonds was filed by the Missouri Insurance Co., and it claimed deductions of $333,486 for reserves, leaving a balance of $20,778 subject to assessment.

CAPT. FONCK IS DELAYED AGAIN

WESTBURY, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Bad luck has causde another postponement of Capt. Fonck's non-stop flight from New York to Paris.

After a leak in one of the gasoline tanks of the big Sikorsky biplane had caused a last-minute postponement of the hop-off yesterday, the departure was scheduled for this morning, only to be called off a few hours later when weather reports were received, telling of threatening conditions over the Grand Banks off Newfoundland.

Liquor Nets Canada $5,339,394.

MONTREAL, Sept. 17.—Receipts of the Liquor Commission for the fiscal year ending April 30 aggregated $5,339,394, according to an official report. This included $3,500,000 on trade accounts and $1,839,394 for licenses to hotels, restaurants and beer saloons.

WOMAN KILLED IN FALL FROM AUTO AFTER BEER PARTY

Mrs. Isabelle Bell, 52, Struck Phone Pole as Car Went Into Ditch After Ride in County.

Mrs. Isabelle Bell, 52 years old, 7144 Colorado avenue, the mother of two grown sons, went joy-riding in St. Louis County yesterday afternoon, according to the story told by her companion, Thelma Hazard, 16 years old, 7806 Alabama avenue, and was killed at 4:30 p. m. when thrown from the automobile she had hired at Telegraph and Jefferson Barracks roads.

The driver, John S. Smith, 27 years old, of 212 Viehl street, St. Luis County, was held for homicide today by a Coroner's jury, after Miss Hazard had testified that both Smith and Mrs. Bell were intoxicated. The girl said Smith and Mrs. Bell were in the front seat and she in the tonneau. When they reached the Telegraph-Barracks road intersection, Smith's machine left the pavement and hit a bump.

Mrs. Bell was hurled from the car, her head striking a telephone pole. She died of a fractured skull. Smith and Miss Hazard were not injured.

The girl told police that Mrs. Bell had called for her early in the afternoon and had expressed the desire for an auto ride. They rode to Manion's Park on South Broadway by street car, and there Mrs. Bell hired Smith, a service car driver. Miss Hazard declares Mrs. Bell ordered Smith to find a place where home brew might be purchased and they stopped at three places, drinking in each. On the way back to town, Miss Hazard asserted, Smith and Mrs. Bell treated each other affectionately, and the car was running fast.

The dead woman's husband, John, a laborer, said his wife had left their home yesterday morning, telling him she was going to gather wild grapes in the county.

Young Woman Steps From Behind Street Car; Hit By Auto.

Miss Elizabeth Middendorf, 27 years old, of 1938 Arsenal street, suffered possible skull fracture and severe cuts when she stepped behind a street car at Jefferson and St. Louis avenue yesterday, and was hit by an automobile following in the car track. The driver, George M. Cherry, of 6470 San Bonita avenue, was arrested.

Runaway Boy Taken at Exposition

Clem Harper, 12 years old, who said he ran away from his home in Logan, Ok., five months ago, was found near the exposition gates in Forest Park at closing time last night by policemen, who questioned him. He had no funds and declared he had started to make his own way because he didn't "like it at home." He was placed in the House of Detention, pending word from his father.

Cards, "Worth $1,000,000" If They Win the Pennant, Cost Owners Only $39,000

Branch Rickey Tells How Scouting and Minor League Farming Held Down Expense of Acquiring Players Now in Thick of Fight.

Baseball, as Branch Rickey remarked to a room full of Rotarians at the City Club yesterday, has its financial, civic and idealistic aspects. The Cardinals, now going great guns for a pennant, represent an initial investment of only $39,000 for the 31 players on the roster. If the Cards win the pennant, they will be worth at a conservative estimate $1,000,000 or more to their owners.

That's the financial aspect of baseball. Rickey, as vice president of the club and its chief scout, is in a position to tell how the Cardinals by their location at the top of the National League have amassed an unearned increment which make the profits from real estate, peanuts, tin buttons, shoes and drygoods seem paltry. The Rotarians heard Rickey's speech in silence, broken by hopeful cheers whenever he suggested that the Cards were as good as IN.

"The Cardinals were built into a winning ball club" Rickey said, "by a careful scouting system and the use of minor league farms to develop young players." He did not say that this system was founded by Branch Rickey, but hurried on to other aspects of baseball.

Team Gathered Cheaply.

However, it will be recalled that the Cardinals by "paying a nickel here and a nickel there and trading all the time," as baseball writers describe it, gathered their team cheaply. Rogers Hornsby cost them $500. They got Douthit, Rhem, Hafey and Holm from college at no cost. Lester Bell was bought for $2500, Thevenow cost $4,000 and the great Alexander cos the same amount. O'Farrell represented an expenditure of about $8,000. Bottomley came to them free of charge. One of their most extravagant purchases was Jess Haines who came from Kansas City for $10,000. Fine players all—their names will have a golden luster if the world's series comes to St. Louis.

Baseball managements are not always so fortunate in assembling a team, Rickey pointed out.

He mentioned that Charles Comiskey had spent about $500,000 trying to make a pennant winner of the White Sox in four years. Connie Mack has invested that much or more in the Philadelphia Athletics. Neither has a pennant winner or even a pennant contender.

The Cardinals control three minor league teams—Syracuse, in the International League; Houston, in the Texas League, and Fort Smith, in the Western Association. Young players Rickey picks up in tank towns, city sandlots or colleges are sent to these teams for seasoning. When deemed ready for big time, they are tried out by the Cardinals. If they deliver, they are signed without other than a nominal sum being allocated to the minor league team which sent them to St. Louis.

"We have three young players now who can take the places of the present outfielders and play just as well," Rickey asserted. "Our system has given us a wealth of young reserve material so the team cannot go to pieces on us in a season by aging of the regulars."

Civic Aspect Explained.

His explanation of the civic aspect of baseball needed no lengthy illustrations. "Here we are, all pulling for a pennant," he declared. "We have a common community interest." The Rotarians cheered. All over town yesterday, St. Louisans in brotherly groups were standing before radio announcers and scoreboards. Shirt-sleeved yeomen, they, with a common destiny, a mutual hope, facing high crises together.

"I don't want this meeting to turn into a ticket-begging session," the speaker warned, genially. "Mr. Breadon is in charge of the tickets. He is going to see to it that our regular patrons are given first consideration. How many here are regular patrons?"

Every man in the room put up his hand, and there were in the number Rotarians from Idaho, Ohio, Arkansas and Vermont.

"We are trying our best to please everybody, but that can't be done," Rickey went on. "We have four applicants for every seat. It is getting to be a tough job to figure some way of defeating the scalpers. One business firm here sent in a list of 1000 names and wished a block of 1000 seats for each game. In many instances, we suspect, scalpers have hired individuals to apply for tickets. We are studying the lists in an effort to sort out genuine applicants who have been our regular customers for years."

Then the speaker turned to the idealistic aspects of baseball, saying:

"If this Cardinal team wins the pennant, it will be the cleanest-living team that ever topped a big league race. I know the men on the Cardinal club. Largely, they are gentlemen. Most of them live fine, clean lives. We must keep professional sport clean, not only because adult fans demand it, but because of 20,000,000 boys, who make heroes of baseball players. I feel that if the Cardinals win the pennant it will be a victory for clean living in baseball. That is the finest victory of all."

SLAYER OF FRIEND OVER DOG CLEARED

Clarence Sweeny Testifies at Inquest James McCarthy Attacked Him With Pistol.

Clarence Sweeny, 25 years old, of 1503 North Grand boulevard, who shot and killed his lifelong friend, James McCarthy, 24, of 4008 Garfield avenue, after McCarthy had threatened to kill Sweeny's Great Dane show dog, Brownie, and had attacked Sweeny with the butt end of a revolver, was exonerated today by a Coroner's jury, which returned a verdict of "homicide in self defense."

The slayer, his head and nose bandaged to cover wounds suffered in the desperate struggle with McCarthy for possession of the revolver, took the witness stand and described the fight, which occurred about 2 a. m. yesterday at Grand boulevard and Easton avenue. He testified that McCarthy, after they had words, went home for a revolver and returning, attacked him without provocation.

McCarthy was shot four times, twice in the abdomen and twice in the right arm, dying on the sidewalk where he fell. Sweeny was beaten on the nose, face and head by his friend, and a City Hospital physician testified today that seven stitches had to be taken in Sweeny's wounds.

On the stand Sweeny repeated the story he had told police. He said he and Robert Stack of 1523 North Grand boulevard, and the dog, Brownie, had driven to the Grand-Easton corner, where Sweeny and the dog got out for a walk. They encountered McCarthy and Sweeny said he was certain McCarthy had been drinking. A "kidding contest" began, which ended in hot words between Sweeny and McCarthy. The latter then left the corner and returned in about five minutes.

"I was standing in a doorway with my dog," Sweeny said, "when McCarthy rushed at me and hit me over the nose with the butt of a revolver. We grappled and I tried to get the revolver away from him. He fired a shot at me and missed. I took the revolver away and backing off fired four times at him."

The fact that McCarthy had left and returned was corroborated by the testimony of Stack, who left the scene before the fight started. That there was a struggle for a revolver between Sweeny and McCarthy found substantiation in the testimony of William Whalen, 1408 North Grand boulevard, and Otto Tezlaff of 1440 North Grand boulevard.

SECRET WEDDING ENDS IN SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. Elizabeth Wright Simmons, Who Eloped After Dance, Charges Indignities.

A divorce suit, growing out of a secret wedding and subsequent separation, was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Mrs. Elizabeth Wright Simmons, 20 years old, through her uncle, Guy H. Wright, as guardian, against William D. Simmons Jr., of Tuscaloosa, Ala.

They met at a dance and eloped in March, 1925. Their marriage was not disclosed until the late summer, when Mrs. Simmons left her uncle's home at 501 Clara avenue to join her husband in Memphis, Tenn., where he had entered the grain business. She returned before the month was over.

The petition charges general indignities, particularly that Simmons was sullen, quarrelsome, failed to display affection, and failed to support his wife. They married March 21, 1925, and parted Sept. 10, of the same year.

Simmons' parents live at 5085 Raymond avenue. He entered an appearance through an attorney, being now in Tuscaloosa. Mrs. Simmons is a daughter of the late W. I. Wright, president of the T. Wright Cigar Co. Her uncle is president of the Thomas Wright Investment Co. and manager of the Liberty Central Bank Building.

CONSTABLE AND COMPANION ACCUSED OF TAKING BRIBE

A "roadside court," which has been the subject of complaint by motorists for the last six months, was broken up last night, in the opinion of East St. Louis Deputy Sheriffs who arrested Constable George Swarts of Centerville Township and his companion, Eugene Latinette, after they had accepted $10 in marked money from C. A. Moore of 1724 College avenue, East St. Louis.

Warrants were issued charging Swarts and Latinette with accepting a bribe. Each was released on $1000 bond.

Moore and three other men told the deputies they had been approached Wednesday night by Swarts and Latinette when sitting with women in two automobiles on Forty-second street, near Lake drive, in St. Clair County.

Swarts and Latinette, they said, took $30 Wednesday night and made an appointment with them for last night to obtain $80 additional. The deputies went with the complainants to keep the appointment last night and the arrests followed.

THREE STILLS FOUND IN HOME

Three small stills, 1000 gallons of rye mash and 110 gallons of moonshine whisky were seized by Federal prohibition agents late yesterday in a raid on the home of William Mehl, 1329 LaSalle street.

Mehl, according to Chief Agent Dillon, said, following his arrest, he was "just getting ready for the holiday business." He was released on $1000 bond to answer a charge of possession of the contraband.

PUPILS LOSE THEIR LUNCH MONEY ON SLOT MACHINES

Principal's Investigation Results in Confiscation of Device by Policeman.

Questioning some of her pupils who remained in the class rooms at noontime, instead of going out for luncheon, Mrs. Mary Baker, principal of the Pestalozzi School, Seventh and Barry streets, yesterday learned that they had for several days lost their luncheon allowance in a slot machine in a confectionery nearby.

A policeman, who was called by Mrs. Baker, learned that the present proprietor of the store had had it only two days. She said a penny slot machine had been left there for her by the previous proprietor. The machine was confiscated by the police, but it was said no prosecution of the new owner of the store would be attempted.

After being bitten on the hand by a hairy spider, which he thought might be a tarantula, in the Armour & Co. garage at 1011 North Twelfth street, Edward Peschke, 66 years old, of 3955 Page boulevard, ran to Carr Street Police Station and applied for treatment.

He was taken to city hospital, where physicians treated the wound to prevent poisoning.

ONTINUANCE OF EXPOSITION FOR ONE WEEK LIKELY

Exhibitors Decided on Move if 80 Per Cent of Number Agree to Leave Displays Intact.

It appeared certain today that the Greater St. Louis Exposition would be continued from its announced closing date, Sunday night, through next week, to make sure that the Chamber of Commerce guarantors would suffer no loss, and to give the Chamber a rofit, if possible.

Exhibitors decided yesterday that if 80 per cent of their number would agree to keeping their exhibits intact that the exposition would be continued. Carl F. G. Meyer, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said today that a canvass was disclosing a large majority in favor of another week.

In that event, certain of the entertainment features would be cut and a general admission of 50 cents would admit to all parts of the grounds.

Would Suspend Frivolities.

The Exposition Frivolities being given at night in the arena would be suspended, but the sham battle and fireworks display continued without extra charge. The night rices to the arena have been 50 ents, $1.10 and $1.50.

John S. Berger, promoter of the enterprise, would retire Sunday night and the extra week would be under the direction of William T. Findly, secretary of the Chamber.

Berger and the exhibitors have not been in harmony. There has been a running dispute between hem, chiefly over the number of dmission tickets exhibitors were o be allowed. Berger, who was to have had one-half of any profit as compensation for nearly two years' work, insured himself to the extent of selling one-half of his interest for $35,000 to Ben G. Brinkman, banker and owner of Forest Park Highlands, as told yesterday.

400 Entries for Baby Show.

Today is Baby day, with a baby show for which there are 400 entries, to be held in a tent at the northeast corner of the grounds. The mothers of the boy babies will act as judges of the girl babies and the mothers of girl babies will judge the boys. About 100 prizes donated by merchants will be distributed.

Women's patriotic organizations will be in charge of tomorrow's rogram. The chief feature will e a parade in which decorated automobiles will be seen. The parade will be formed on Kingshighway, near Barnes Hospital, at 2:30 p. m. and will go north to Lindell, thence west over Grand drive to the Clayton road entrance to the exposition. Soldiers, sailors and Boy Scouts will march. Albert T. Perkins and Mrs. J. M. Long head committees for the celebration.

ELLON RETURNS, DENIES DISCUSSING DEBTS ABROAD

Reiterates His Visits With Statesmen Were Social Affairs—Found Mussolini Interesting.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—After unusual precautions had been taken to shield Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon from reporters and photographers on his arrival today from abroad, the secretary talked to newspaper men. He declined to discuss European affairs and said his trip abroad had merely been a pleasure and vacation tour. At no time had he discussed issues of national or international character, he said, although he had met a number of statesmen, including Premier Mussolini of Italy at Rome.

The secretary arrived on the erengaria. He was taken off the iner at quarantine on a special revenue cutter. With Mellon were his son, Paul, and James McKay, a schoolmate of his son.

Told that certain interviews had een attributed to him abroad he replied: "I made no statements while abroad."

"Did you discuss the French debt situation with Premier Briand or other French men?" he was asked.

"No, I did not discuss or say anything on the French debt. I met a number of men in political and governmental circles in Paris and other cities of France but in every case they were purely social calls."

Mellon boarded a train for Washington.

URGES DISTRICT PLAN INSTEAD OF MERGER

Judge Hodgdon Suggests St. Louis Copy the Example of Boston.

Sam D. Hodgdon, Probate Judge of St. Louis County, in a talk against the proposed city-county merger, in the public school at Jennings last night, argued that some of the benefits sought could be obtained by establishing a metropolitan district for certain improvements. Judge Hodgdon pointed to Boston as an example of such development. Boston, he said, is made up of a group of small cities, and under a district plan the physical improvements of common concern have been furnished without destroying the sovereignty of the smaller communities. He said the same plan was being considered by Philadelphia, Pittsburg and Cincinnati, all of which, he said, have suburbs which refuse to be annexed.

"There are nine Detroit suburbs containing about 200,000 people that are not a part of Detroit," he added, "and there are 74 suburban cities in Cook County, containing 312,000 people, that are not part of Chicago.

City Pays for the Sewer.

"Both this county and the city are polluting the River des Peres and the county is and always has been willing to pay its share of the cost of building sanitary sewers to avoid further pollution of this stream."

This work is now being done, from the 1923 bond issue, wholly at the cost of St. Louis.

Judge Hodgdon said the city separated from the county to escape paying county road taxes, in buggy and wagon days when roads were merely a matter of local concern. The city is still unwilling to pay a county road tax, he added, citing the vote a few years ago against a proposed outer park system of roadways, to be paid for by taxing the county and city. The county voted "yes" on the proposal."

Fears Higher Taxes.

Higher taxes in some St. Louis County school districts than in the city of St. Louis are cited by Joseph C. McAtee, Clayton attorney and a member of the recent Board of Freeholders, as an argument against the proposed city-county merger. In a letter to the St. Louis Board of Education, McAtee asks whether the board thinks it can conduct the Webster Groves schools, now supported by a tax of $2.35 on the $100 valuation, on the 88-cent city tax. He asks the same question as to the Kirkwood schools, with a tax rate of $1.95; Maplewood, $2.10; Clayton, $1.25; Ferguson, $1.45, and University City, $1.39.

CAPPER WOULD HAVE CONGRESS MEET BUT ONCE IN FIVE YEARS

In New York Speech Urges Understanding Between Industrial East and Agricultural West.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—A plea for a better understanding between the industrial East and the agricultural West was made by Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas, speaking before the Rotary Club here. The East, within a 500-mile radius of New York City, and comprising 50 per cent of the country's population, produces 23 per cent of the essential raw material and receives 15 per cent of the profit, he said. The rest of the country, mainly the West, which produces 77 per cent of the raw material, receives but 14 per cent of the profit.

The Senator expressed the opinion that this country has too many laws and said he believed it would be better if Congress met only once every five years.

LEAVES FORTUNE TO COLLEGES

Will of J. F. Howard's Second Wife Creates Scholarships.

By the Associated Press.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 17.—The wealth of the late Mrs. Eleanor Phillips Howard, wife of John F. Howard, millionaire salad dressing manufacturer, will be utilized, after certain bequests have been distributed, to provide scholarships in small Wisconsin Protestant colleges. The will has been filed for probate here.

All bequests are subject to a possible judgment in a $125,000 alienation suit against Mrs. Howard by Mrs. Margaret Howard, first wife of the manufacturer.

OBJECTION TO RADIO SERMONS

Pittsburg (Pa.) Presbytery Says They Cut Church Attendance.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 17.—Broadcasting of Sunday sermons by Pittsburg radio stations has so cut into the attendance of churches in the Kiskiminetas Presbytery that United Presbyterian churches have requested the stations to discontinue putting sermons on the air.

Beauty Shop Girls Seek Boost.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Five hundred manipulators of beauty are threatening to strike unless their demand for increased wages is met. Through W. S. Leidig, president of the Master Barbers' Union, they asked their employers for a $35-a-week minimum wage. The increased drain on the customer's pocketboog for permanents, marcels, facials and many other beauty parlor formulas, the girls outlined as sufficient cause for their action. At present, they said, they receive an average of $15 a week. Counsel for the Master Hairdressers' Association have called a mass meeting to discuss the demands.

STRIKING PUPILS SENT TO SCHOOL UNDER PROTEST

Parents' Organization of Franklin District Decide on Course Pending Action at Law.

Four hundred striking pupils, according to Fred Weissmann, chairman of the Parents and Patrons of Franklin School, were back in school yesterday under protest following a decision that to keep them out longer would retard them in their studies. Weissmann, on Wednesday night, was elected chairman of the permanent organization of patrons protesting against the transfer of pupils from Franklin School and the changing of the school to a vocational school for the seventh, eighth and ninth grades. The organization decided to ask for a charter to facilitate legal action, if necessary, to regain Franklin School for grade school pupils of the district.

"We contend that the change is impractical even from the point of view of the School Board. Of course, the best way to prove it to the board is to let them try the change for a while. We are satisfied that soon or late they will discover Franklin School is best for Franklin pupils, and not as a vocational school.

"But we are not going to wait After the cool reception the board gave us Tuesday night we put several lawyers to work. There is a point of law which may induce the board to turn the school back to us."

When the strike began, on the opening of schools for the fall term last week, parents left the notices of transfer for their children with Weissmann, who sent to the board notice of the parents' refusal to accept the transfers. Weissman said he still had about 30 of the transfer notices. He said he would return these to the parents with the advice that they accept them under protest.

Accidents of administration have occurred, parents say, incident to transfer of several hundred children. They cite the placing of some children who had passed the sixth grade in a school where the sixth grade was the highest taught.

Weissman said he sent a woman to the board offices yesterday with a letter explaining that although her son was only 6 years old, and therefore eligible to enter one of the three rooms retained at the Franklin School for smaller children, he had been transferred to a school five blocks away from his home, while Franklin School was only a block away.

The protest against separation of small children from big brothers or sisters began three weeks ago when news of the change leaked out at the close of summer school. The board had decided on its course a month earlier. Official notices were not received by the parents until the Saturday before school opened on the Tuesday following Labor day.

BUSINESS DEALS WITH NIXON TOLD TO JURY BY FARMERS

Money Brought Into Loan Company By Lure of High Interest, They Testify.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOONVILLE, Mo., Sept. 17.—Central Missouri farmers are appearing before the Cooper County grand jury to tell of the business relations with C. W. Nixon, whose farm loan company failed after he departed for California. Twenty witnesses have been called and there may be 25 more to be questioned. It was chiefly the lure of high interest rates that brought out the money. One man has told how Nixon offered 8 and 10 per cent.

Those who lost, or who may lose in the Nixon failure, drew upon funds which were not active in the town and none of the Boonville banks or stores will suffer by the loss. Among those who have appeared before the grand jury was Robert E. Waterfield, a Cooper County farmer, who explained a few days ago he had paid a note in 1923 and that Later Nixon induced his to renew the note, saying he would send the canceled paper to the Waterfield farm. Later the canceled note was shown to be in the possession of a woman investor in Boonville, who called upon Waterfield for interest.

GOV. SMITH'S NAME HEADS NEW YORK DEMOCRATIC SLATE

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Democracy's State leaders emerged today from an all-night closed conference with Gov. Smith confident that he would seek re-election for a fourth term. His name was on a slate which it was stated was agreed upon at the conference. The Governor himself made no announcement.

The slate of candidates to be presented for nomination at the State convention, Sept. 27, includes the name of Supreme Court Justice Robert F. Wagner of New York City to oppose United States Senator James W. Wadsworth Jr., Republican, who favors modification of the Volstead act.

Independent dry Republicans who have indorsed the candidacy of former State Senator Franklin W. Cristman for United States Senate, announced they also would place a gubernatorial candidate in the field.

5 WOMEN ARE TO BE TRIED FOR FORGERY AT COLUMBIA

Only One Man to Be Heard on Same Charge, Prosecutor Announces.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 17.—Prosecuting Attorney George S. Starrett announced today that more women than men would be tried on charges of forgery at the October term of the Boone County Circuit Court. Starrett said that five women are to be tried and only one man on the charge.

One of the cases to be tried will be that against Mrs. Brooksie Angell of Columbia, who was tried at the April term and acquitted. There are five charges pending against Mrs. Angell. The other cases are against young, unmarried women.

Free Ice Cream Cones for Children in Parks One of Reforms They Suggest.

The telephone bell rang on the desk of the Director of Public Utilities. "This is the Mayor," a voice said. "Tell the railroads to start their trains running over the Municipal Bridge not later than noon today. We'll fix up the details later."

"All right, Mr. Mayor," was the reply. "I'll have the trains running by 11 o'clock if you say so."

The Fire Chief's office got the next message. "Mr. Chief," the instructions ran, "if there should be any fire alarms today from the south side of Olive street, in the widening district, don't send any hose over there. Send the ladders and get the people out, and let the buildings burn."

"Aye, aye, sir," was the response.

Free Ice Cream Suggested.

The Park Department then heard from headquarters. "Mr. Commissioner," was the suggestion, "how about giving free ice cream cones to children in all the parks?"

"I'll have to talk to the Comptroller about it, Mr. Mayor," was the answer. "He's been very stingy lately, but maybe we can manage this."

And so the orders and inquiries went out, while the boys of the order of De Molay sat in the official chairs of the Mayor and other department heads and city officials—in office for one day only.

Walter Ploeser of 3806 Kosciusko street was the "acting Mayor." He sat in the big chair in Mayor Miller's inner office, pressed the buttons and summoned the office force, and sent them on various errands, then called up the various departments, also in charge of youthful "acting" heads.

Mayor Miller stayed around his office most of the morning, to meet visitors who wished to see him rather than his substitute, and to act in such incidental trifles as the signing of $4,000,000 worth of bonds. "Mayor" Ploeser, who writes a good hand, was willing to do the work of signing, but there were the bankers and sometimes fussy lawyers to be considered.

"Mayor" Ploeser is 20 years old, a Cleveland High School graduate employed in a real estate office and attending night classes in law and business. He intends to begin a university course in a year or two.

As an installation ceremony, Mayor Miller made a talk to Ploeser and his companions at the beginning of the business day. He told them they would have a fine chance to learn about the working of the city government—a subject on which, he said, the average citizen was none too well informed. "Mayor" Ploeser responded, telling of the ideals of the De Molay order, which is a juvenile organization under Masonic auspices. "Clean youth development" was stressed in his talk.

A visit to the Greater St. Louis Exposition was the conclusion of the day's work at the City Hall for the "Mayor" and his Cabinet.

This is the second time that the city government has been nominally turned over for a day to boys. Two years ago, Mayor Kiel and his subordinates yielded their chairs to selected members of the Boy Scouts.

Credit Men Hear Two Speakers.

Dr. W. F. Gephart, vice president of the First National Bank, and Elmo Martin of Cleveland, O., were the principal speakers at the monthly dinner meeting of the St. Louis Association of Credit Men, held at Hotel Statler last night. "The Functions of Management" was Martin's topic.

INVESTIGATION OF FERGUSON REGIME IN TEXAS ORDERED

Lower House of Legislature Votes $25,000 for Inquiry Into Road, Textbooks and Prison Boards.

By the Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 17—Charges of irregularities in the administration of State departments, which were leading issues in the two Texas primary campaigns, in which Attorney-General Dan Moody defeated Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson for renomination, will be investigated by the State Legislators.

The House of Representatives, now in special session, voted 104 to 22 yesterday for an investigation of various departments under Gov. Ferguson's regime and set aside $25,000 to finance a committee of nine in conducting the inquiry. The committee is to be appointed by the speaker and will report at the next regular session of the Legislature in January.

Gov. Ferguson called a special session of the Legislature shortly after her defeat in the July primary to validate approximately $100,000,000 of Texas road bonds, declared invalid by the Supreme Court and to "investigate any State departments deemed necessary."

In ordering the investigation, the House specified inquiries into the administration of the State Highway Commission, the Textbook Commission and Board of Pardons. The committee also was instructed to investigate the Treasury Department and Railroad Commission records relative to payment of the State gross production tax by oil and sulphur companies.

While the investigation will center on the units specified, the committee was ordered to include an inquiry of activities of members of both houses of the Legislature before all State departments.

James Ferguson, husband of the Governor, recently declared that an investigation of all departments would be welcome.

PHILALELPHIA EXPOSITION TO FIGHT SUNDAY CLOSING

Mayor Announces Fair Will Be Open on Sabbath at Least Four Weeks More.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—The Sesquicentennial Exposition will be open on Sundays for at least four more weeks, despite the opinion handed down by the Dauphin County Court at Harrisburg ordering the Exposition to close on the Sabbath.

Mayor Kendrick so declared today, and to the Mayor's statement E. L. Austin, director-general of the Exposition, added that the Fair "probably would take advantage of every legal precedent to keep running" on Sundays until the close, on Dec. 1. City Solicitor Gaffney informed the Mayor that the Court's decision did not become final until after the filing of exceptions by the Sesquicentennial Association, and that the association had 30 days in which to file its exceptions.

DEATH-BED STATEMENT REJECTED AT MURDER TRIAL

A death-bed statement, said to have been made by Goffel Nelson, 28 years old, who died in East St. Louis June 15, last, from gunshot wounds inflicted nine days before, was not admitted as evidence yesterday in the trial at Belleville of Horace Haislip, 28 years old, East St. Louis, charged with his murder, because the statement read "I believe," instead of "I know I am going to die. Circuit Judge Crow held that the statement expressed doubt as to whether Nelson would die. The State then nolle prossed the charge against Haislip.

Nelson was shot six times in the right leg and side and left on the steps of St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, by unknown persons.

SESQUI EXPOSITION PAGEANT

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—The 139th anniversary of the ratification of the Constitution was celebrated here today, opening a two-days' program of patriotic pageantry and ceremony.

A parade on Old High street at the Sesquicentennial Exposition this afternoon was planned to represent the original procession through Philadelphia streets, July 4, 1778, which marked ratification of the Constitution by 10 states. Later, further ceremonies are to take place at the slate roof house on High street, celebrating William Penn day. Tomorrow's celebration at the Academy of Music is under the auspices of the Congress of American Industry, with James M. Beck, former Solicitor-General of the United States, and an authority on the Constitution, as chief speaker.

Two Marines Killed in Auto Crash

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Two Marines are dead and three injured as a result of an automobile collision near the Marine base at Quantico, Va., yesterday. Those killed were Privates William Jones Orman, 23, Worcester, Mass., and Wilbur Albert Duchman, 23, of Patterson, N. Y. Among the injured was Private L. A. Scott of Metropolis, Ill.

AIRPLANES ROUT DRUSE BAND

BEIRUT, Syria, Sept. 17.—Druse tribesmen commanded by the Druse Sultan Attrache and Chiefs Rachid Talih and Abd-El-Arslan have attempted a surprise attack on a French column operating in the Djebel Druse country, but have been driven off with considerable losses. The French used bombing planes against the tribesmen who were aided by Bedouins and Damascans.

NO DELAY IN ECONOMY

French Cabinet to Make Measures Effective at Once.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Sept. 17.—The Cabinet today decided to reject all protests against immediate application of its measures for economy, refusing to postpone their operation until Parliament meets, as requested by several members of the Chamber of Deputies.

Party leaders particularly object to the suppression of 106 sub-prefects whose role is essentially political. The Government decided that the measures approved by Parliament must be applied without exception and without favor.

DIED AS RESULT OF AUTO INJURIES

MRS. CLARA STROCK.

DRIVER OF CAR IN COLLISION HELD FOR WOMAN'S DEATH

Funeral of Mrs. Clara Strock Held Today at Her Home in Ferguson.

A Coroner's jury at Kirkwood today held Horace A. Ritter, 24 years old, a mechanic, of 9122 Shelley avenue, Overland, for homicide in connection with the death Wednesday of Mrsh. Clara Strock, 70 years old, from injuries suffered when an automobile in which she was riding was struck and overturned on Florissant road by a machine driven by Ritter.

The funeral of Mrs. Strock took place today at her home, 300 Hereford avenue, Ferguson. The body was taken to King City, Mo., for burial tomorrow. Mrs. Strock's son, Donald, driver of the machine, and three other occupants were injured in the accident. Ritter was not injured.

Convention Opposes Volstead Act.

By the Associated Press.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 17.—Accepting a platform which had only two issues in it—decentralization and repeal of the Volstead Act, and eighteenth amendment—the Democratic State convention selected a ticket for the November election. The platform opposes "the return of the saloon." Rollin U. Taylor was nominated for United States Senator.

SHAW BANK

ZIRKLE ACCEPTS COMMISSION

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17. — The Navy Department announced that Midshipman Earl Blair Zirkle of Kansas, who declined to accept his commission recently, has changed his mind and Secretary Wilbur has directed the superintendent of the Naval Academy at Annapolis to swear him in as an ensign.

Zirkle will serve as an ensign for at least two years. Should he resubmit his resignation from the naval service at the end of that time it probably would be accepted without question as he was refused permission to resign this year only because of the stipulation to which he was committed at the time he entered the academy to serve two years, after graduation.

LIQUOR CASES NEARLY DOUBLE U. S. DOCKET

Federal Judge Davis Sets Trial Dates—428 at This Term.

Setting of the criminal docket for trials before Federal Judges Faris and Davis yesterday disclosed that nearly twice as many cases are to be tried at this term as were on the docket last year—428 against 229 last year.

The large increase in the number of criminal cases is due to the increasing number of arrests for violation of the prohibition laws and increasing efficiency in making cases for violation of these laws. The number of defendants now discharged after preliminary hearing before a commissioner because of faulty search warrants or illegal searches and seizures has been reduced greatly in the last year.

Judge Davis set the dockets of both courts yesterday as Judge Faris is in Denver sitting with the Circuit Court of Appeals.

Ferguson Trial Oct. 5.

The dates set for trial of the most important cases are:

Forrest Ferguson, using the mails to defraud in connection with the collapse of the Ferguson-McKinney Manufacturing Co., Oct. 5, before Judge Davis.

Clarence W. Saunders, originator of Piggly-Wiggly, using the mails to defraud in his dealings in the stock of the Piggly-Wiggly Co., Oct. 27, before Judge Faris.

C. W. Beck, president of the Federal Home Building Corporation, using the mails to defraud in connection with the promotion of that company, Sept. 30, before Judge Davis.

Louis G. Olian, dress manufacturer and apartment house owner, evading payment of income tax, Oct. 6, before Judge Davis.

TWO AUTO DRIVERS NAMED IN MANSLAUGHTER INDICTMENTS

Verdict of Criminal Negligence Was Returned in Each Case by Coroner's Jury.

Two indictments of automobile drivers on manslaughter charges, as the result of fatal accidents, were reported by the grand jury today, following its session yesterday afternoon, the first after the summer vacation.

Roland Hale, 21 years old, driver of a motorbus, was indicted because of the death of Angelo Ponciroli, injured when the bus struck the automobile which Ponciroli was driving on Southwest avenue.

Harry Klag, 34 of 662 Big Bend road, Webster Groves, was indicted for the death of Frank X. Hodapp of 7559 Manchester avenue, driver of a truck. Hodapp was injured by a coupe driven by Klag.

SLAIN IN ROW OVER BILL

Police Find One Negro Dead, Another Unconscious.

In the hallway of the Negro rooming house at 3743 Cook avenue last night, police found Col. J. Bell, 49 years old, dead with a bullet wound in the abdomen, and near him, Allen Coleman, 50, unconscious with serious stab wounds in the face, neck and breast.

In Coleman's right hand was a .45-caliber revolver and near Bell was an open blood-stained knife. Mrs. Bell, who had called police, said the men, who both lived in the house, had quarreled all day over a telephone bill which each maintained the other should pay.

TWO CHILDREN BADLY SCALDED

Pull Boiling Water From Stove When Mother Is at Store.

Valentine Heidebur, 6 years old, and his sister, Dorothy, 2, were badly scalded yesterday when one of them pulled a kettle of boiling water from a gas stove in the kitchen of 837 Brooklyn street.

Man Loses Fingers in Accident.

John Beatty, 60 years old, 930 North Sixth street, lost three fingers of the right hand and part of the thumb early today when operating a circle saw at a box company at 936 North Sixth street. He was taken to City Hospital.

Hands were blistered, raw, inflamed
Acute form of eczema yields at last to soothing treatment

Chicago, Illinois, April 14:—"A few months ago I had what I presume was an acute form of eczema. Red blotches and cracks, which refused to heal, appeared on the fingers of my left hand, then spread to my right hand. Both became raw, inflamed and blistery. I began to apply Resinol Ointment and after using three jars my hands are again in perfect shape. Your ointment is wonderful not only for its soothing effect to burning, itching skin, but for its quick healing qualities. From today on I am a volunteer booster of Resinol." (Signed) F. R. Youth Struck by Bus, Killed.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CAIRO, Ill., Sept. 17.—Henry Denton, 18 years old, was killed when struck by a St. Louis bus loaded with Negro cotton pickers on the highway between Anniston and East Prairie, Mo., yesterday. The bus was driven by William Dickerson of St. Louis. Denton was walking along the highway to work on a nearby farm. Dickerson delivered the cotton pickers to Dorena, Mo., then returned to Charleston for the inquest. A verdict of accidental death was returned.

LEASE ON FRANCIS HOME SURRENDERED

Junior C. of C. and Boy Scouts Decide Gift Could Not Be Used Advantageously.

A 10-year lease on the D. R. Francis home at Newstead and Maryland avenues, which had been held more than six years in trust for the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Boy Scouts, has been turned back to former Gov. David R. Francis, it was learned today.

Cancellation of the lease, which had been given by Gov. Francis on condition the junior organizations and their three trustees pay the upkeep and insurance on the property, was decided upon after sponsors of the Boy Scout and Junior Chamber of Commerce movements had determined that the house and grounds could not be used to as full advantage as they had anticipated, or as the upkeep expenses justified.

Gift Announced in 1920.

When the gift of the lease was announced in May, 1920, it was stated that the home would be headquarters for the St. Louis Council of the Boy Scouts, the St. Louis Junior Chamber of Commerce and the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce.

It consists of a 27-room house of modified colonial architecture and four and a half acres, the shrubs, lawns, trees and flower beds of which were laid out by an expert landscape artist. The plot is slightly rolling, facing Newstead avenue, with Pershing and Maryland avenues as its north and south boundaries. The place is assessed by the city at $117,200, but it is worth many times that amount.

Building Rarely Used.

The trustees of the lease were Clarence H. Howard, president of the Commonwealth Steel Co.; Paul W. Brown, an editor, and the late Melville L. Wilkinson, who was president of Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney Dry Goods Co.

Howard said today that the moving of the national headquarters of the Junior Chamber from year to year placed the national seat of the organization here only once in the six years. The local chamber, he said, had used the building, but had been unable to hold large meetings there because there was no large hall available. The Boy Scouts held their meetings at the various churches and halls about town and rarely used the building.

NEW HAY FEVER PRESCRIPTION BY ST. LOUIS DOCTOR

A St. Louis physician is now offering to the general public a preparation for Hay Fever which he has been successfully using in his private practice since 1919, and which he guarantees will give positive relief to the most severe cases of Hay Fever, or it costs nothing.

The principal of the Sherman School of this city, says this prescription permanently relieved him of his Hay Fever. Scores of other St. Louis people praise it highly many of them reporting that the sneezing and other distressing symptoms disappear after one day's treatment. Wolff-Wilson, Johnson Bros., Walgreen and all other good druggists are distributing this treatment, under the name of Hay RemO, with an offer to refund the purchase price to anyone who does not get satisfactory results after using half of it.

If possible use Hay RemO daily before the anticipated attack. This preparatory use adds to the benefit. Hay RemO is also very effective for Rose Cold, Summer Catarrh and Nasal Sinus Trouble.

EXPLAINS DEMOCRATIC PROGRAM FOR GREECE

New Premier Says Dictatorship Would Fail to Stabilize His Country.

By Radio to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News. Copyright, 1926.

ROME, Sept. 17.—Gen. George Condylis, new Greek Premier, who dared to introduce a democratic regime in his country when the fashion in Europe is running toward dictatorship, has wired his authorization to publish an interview granted the correspondent in Athens at the Ministry of War last week. Gen. Condylis discussed democracy and whether its usefulness was ended in contemporary Europe. His answer so far as Greece is concerned was a decided negative.

He made clear that his Government depended upon liberal, democratic methods to bring about stability in Greece and not upon dictatorial action.

Organized Insurrections.

He is a picture of the "grizzled warrior." He is the man who as a stripling went to Bulgaria posing as a school teacher to organize insurrections among the unredeemed Greeks; who rose in the army service without training in a military college; who was one of the first officers to join Venizelos at Saloniki. It was Condylis who made the recalcitrant regiments fight during the great war and who led the allied left in the charge which first broke the line of the Central Powers and led to the Austro-German collapse.

He has deep lines on his face, the result of his 60 battles, but his general appearance is anything but military. He has a short figure and wears civilian clothes (perhaps a symbol of his democratic regime) and is very stooped. His iron-gray mustache and his hair seem unkempt, his suit is unpressed and his manner friendly and unimposing.

This is the man who startled Greece by causing the first bloodshed in Athens in many years, when he dissolved the 5000 republican guards who threatened the regime, and thereby restored the possibility of parliamentary government. Unlike most military men, he is a convinced democrat, but uses military efficiency in asserting the authority of the central democratic government.

People Naturally Liberal.

"We in Greece," said the Greek Premier, "cannot apply methods of government to our people that are applied elsewhere in Europe. The Hellenic people are naturally republican and liberal in sentiment. They resent dictatorial method. My party is today considering the application of home rule internally, abolishing the bureaucratic system which has been the worst evil in past administrations. We shall appoint able men as Governors and Prefects, men with progressive ideas and with intelligence. We are instituting at the coming elections proportional representation, which, it is hoped, will decrease the influence of the parties seeking to establish a dictatorship.

"Our regime," continued Condylis, "does not differ in legislative procedure from that of a democratic constitutional monarchy, though the monarchical form has been misused in this country and has consequently caused misfortune."

The Premier was asked how a free democratic regime could hope to deal effectively with communist propaganda and strikes in key industry. He replied:

"By genuine co-operation and the settlement of problems of public welfare so as to produce mutual understanding between capital and labor. With real understanding, there can be no growth of communism nor can there be serious strikes."

CRITIC OF 35TH DIVISION IS INVITED TO REUNION

Maj. Peck of Regular Army Challenged to Meet Veterans at Jefferson City.

Col. Bennett C. Clark, president of the Thirty-fifth Division Veterans' Association, announced last night that he had invited Maj. Robert G. Peck of the regular army to speak at the reunion of the division at Jefferson City Sept. 25 and 26.

Peck is the inspector whose strictures on the division met with the bitter resentment of its members and resulted in a long fight in the Senate against Peck's promotion. Clark's invitation is a challenge to Peck to repeat his criticisms face to face with the veterans.

Other speakers expected include Senator Reed, Gov. Baker, Secretary of War Davis, Col. William Mitchell and former Attorney-General John T. Barker. It is expected that a large number of veterans from St. Louis will attend. Arrangements for special cars are being made by Capt. Gunther Meier, secretary of the association.

LABOR LEADERS GET MORE PAY

Illinois Federation Also Votes to Organize School Teachers.

By the Associated Press.

STREATOR, Ill., Sept. 17.—Salary increases have been voted President John H. Walker and Secretary-Treasurer Victor Olander by the Illinois Federation of Labor, at its annual convention here. The salaries were increased from $5000 a year to $6500. The convention voted to hold next year's convention at East St. Louis.

Organization of public school teachers throughout the State was made a part of the federation's program by the adoption of the report of Mrs. Florence Hansen, chairman of the Committee on Education. Efforts will be made to establish groups of seven or more school teachers in every city as a part of the American Federation of Teachers, which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. This report also put the convention on record as opposing high schools of more than 2000 pupils.

TENOR'S HEARERS 'SUFFOCATED'

John McCormack Startled When He Read Japanese Review.

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn.—John McCormack, the Irish tenor, likes to read criticisms of his singing, but when a Japanese critic said the singer "suffocated" his audience, that was too much. Discussing the incident here today, McCormack said he read a review, translated from Japanese into English, in which it gave the startling information that "Mr. McCormack suffocated his audience."

"It seemed a case for investigation," the singer declared. The critic meant, McCormack learned, that the singer "left the audience breathless."

SEEKS DIVORCE AND HALF OF BUSINESS

Mrs. Isabel E. Wolfson Files Two Suits, One Asking for Appointment of Receiver.

Seeking to dissolve both marital and business partnerships, Mrs. Isabel E. Wolfson of 4264A Manchester avenue today filed two suits in Circuit Court—one asking divorce from Nathan Wolfson, of the Forest Park Hotel, and the other asking receivership and dissolution of their partnership in the Wolfson Fashion Shop at 4264 Manchester and its "competitor," the La Vogue Fashion Shop at 4238 Manchester.

Her divorce petition charges general indignities, alleging that Wolfson stayed out at night, dined at hotels while his wife worked in the stores, and antagonized her father who helped start them in business.

They were married Jan. 2, 1916, and separated Aug. 25 last, having three children, according to the petition.

The receivership suit asks that Wolfson be enjoined from disposing of any assets of the business and requests that the property be equally divided, including real estate at 4308 Manchester avenue. The suit alleges that Wolfson had secreted the books and refused to divulge the financial condition of the business.

According to Mrs. Wolfson's attorney, the stores do a gross business of $40,000 a year, with a net income of $10,000. Both partners are still working in the stores, though living apart.

ILLINOIS RIVER NEARS TOP OF LEVEE AT BEARDSTOWN

Basements in Town Flooded—Large Force Reinforcing Water Barrier With Sand Bags.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 17.—Continuation in Illinois and other middle Western States yesterday of rain which has been a daily occurrence in many localities since Sept. 1, brought the Mississippi almost to flood stage at Quincy, took one of its tributaries over hundreds of acres of lowlands near Burlington, Ia., and threatened Beardstown, Ill., with inundation by the Illinois River.

The waters of the Illinois River approached the top of the levee at Beardstown last night, while 100 men labored to reinforce the barrier with sand bags.

Basements of Beardstown are flooded and manholes have been stuffed with sand bags to keep water from backing up into the streets.

BEATEN WHEN CIRCULATING MILLER RECALL PETITION

Ferguson Man Gets Suspended Fine in Police Court on Disturbance Charge.

Edward A. Haskell of Ferguson, who circulated Mayor Miller recall petitions, limped into police court today, his face covered with court plaster, to answer a charge of peace disturbance.

He had gone to the home of H. G. Tiffany, 2922 Pennsylvania avenue, Sept. 9 last, it was charged, he had called Tiffany by a vile name when he refused to sign the recall petition. Tiffany testified he struck Haskell in the face and knocked him down the steps. Haskell spent four days in bed.

"You had no business entering this man's house," said Judge Rosecan, "but I think you have been punished enough. I will fine you $10 and stay the fine on good behavior."

Haskell testified he was paid 10 cents a signature.

MAN WHO SURVIVED BRIDGE LEAP DIES OF HEART DISEASE

68-Year-Old Laborer Suddenly Stricken After Physicians Thought He Had Recovered.

William Hockstepp, 68-year-old laborer, who plunged head first from the Free Bridge Wednesday morning, then changed his mind about suicide and swam to shore, died at 3 a. m. today from heart failure due to the shock. He was without a home or friends, and had only 5 cents when he arrived at City Hospital.

The man's survival of the 80-foot drop into the Mississippi was due to the fact that he landed on his side and was not rendered unconscious, and further because he found a floating log which aided him to shore. The heart attack was sudden and came after physicians thought he had recovered.

Actress Killed in Auto Crash.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CAIRO, Ill., Sept. 17.—Mrs. Pansy Crabtree Roderick, 33 years old, of Cairo, an actress, was killed in Chicago, Wednesday, when her automobile was thrown against a steel telephone pole. Funeral services were held today at the First Baptist Church of Mounds. A daughter, Mrs. Ewen Bolyn, survives.

Seven Rescued From Sinking Ship.

By the Associated Press.

NANTUCKET, Mass., Sept. 17.—The schooner Rebecca R. Douglass of Machias, Me., was sunk in Pollock Rip Slue, Nantucket Sound, in a collision with the steamer Eastern Crown, last night. Seven men were brought ashore from the wreck today by a coast guard boat. The cargo of laths kept the schooner afloat until the men were rescued.

ITALY PLANNING RADICAL CHANGE IN JURY SYSTEM

Under Proposed Law Juries Will Consist of Magistrates, College Graduates and Army Officers.

PRESS ATTACKS ON FRANCE CONTINUE

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Sept. 17.—Formal denial of reports published in Berlin that France was concentrating troops on the Italian frontier was issued by War Minister Painleve today.

"It is regrettable that such news should be disseminated by Germany on the day after her entry into the League of Nations," Painleve said.

The report was telegraphed to the Berlin newspaper, De Voss, by its Paris correspondent, who said he had learned from well-informed circles that France had concentrated in recent days no less than six divisions in the region of the French Alps and has correspondingly strengthened the frontier fortresses.

Outwardly, he added, France was observing the correct reserved attitude in the face of most bitter attacks from the Italian press, resulting from the attempt on Mussolini's life by an Italian exile who had lived in France.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Sept. 17.—In addition to restoring the death penalty for certain crimes, Parliament, it is understood, will make a radical change in the jury system.

Under the proposed law, a jury will consist mostly of magistrates aided by a few citizens called assessors, drawn from restricted classes. They must be graduates of colleges, of law schools, or field officers in the army and navy. Men of lower rank may be nominated if decorated for valor.

The newspapers continue their attacks on France for harboring anti-Fascist plotters, alleging that under a law of 1895, never repealed, the French Government has power to expel aliens threatening France's foreign relations.

France availed herself of this law at the request of the Czarist Government before the war and recently at the request of Spain, say the published complaints, but she does not act thus in regard to men plotting against Italy.

300 Arrested in Night.

The Giornale D'Italia says the police made 335 additional arrests last night in continuing their investigations of the attempt to assassinate Mussolini.

Six hundred houses were searched, mostly in the poorer section, as possible refuges for subversive elements.

Many of those previously detained for questioning have been released. Among those still held is the noted anarchist Enrico Malatesta.

CHIASSO, Sept. 17.—Enemies of Fascism in Italy have suffered at the hands of the Fascists in many places since the recent attack on Mussolini.

Last Saturday afternoon a group of 30 invaded editorial offices of the Avanti, in Rome, destroying everything they could lay hands on. Twenty five carabinierie had been keeping guard in the doorway of the Socialist paper's premises, but they did not lift a finger to prevent the Fascist reprisal.

A few hours later the premises of Unita, the Communist organ, also were invaded and wrecked. Signor Peluzo, sub-editor of Unita, while walking home, was assaulted by several Fascists, beaten until he fell senseless to the ground. Three of his ribs were broken.

A co-operative shop belonging to a tramway men's society in a popular quarter of Milan, was wrecked and pillaged and two workers were beaten.

The premises of the Socialist's lawyer, Franco Clerici, and the house of the right wing Socialist leader, Claudio Treves, also were the objects of Fascist punitive expeditions in Milan. Treves' house is not more than 70 yards from the central police station, but this did not prevent a squad of 10 Fascists armed with revolvers from wrecking the property.

In Menzaso and Brianza provinces near Milan several Catholic clubs were invaded and badly damaged. The invasion of the house of Signor Susi, former member of Parliament, is reported from Rome. Susi is a relative of Cesare Commission Determining Punishment of Agitators Abroad.

Rome, Sept. 17.—The commission to examine into the activities of political refugees in foreign countries, in order to advise ministers of the application of the law depriving them of citizenship, as well as confiscation of their properties, has resumed its sittings.

The commission is examining the activities of 15 persons who, the Minister of the Interior believes, deserve punishment. Among them is Cesare Rossi, former head of the press bureau of the Premier's department, who turned against Mussolini and fled to France after being in prison for a year in connection with the Matteotti case. He has since been carrying on a violent campaign against Fascism and Mussolini.

Another who is accused is Donati, who denounced Gen. De Bono as an accomplice in the Matteotti murder, but who fled to France when the high court of justice of the senate acquitted De Bono. Donati is editor of an anti-Fascist paper published in Paris.

A third man who is accused is Massimo Rocca, the first Deputy to be expelled from the Fascist party. Ciccotti Scozzeze, former editor of Il Paese, who once fought a duel with Mussolini before his march on Rome, also is in the list. So is Salmenini, former professor of history in the University of Florence, who now is in London.

AMERICAN WOMEN DROPPED BY LEAGUE; GERMANS IN PLACES

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Sept. 17.—Constructive American women's influence in the development of the educational aspect of the League of Nations will be hit by the loss of two American women from the Secretariat—Miss Florence Wilson of New York, chief librarian, who has been with the League since its birth, and Miss Alice Church Bartlett, assistant librarian and reference librarian of the League.

The real cause of the departure of both of these Americans is the necessity of finding places for Germans on the League Secretariat.

Miss Wilson created the League's library, which now contains some 80,000 volumes, starting with only a few books when the League was modestly striving for a place under the sun at London in 1920. Miss Wilson organized the library and archives for the Peace Conference at Paris, and as a member of the American Peace Commission did research work and wrote confidential memoranda.

BALDWIN AGAIN MOVES IN EFFORT TO END MINE STRIKE

Confers With Owners and Miners in Hope of Obtaining Immediate Resumption of Work.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Premier Baldwin today began another attempt to end the deadlock growing out of the coal miners' strike.

He had an hour's interview this morning with Evan Williams, president of the Mining Association, after which he called in A. J. Cook, general secretary of the Miners' Federation, and other union officers.

The object of the interview was to ascertain the prospect of holding a three-party conference, to include the full executive of the Miners' Federaion and represenatives of the District Owners' Associations who have maintained a firm stand against the national settlement demanded by the men.

FIRE DESTROYS INDIAN VILLAGE

300 Homeless and Without Food on Alaskan Island.

By the Associated Press.

JUNEAU, Alaska, Sept. 17.—Fire yesterday destroyed the Indian village of Kake, on Kupreanof Island, 100 miles south of Juneau, leaving 300 Indians homeless and without food and clothing, advices received here say.

The only cannery and a Government hospital were undamaged. The Coast Guard cutter Umalga sailed at midnight with supplies. Kake was the principal village of the Indians of that name.

Levee Board Report Sept. 24.

Acting on a petition of 16 objecting taxpayers of St. Clair County, Judge Weber of the County Court yesterday set Sept. 24 as the date on which the annual financial report of the Board of Trustees of the East Side Levee and Sanitary District, will be taken up by him for approval or rejection. Objections of the taxpayers, who include Fred W. Kraft, publisher of the East St. Louis News-Review; Maurice V. Joyce, an attorney, and Robert Sikking, former secretary of the Levee Board, will be heard on that date.

FRANCO-GERMAN VIEWS RECONCILED AT GENEVA PARLEY

Briand and Stresemann Reach Agreement, Subject to Approval of Paris and Berlin.

COUNCIL PAYS TRIBUTE TO WILSON

Accepts in Advance a Bust of Late President to Be Presented by R. J. Caldwell of New York.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Sept. 17.—An official communique, issued by the French delegation following lengthy conversations between Foreign Ministers Briand of France and Stresemann of Germany today, says they examined all problems now existing in Franco-German relations and reconciled their viewpoints regarding the necessary solution.

The Foreign Ministers agreed to refer their conclusions to their respective Governments, and if these are approved, they will "continue their collaboration later to achieve the desirable results."

Briand and Stresemann motored together outside Geneva today for lunch, after which a conversation began covering all the outstanding problems between the two countries. The place of meeting was kept secret.

Tribute to Wilson.

The new Council of the League of Nations, enlarged to 14 members by election in the Assembly, and having present Dr. Gustav Stresemann as the representative of the German Republic, began its forty-second session yesterday with an act of homage to Woodrow Wilson as founder of the League.

This homage took the form of accepting in advance a bust of the late President, which will be presented to the League by Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Caldwell of New York. It will be executed by Bryant Baker, the American sculptor, and it is understood, will receive the approval of Mrs. Wilson before being placed in the palace of the League.

Benes' Welcome to Germany.

Dr. Eduard Benes, president of the Council, made a plea for concord, sincerity and collaboration in the furtherance of the high aims of the League. After extending a warm welcome to Germany, whose adherence to the League he said meant so much to the future of Europe, Dr. Benes declared that there were no plans, no entrenched camps, no opposing factions in the Council, but only men whose pulse must ever beat to the fulfillment of the high aim of putting into practice the fundamental principles of the Covenant.

The Council decided to push forward the project for the establishment of an Armenian national home. It adopted a resolution that the Council promote the settlement of Armenian refugees in Erivan when the necessary $7,000,000 is subscribed by Armenian sympathizers and charitable organizations.

Dr. Stresemann laid aside his right to preside over the Council, and thereby created an atmosphere of accommodation and good feeling.

Germany, in the French alphabetical order, had the legal right to preside over the first meeting of the new Council, but Stresemann, speaking in English, pleaded that this presidency should be occupied by some experienced member, and suggested Dr. Benes.

Disarmament Commission.

Both Spain and Brazil, despite their resignation from the League, together with Sweden and Uruguay, who were members of the last Council, were invited by the Council to continue their membership on the preparatory commission for a disarmament conference of which the United States also is a member.

A resolution adopted declares that the co-operation of these states is necessary to assure the aims the Council had in view in creating the disarmament commission.

Berlin Papers Regard Council Election a French Victory.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Sept. 17.—The results of the League of Nation's council election are largely interpreted by the Berlin press today as a conspicuous victory for French politics, the papers of the left pointing out that the international popularity of Frnace is a factor to be reckoned with.

Several papers, however, advise that Germany follow the example of England and be not jealous of France's success. The Socialist Vorwaerts considers the vote giving Poland eligibility for re-election the only disagreeable feature, but admits that Germany's vital interests are not affected thereby.

The papers of the right remark that, while the promise made to Poland at Locarno "Behind Germany's back" is now redeemed, Germany is still vainly reminding the other signatories of the vast concessions promised her.

Dr Stresemann, it was said, seemed prepared to go a long way toward conciliation. Last night, replying before representatives of the German press to an attack by German Nationalists, he is understood to have said in substance that "it is easier to get into an agreement with an ex-enemy than with some hyper-nationalists of one's own country."

NEW VERSION OF MUTINY IN SPAIN

Correspondent Says King Was Temporarily Held Captive —Threatenel With Oster.

By the Associated Press

LONDON, Sept. 17.—A special reporter of the Daily Express, who has been in Spain investigating the recent crisis due to the mutiny of the artillery corps, telegraphs from Hendaye a lurid picture of events. He asserts that the mutiny continues to grow in the army and that a fresh upheaval is expected.

The correspondent gives what purports to be the truth concerning the recent trouble. He says that artillery officers from Segovia intercepted King Alfonso on a hurried trip from San Sebastian to Madrid and virtually held him prisoner till he promised to support them.

Arriving in Madrid, Alfonso was told by the Premier, Gen. Primo de Rivera, that if he yielded to the officers, the Premier would proclaim a republic with himself as President.

Officers of all services are declared by the correspondent to have said that Primo de Rivera must go, but only part of the rank and file agree with them. The entire civil guard is said to be loyal to the Premier.

"If revolution comes," the correspondent continues, "it will be through the army and not the people, who are not allowed to know what is happening. Their potential leaders, the intellectuals, are being rounded up and imprisoned after farcical trials by court martial."

The writer quotes an unnamed intellectual as saying: "The only chance for the salvation of Spain lies in the hope that Alfonso will abdicate in favor of his third son (Prince Juan, 13 years old), with Queen Victoria as regent until the Prince attains his majority."

The correspondent asserts that civil justice and liberty are mere mockery in Spain, that business is becoming stagnant, and that Primo de Rivera is pressing hard for money and imposing fines right and left. There is authoritative information, the story says, that Primo de Rivera is negotiating with an American group for the sale of Moroccan concessions. This, he says is why a ministerial representative is going to America.

It is predicted by the correspondent that within a month Spain will be plunged into great trouble. He says the King cannot longer count upon the support of a majority of his subjects.

CLEAN WHITE HOUSE AWAITS PRESIDENT

Mansion Renovated During Absence—Coolidge Starts for Capital Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—A repaired and renovated White House is ready today for the return of President and Mrs. Coolidge, who will leave White Pine Camp, N. Y., tomorrow.

Painters, cleaners, mechanics and other workmen have toiled on the executive mansion throughout the summer. A new coat of spotless white glistens on the outside walls, a new dustproof roadway replaces the old gravel approach to the front door. A new electric elevator runs smoothly from the basement to the upper floors. The famous East Room has been given a freshness it has not known for years. Even the fuel bins in the cellar have been cleaned and filled for the winetr.

Gardeners, too, have done their best. The evergreen hedges have been clipped. The rose gardens are brailliant with the last blooms of summer.

In the executive offices, where the President works, things remain much the same as when he went away. The draperies have been cleaned and rehung. The old carpet has been renovated.

Everett Saunders, secretary to the President, has returned to his desk in the room adjoining the President's office. Other employes have had their vacations, except Rudolph Forster, veteran aid to many Presidents, who has remained on duty all summer.

When the flag on the White House is run to the masthead Monday morning, it will inform the nation that the President is again in his official residence, transacting business. All is ready even for that detail.

This Is Packing Day at White Pine Camp.

By the Associated Press.

PAUL SMITHS, N. Y., Sept. 17.—This is packing day at the summer White House, the last day of President Coolidge's long vacation of nearly 11 weeks. He returns to Washington tomorrow.

Mrs. Coolidge is supervising the stowing of clothing and linen into boxes and trunks to be transported on the presidential special. At the summer executive offices furniture movers had orders to leave the desks and chairs in Mr. Coolidge's private office that he might be able to spend part of the day at his desk.

President Coolidge's decision to make most of his return trip by daylight has attracted wide attention, especially in New York State, for requests have been received from many cities and towns along the route asking that the train either stop or slacken speed in passing so that the residents can greet him.

HANKOW, China, Sept. 17.—The Chinese Military authorities at Wanhsien have occupied the quarters of the China Inland Mission in that town, and are holding three British missionaries captive.

Typhus in Germany Spreads.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Sept. 17.—The Typhus epidemic at Hanover, attributed to the pollution of drinking water by floods, is spreading to other places in Prussia. One hundred persons are being treated in the hospitals of Duisburg; 60 at Halberstadt and 32 at Groeningen. A further outbreak is reported at Christburg, West Prussia. The reported cases at Hanover thus far number 1414, and there have been 40 deaths.

Reed Indorsed for Presidency.

The Eighteenth Ward Democratic organization, at a meeting last night at 2201 North Market street, attended by about 100 persons, indorsed Senator James A. Reed for the Democratic nomination for President in 1928. J. F. Byrne, ward committeeman, made the motion for indorsement.

RUSSIA TO FIGHT CRIME WAVE

Death Sentence for Gangster Who Killed Laborer Is First Step.

MOSCOW, Sept. 17. — A crime wave throughout the country that is growing more violent has received its first definite check in the death sentence of Zabachti, a Charkov gangster, convicted of killing a laborer. The Central Executive Committee of the Ukraine promptly approved the sentence, serving notice of a beginning of a fight to a finish against hooliganism.

The outbreak of crime began soon after the Government sanctioned the sale of vodka of 40 per cent alcohol.

Cuba to Check Alien Smuggling.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, Sept. 17.—The port police announced that they are refusing sailing papers to six schooners suspected of implication in rum-running or emigrant smuggling to the United States. A large number of Europeans were taken into custody by rural guards a few miles west of Havana early this week when they appeared on the Santa Fe beach. It is believed they were attempting to embark clandestinely for the United States but that no ship to take them could be found.

Citizens' Bond Issue Committee Temporarily Refuses Approval of Project.

FURTHER HEARING ON NEXT MONDAY

W. Frank Carter and Realty Men Lead Opposition — Negro Swimming Pool Appropriation Laid Over.

The proposal for a neutral strip for use of street cars in widened Olive street struck a snag yesterday in the Citizen's Bond Issue Committee.

The committee declined, temporarily at least, to approve ordinances appropriating $180,371 from bond issue funds to pay the cost of paving the new street, because the Board of Public Service has approved the 23-foot parkway in the center of the streetp. Opposition was led by Chairman W. Frank Carter, who declared that he never would vote bond issue funds for any such project, because in his opinion it would destroy the value of the street for retail business.

Meant as Safety Measure.

The operation of street cars in such a strip is held to increase safety of all traffic and to increase the speed of cars. The United Railways has proposed that if a year's operating experience shows the plan to be detrimental to business it would abandon it.

The committee set next Monday for a special meeting at which members of the Board of Public Service will be expected to tell why they favor the neutral strip.

Frank H. Gerhart, a member of the bond issue committee, and William F. Butts, both members of the Real Estate Exchange said that the Exchange members unanimously opposed the plan because it would decrease property values.

Negro Pool Too Near Church.

An ordinance appropriating $57,500 for the purchase of Crystal Natatorium at Channing and Cook avenues for use of Negroes was laid over until Monday.

Harry Scullin, a member of the committee, feared that the location of a recreational facility close to St. Alphonsus Church and to the Odeon would be undesirable and might affect property values in the district.

Gerhart suggested that the pool for Negroes be established at Jefferson avenue and Randolph street, where the city is acquiring property from bond-issue funds for the construction of a community center for Negroes.

Park Commissioner Pape wants Crystal pool purchased immediately, because Negroes, who have not many recreational facilities, are clamoring for more.

BALBOA DAY IS CELEBRATED BY NATIONS OF THE PACIFIC

Greetings by Cable Exchanged and Banquets Held; Union Headquarters at Honolulu.

By the Associated Press.

HONOLULU, Sept. 17.—Today was celebrated in all nations of the Pacific as Balboa day, the anniversary (under the present calendar) of the day Vasco Nunez Balboa took possession of the Pacific Ocean in the names of the King and Queen of Castile.

Observance of the day has been promoted by the Pan-Pacific Union, which has headquarters here. Greetings by cable are exchanged around the Pacific, and banquets are held by the Union wherever it has local organizations.

In addition, student essay competitions usually are announced on Balboa days. This custom was followed here today when C. N. Kurokawa, educational secretary of the Pan-Pacific Union, announced that a series of prizes would be given to students in Pan-Pacific lands who wrote the most interesting accounts of the lives of leading personalities in countries other than their own.

Besides the headquarters here, the Pan-Pacific Union has branch organizations, which usually meet weekly as luncheon clubs, on the Pacific coasts of the United States, in Australia, China, Japan, Korea and the Philippines.

G. O. P. Caravan to Tour Illinois.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—A Republican caravan will leave Chicago about Oct. 5, and will carry all the candidates and party leaders through downstate Illinois for 15 days, returning to Chicago for a 10-days campaign here. Frank L. Smith, senatorial candidate, plans no individual campaign. He will be in the caravan and will speak for the Republican ticket.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Insanitary Conditions in County.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

SANITARY reasons why county should merge with city:

The writer, a resident of one of the border districts of the county, is daily made aware of deplorable sanitary conditions in his district. The sewage disposal arrangements are positively primitive. On all sides the septic tanks—if they have them—pour out their vile and odoriferous discharge—pour it out into little drainage ditches and small streams that go by your very door to merge into a common stream actually wide open and running beneath a main highway into the city.

Nothing is covered over nor the slightest attempt made at rudimentary sanitation.

There are places in the writer's vicinity where sewage actually dribbles by front or back doors in gutters. Mosquitoes are fattened to maturity by all this and vigorously scatter malaria, of which I had a vicious attack last summer.

This is only one sanitary aspect, if the worst. Our water sometimes is vile, smelling of organic matter and cloudy as though out of a fish bowl. The streets often are country lanes, no lights, sidewalks or gutters, nor even a suspicion of them.

Economy is very well, but life, health and decency are just as valuable. Economy is the bunk anyway and how taxes can be much more in this unincorporated district (in the incorporated county towns taxes are higher than in St. Louis) than in the city after annexation, what with our stunning water and insurance bills is hard to see.

Personally, I am and want to live like a civilized human being and would welcome arbitrary authority to overcome these evils.

A COUNTY RESIDENT.

A Reader's Appreciation.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

EVER since childhood I have been a reader of the Post-Dispatch, and even then it was my favorite paper. I have traveled extensively, having been in almost every state in the Union, and have read the daily papers from coast to coast, and I can truthfully state that the Post-Dispatch is one of the fairest, squarest, finest papers published.

It stands for the right at all times. It is fearless in its condemnation of that which is corrupt. It denounces intolerance and ignorance, and proclaims the truth unflinchingly.

It is always the first in the fight for right, and never ceases until it has won the battle.

Always your sincere admirer,
MRS. E. C. SMITH.

Old Baseball Fan's Views.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I HAVE been a baseball fan ever since the St. Louis Unions brought the first pennant to St. Louis. I saw the old Browns win the world series from the Chicago club under Anson, and saw them lose to the original New York Giants. I have warmed the bleachers and grandstand seats watching Glasscock, Gleason, Tip O'Neil, Curt Welch, Latham, Breitenstein, Silver King, Donavan, Wallace and all the rest of them to Hornsby, for the past 35 years. I have been a Cardinal rooter ever since Sudoff, Burkett and the rest of them jumped to the American League, but for the life of me I cannot see why I should be forced to become a scalper in order to see one of the world series games in the coming series (coming sometime) or why, when 500,000 loyal fans are raving to see a game, with 90,000 seats for three games, they should be sold to 30,000 persons. Is this the reward to the fans who have supported tail-enders for 35 years? Is it good business? Can a working man invest $16.50 to see a game? Can a busy man lose three days? If this is professional baseball's system hereafter I shall patronize the Muny League and the corner lot. AN OLD TIMER.

The Dyed-in-the-Wool Republican.

THE farmers should understand that when Republican orators or platform builders speak of the great prosperity now being enjoyed in this country that the farmer is not included, not even mentioned. In the bright lexicon of their vocabulary Prosperity refers only to the great banking and manufacturing interests of the East.

This fact is very well understood by Democratic farmers; but it is very hard to convince a Republican farmer that he is not prosperous before the mortgage is foreclosed on his farm. And then he is liable to attribute his hard luck to the Wilson administration. A letter writer in the Post-Dispatch of some months ago who said a Republican farmer would work hard, live hard, die hard, and go to hell at last, just for the privilege of voting the Republican ticket, was not far off the mark.

STREETS AND SEWERS IN COUNTY.

In discussing annexation of the county the Post-Dispatch has had in mind that unless we look beyond the present there is no prospect whatever that the project will carry. The opponents of annexation are speaking of the status quo, and they enjoy an advantage there. They lose that advantage when the discussion is shifted to the future.

There is, for instance, the testimony of Mr. Kinsey, President of the St. Louis Board of Public Service. Mr. Kinsey looks at annexation from a viewpoint that is not confused by any sentimental consideration. He wants to know how the streets and sewers of the county, into which the city is fast growing, are to be consolidated with street and sewer systems of the city unless the county is annexed. Says Mr. Kinsey:

> Only through the agency of a larger municipality can the property owners in St. Louis County be saved from enormous losses certain to come from dallying with the present inability to create a thoroughly co-ordinated street plan for the entire built-up portion of the county.
> We within the present city limits have our health protected by the best sewer system in the country. Many of our good friends who work with us during the day go home to a locality in the county with about the worst sewer system in the county.
> These smaller towns were laid out without any reference to natural drainage areas and find themselves unable to dispose of their own sewage or escape that of adjoining towns upstream in the drainage area. Only through the agency of a municipality covering all the territory can this most serious problem be worked out with economy and fairness to all.

What have the antiannexationists to say about these things? Has the county either a street or sewer system plan? Can it satisfactorily create either? Mr. Kinsey thinks not. Meanwhile, there are the interests of the whole community to consider. Whether the county is annexed or not, the health of the whole community is a matter far outweighing the sentimental considerations of local governments and schools. Where does the sewage of the county communities go? What is the effect upon public health of having the sewage of populous communities carried by creeks?

Let us debate annexation upon such important grounds as these. It is not of today alone that we must think.

COL. SMITH CARRIES ON.

Col. Frank L. Smith, whose candidacy for the United States Senate has become a national issue, is not the sort to be dismayed by what looks like ruin.

The Colonel is carrying on. In resigning his post as chairman of the Illinois Commerce Commission, he says he owes it to the Republicans of Illinois to give all his time to the campaign. We would say that his obligation is even greater than this. He owes it to the country to get out of the campaign, and when he refuses to do so he lends his indorsement to the methods by which he was nominated.

Let us not be misunderstood. We are not saying that Col. Smith is without excellent political precedent in going about what he is doing. He no doubt has in mind the way in which the Republican party came back in 1924 after the Teapot Dome scandal. The only difference, so far as we can see, is that there was nobody saying Mr. Coolidge could not be seated in the White House if he were elected, whereas there are a good many people stoutly asserting that if Col. Smith is elected he cannot be seated in the Senate.

ADVERSITY'S LESSON.

Said Emerson: "Debt, grinding debt, whose iron face the widow, the orphan and the son of genius hate; debt, which consumes so much time, which so cripples and disheartens a great spirit with cares that seem so base, is a preceptor whose lessons cannot be foregone and is needed most by those who suffer from it most."

Who knows, had we forgiven Europe her debts, a Europe still harboring resentments and hurts from the World War—who knows whether or not she would have come so far upon the way of peace as she is today?

LOOKING AHEAD.

As an example of freak wills, the one made by Stacy Anson Ransom, a scientist of Washington, D. C., who died last March, stands in a class by itself.

Ransom, in quixotic humanitarianism, wants to protect all the animals and game in the world, for all time, and to that end he has set aside a trust fund of $40,000. The fund is to be invested and permitted to accumulate until, through the accretions of compound interest, the principal has grown to the stupendous sum of $500,000,000. However, in the meantime one-half of the annual income is to be used in protecting animals and game.

The studious statistical fan can, in a few hours, figure himself through to certain interesting results. First, that this fund invested at a safe 4 per cent, will return $1600 the first year, leaving $800 to be used for the purposes intended, while an equal amount goes to principal. Not a very large sum to protect and save the animal life of the world. Second, it will take over seven generations, or 129 years for the principal to reach even $500,000, by the compound interest route, or one-thousandth of the sum provided for by this eccentric philanthropist.

Andrew Carnegie, in 1910, created a peace fund, which is intended to perpetuate itself through all the ages, for he asks his trustees to consider what "would most advance the progress, elevation and happiness of man, and so on from century to century without end my trustees of each age shall determine how they best can aid man." However, the initial endowment was $10,000,000 of 5 per cent bonds.

Before the fruition—if it succeed—of the plan conceived by Mr. Ransom, many nations will have risen and fallen and at best his name will survive only as a legend far back in the mysterious twilight of ancient, very ancient, history.

SHOOTING TO KILL AND OTHER REMEDIES.

Railway mail clerks have been ordered to shoot to kill to protect the vast treasure carried by mail each day. A large robbery moves the Postoffice Department to take drastic steps to protect the people's valuables against bandits. In some instances, Marines will help to guard the mails, and predatory persons seeking sudden wealth in a rough way may turn to other fields. When Marines shoot to kill they have been known to accomplish all of that.

Preparedness, in the guise of armed defenders, can check robbery. Armored cars have been used to carry payroll funds and money transferred from bank to bank in several cities. In Kansas, Oklahoma and other states bank robberies have been reduced by the organization of vigilantes, duly deputized, but serving only in the protection of the banks.

Yet highway robbery, bank robbery and other forms of banditry continue to figure frequently in the crime news. Those who shoot to kill have not yet killed all of those willing to risk the perils of banditry for gain. In England, where cargoes of gold are hauled unguarded in open vans, from the docks to the Bank of England, our arsenals of commerce must suggest anarchy or the wild frontier. We have not yet found the essential remedy, and will not, until there is inculcated in people generally a greater respect for the law, which is the basis of British safety.

The high percentage of conviction for crimes committed in the United Kingdom should make it plain that certainty of punishment is more effective, as a restraining influence, than the chance of sudden death that confronts outlaws in America. That certainty cannot be achieved suddenly. Simplified court procedure is one phase of it; the elimination from our jurisprudence of those technicalities that too often free guilty. Fewer laws are needed, that the police power may be brought to bear on their enforcement, rather than scattered in wasteful and futile effort. An end to unwarranted clemency would make sentences more impressive. These are changes not easily wrought, but it is not any lack of knowledge of remedies, but failure to apply them, that are to blame for our shameful crime record that brings this latest order to shoot to kill.

THE BIGNESS OF BIG BILL.

When Big Bill Tilden was beaten yesterday in the Davis Cup singles by Henri Cochet, a mere stripling from France, a mighty fall it was, and a shadow like the twilight of the gods came across the earth. Tilden defeated? Then well might we look for the collapse of the Nordics, the dismay of our sporting supremacy, the mordant, sad denouement which would cause Atalanta to tear up her sun visor and Hermes to throw away his racquet. Bill Tilden was Big. He was a bigger and better champion. He was the quintessence of American champion production, and in him we had the noblest lord of all.

For six years he stood upon the courts and met all comers. In the sun he stood while balls like white comets whizzed to cut him down. But he met the fiercest services, the most adroit net play, the fastest pace the world could set for him, and gave us victory after victory. Beside him Jack Dempsey is a money-gorged oaf, and Bobby Jones an idler. Dempsey fought a few fights, but who is proud of Dempsey? Bobby won our cheers, but who could depend year after year on Bobby? A dubbed tee shot and Bobby's star would dim. Our wrestling champs were jokes, our swimming hopes centered a while on Weismuller, but he was beaten. Through it all stood Big Bill Tilden, turning back the enemy.

Big Bill—there was a champion. We still believe in him. Even Homer nodded and the Cardinals lost a game. Big Bill was blinking at the baseline yesterday. He'll come back.

WHAT THE BUTLER SAW.

That is a tantalizing story which Walter D. Miller, an old negro butler, told on the witness stand in the Daugherty case. Walter used to work for Ned McLean, but was lent by him to Daugherty. He served Daugherty while he lived in the McLean home on H street. When Daugherty moved from H street to the notorious apartment in the Wardman Park Hotel, Miller got a job in the Department of Justice.

In these peregrinations Daugherty was accompanied by his inseparable companion, Jess Smith. Jess Smith is a moving character in Miller's story. It was Jess Smith who got Miller a job in Daugherty's department. Smith had a job in the department, too, but he had no official title, was not on the payroll and, to this day, no one knows exactly what Smith did. Smith paid the household bills on H street, he wrote letters on official stationery, he received with Daugherty the strange assortment of visitors who called on them.

Among these visitors were John T. King, who received the fee of $441,000 from Richard Merton; Col. Forbes, now in Atlanta Penitentiary for his crooked acts as head of the Veterans' Bureau; Guy D. Goff, now Senator from West Virginia, then First Assistant Attorney-General; William J. Burns, then Chief of the Bureau of Investigation. These names are all closely associated with the celebrated doings of the Ohio gang.

From Miller we get the general atmosphere of the strange household on H street and of the offices of the Department of Justice in the halcyon days of Daugherty. This is, as we have said, tantalizing. There is so much more to know about the high official goings-on of this period.

Who shall tell about it? Jess Smith's career was ended by a bullet in the Wardman Park Hotel. John T. King died a few days after he was indicted in the American Metal case. Col. Forbes took his secrets with him to a penitentiary cell. Guy D. Goff, one of the few members of the gang who is not dead or in disgrace, may hardly be expected to write frank memoirs. William J. Burns? Daugherty himself?

No, we fear that for the present we must content ourselves with the fragmentary stories of butlers and secretaries. Sometime, perhaps, the strange fate which has pursued the H street group, which sealed some lips with death and ostracised others, will reveal completely the dark history of Daugherty and his gang.

MELODIOUSLY PROGRESS MARCHES ON.

A short time ago one of the railroads announced a new color scheme for locomotives, and an expectant nation applauded. 'Tis true the locomotive is a symbol of power, but a great many of the male sex use cosmetics in secret. If men are allowed to powder and paint clandestinely, what is wrong with having a locomotive painted, if not powdered, openly? Nothing; of course not. If the locomotive looks like a circus horse, automobilists will stop to look, if not to listen, as it flashes by. That card, we are happy to announce, has been trumped. A new whistle, as "soft as the wood-winds of a symphony orchestra," has been designed, and will be installed, or whatever is done to whistles, on the engines of the Milwaukee Railroad. No longer will babes cry in the night because locomotives whistle in the night. The whistle will but serve to soothe their slumbers. People will now have reason for heeding in its entirety the sign advising them to "stop, look and listen." Are we expecting too much when we presume that as the train thunders over a grade crossing, the whistle will croon, "Nearer, my God, to Thee"? The locomotive has been made a thing of beauty, and its whistle no longer will jar forever. We are thrilled; we are enthusiastic; we are reckless. We predict the advent of an upper berth in which one can enjoy the slumber which the melodious whistle has induced.

AGAIN IS PARADISE LOST.

We have only one objection to prize fights—every time there is a prize fight, someone computes how much more the gentlemen get for the affair than Milton received for "Paradise Lost." The calculation does not bother us; as a matter of fact, we do not stop to verify the figures. But why choose "Paradise Lost" all the time? Why not "Romeo and Juliet"? Or Dante's "Inferno"? Or Macaulay's "Lays of Ancient Rome"? Wouldn't it even be fitting and proper to figure how many Sears-Roebuck catalogues could be printed for what the principals receive? We are so tired of the practice that we favor a law forbidding anyone to mention "Paradise Lost" unless he can make affidavit to having read the work. The calculation proves nothing, except that the cost of living has gone up since Milton's time. Comparing a prize fight to a poem is unusual, if not cruel. The elaborate figures are supposed to make us bewail the fact that more people are interested in a prize fight than in poetry. But if we lament this deplorable tendency, what can we do about it? Nothing! Then why lament?

LIQUOR PROBLEM IN MANITOBA

From the Chicago News.

THERE is, inevitably, divergence of opinion regarding the effects of "Government control" of liquor as practiced in Manitoba and other Canadian provinces which abandoned prohibition after trial and decided to adopt less drastic methods of promoting temperance. Some Canadians assured the committee which held a series of hearings on prohibition in Washington last spring that Government control, especially in the form adopted in Manitoba—where a Government commission delivers liquor to the homes of registered applicants of good reputation—had produced results satisfactory to moderate and reasonable persons. But these statements are challenged and expressly denied by members of the Manitoba Prohibition Alliance and others. The situation in the Canadian provinces that are testing the plan of Government control of liquor and its limited sale for consumption in the home is of manifest interest to the United States. It is asserted by some citizens of Winnipeg that in Manitoba sixty per cent of the beer manufactured is sold illegally; that many dives and other lawless resorts sell whisky manufactured by illicit stills; that lawlessness and juvenile criminality have increased since the abandonment of strict prohibition, and that neither the drys nor the wets are satisfied with the existing system of Government control. It is admitted, however, by officers of the Manitoba Prohibition Alliance that a return to complete prohibition is out of the question at present. What is advocated and hoped for is a vigorous revival of the temperance movement in the schools, the churches, the civic and industrial organizations and the home. Education, in short, not legal compulsion, is declared by Manitoba temperance leaders to be the really effective preventive of the abuse of drink. In so declaring they proclaim a great and universal truth.

The item, concealed under a heading reading "Continues Grip on British Coal" in the New York Times of May 30, escaped even the editors of The Nation. The Prince sent the Somersetshire Coalfields Distress Committee £10, with a note saying that

"His Royal Highness necessarily cannot takes sides in any dispute, but we all owe a debt to the miners in the past, and everyone must feel sympathy for the wives and children in their hour of distress. Besides, it would not be a satisfactory end to any dispute that one side should be forced to give in on account of the suffering of their dependents."

But these statements are challenged and expressly denied by members of the Manitoba Prohibition Alliance and others. The situation in the Canadian provinces that are testing the plan of Government control of liquor and its limited sale for consumption in the home is of manifest interest to the United States. It is asserted by some citizens of Winnipeg that in Manitoba sixty per cent of the beer manufactured is sold illegally; that many dives and other lawless resorts sell whisky manufactured by illicit stills; that lawlessness and juvenile criminality have increased since the abandonment of strict prohibition, and that neither the drys nor the wets are satisfied with the existing system of Government control. It is admitted, however, by officers of the Manitoba Prohibition Alliance that a return to complete prohibition is out of the question at present. What is advocated and hoped for is a vigorous revival of the temperance movement in the schools, the churches, the civic and industrial organizations and the homes. Education, in short, not legal compulsion, is declared by Manitoba temperance leaders to be the really effective preventive of the abuse of drink. In so declaring they proclaim a great and universal truth.

WALES AND THE NEWSPAPERS.

From the Nation.

THE PRINCE OF WALES is first-page copy—when he falls off a horse, fli to Paris, goes swimming, or dances with a pretty girl. But when the heir to the British throne contributes to the relief of miners' wives and children and boldly states his opposition to a decision-by-starvation the fact does not seem to be big news. When Ellen Wilkinson, M. P., mentioned it in the course of a plea for help for the miners her American audiences simply disbelieved her. The item, concealed under a heading reading "Continues Grip on British Coal" in the New York Times of May 30, escaped even the editors of The Nation. The Prince sent the Somersetshire Coalfields Distress Committee £10, with a note saying that

"His Royal Highness necessarily cannot takes sides in any dispute, but we all owe a debt to the miners in the past, and everyone must feel sympathy for the wives and children in their hour of distress. Besides, it would not be a satisfactory end to any dispute that one side should be forced to give in on account of the suffering of their dependents."

Will the Prince's American admirers who followed him into the shops to buy socks and neckties just like his, copy him in this?

TO ATTEND BRIDE

—Kandeler Photo.

MRS. HUBERTUS SCHOTTEN.

MISS SCHOTTEN will be matron of honor at the marriage of her cousin, Miss Elizabeth Chambers Thatcher, and John Walker Barriger III, to take place at "Glen Owen," the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hudson Thatcher, at 4 o'clock the afternoon of Sept. 25.

MISS HENRIETTA HADLEY, daughter of Chancellor and Mrs. Herbert S. Hadley, of 6510 Ellenwood avenue, will have as her guest next week Miss Mary Catherine Gamble of Denver, Col., who will spend a few days here. Miss Hadley has just returned from Europe, having traveled through England, Scotland and France all summer. She joined Miss Gamble and the latter's aunt in England and was with them much of the time.

Mr. and Mrs. Hadley have returned from a summer in Michigan and Wisconsin.

Another name added to the debutante list today is that of Miss June Morgens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morgens of 4435 Westminster place, who has just returned from Sylvan Beach, Mich., where she has been for the summer.

Mrs. Morgens will give a tea for her daughter and a series of small dinners. Miss Morgens is a graduate of Mary Institute and attended Miss Bennett's School in Millbrook, N. Y., for a year. She will spend part of October in New York with her mother and plans for her debut will be completed after their return.

Secretary of War Dwight F. Davis will return to Washington this week after attending the International tennis matches in Philadelphia and others at Forest Hills, N. Y. Mrs. Davis and their children will remain in their summer home at Dark Harbor, Me., until October.

Mrs. Seth W. Cobb of 4444 Westminster place, and her daughter, Miss Josephine Cobb, returned Tuesday from Rye Beach, N. H., where they spent the month of August.

Of a large St. Louis colony at Rye Beach, only a small number of cottagers remain for the late summer. Mr. and Mrs. Ewing Hill and Mr. and Mrs. Edward V. Papin will stay at Rye until late October.

Mrs. George K. Hoblitzelle of 6450 Ellenwood avenue, and her daughters, Miss Trimble and Miss Eleanor, and Mr. and Mrs. Stephen B. Sheldon of Kingsbury place, and their daughter, Miss Kathleen, have returned from the H. F. Bar Ranch in Wyoming, where they spent the summer. Mrs. Hoblitzelle and the young women, and Miss Cora and Miss Ellen McClay of Pittsburg, Pa., toured Yellowstone Park. Miss Ellen is now visiting her sister, Mrs. Henry Haarstick Whittemore. Miss Cora has returned to her home in Pittsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Lund of 5968 West Cabanne place, and their children, Dorothy and Billy, have returned from Rex Terrace, Mich., where they spent the summer.

Mrs. W. W. Botts of Mexico, Mo., State regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution, is the guest of Mrs. Howard Bailey of the St. Regis apartments. She will attend a patriotic celebration here tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Hoblitzelle of 5092 Westminster place, and their family have returned from Coronado Beach, Cal.

Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Haverstick of 4919 Forest Park boulevard, Messrs. Everett and Krenning Haverstick and Mrs. F. H. Haverstick of St. Louis are in New York for a short time, where they are guests at The Roosevelt.

Dr. and Mrs. John C. Morfit of 5531 Clemens avenue and their children have returned to St. Louis from Ocean City, Md. They spent two months at the seashore and in the mountains.

Mrs. Eugene Blodgett of Lindell boulevard is pending a few days in New York and is a guest at Hotel Lorraine.

Mrs. William John Parker of Webster Groves and her daughter, Miss Thelma, returned Tuesday from Detroit, where they spent a few days following their arrival from Montreal, where they landed after a summer's tour of Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Rodes of the Branscome apartments have returned from their home in Michigan. Their daughter, Mrs. E. Humphrey Price, who with her children, has been visiting her parents in the North, has returned to her home in San Antonio, Tex., after a few days' visit in St. Louis.

Miss Margaret Wise of "Brae-Mar," St. Louis County, will return Sunday from Columbia and Boonville, having spent the last week with Miss Julia Kingsbury, Mrs. Bubbles Cotton and Miss Margaret Proctor. They spent the early part of the summer together at Camp Carry-On. Miss Wise will continue her studies at the John Burroughs School."

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Hardy of Normandy and their sons have returned home from Vineyard Haven, Mass., where Mrs. Hardy and the children have been for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Silliman Gulick of Mansfield, O., are the guests of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. William Gilman Breck, of 701 Eastgate avenue. Mrs. Gulick was formerly Miss Hazel Bromley of St. Louis.

QUEEN MARIE TO VISIT AT WHITE HOUSE ON ARRIVAL

By the Associated Press.

BUCHAREST, Sept. 17.—Queen Marie, on her arrival in New York, Oct. 18, will proceed immediately to Washington to visit President Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge. She may then go West to Seattle, returning later to attend the Sesquicentennial at Philadelphia. Her trip across the Continent, it is understood, will be made on a special train.

With her daughter, Princess Ileana, the young Infanta Beatrice of Spain and a suite, the Queen will leave Bucharest for Paris some time between Oct. 2 and 4, boarding the Leviathan (on which a suite has been placed at her disposal by the American Government) at Cherbourg Oct. 12.

Mmes. Simone Lahovary and Irene Procopiu, grand matrons of the Queen's court, will be her majesty's ladies-in-waiting on the trip. The royal party will total 21. It is probable, but not yet certain, that Prince Nicholas, the Queen's second son, will also go.

Marie probably will accept, before her departure, invitations received from the Governors of Pennsylvania and Washington, the president of the Sesquicentennial Exposition and the Mayor of Detroit, and will decide on other invitations after arriving in New York.

Hurled 25 Stories to Cement —Picked Up Unbroken

DUOFOLD

The Parker Pen Company,
Janesville, Wisconsin.

Chicago, Ill.
June 15th, 1926.

Gentlemen:

Steel work on the new Stevens Hotel was stopped this afternoon while I went to the topmost girder, 25 stories above Eighth St. and Michigan Ave., and dropped two Parker Duofold Pens to the street, 260 feet below.

One pen—a Parker Over-size Duofold—alighted on the cement sidewalk. The other—a Parker Duofold Jr.—alighted on the pavement.

Both pens were immediately picked up by my associates and on examination were found to be unharmed. To make this test it was necessary to block off passage through the street and a large number of people had collected to watch the experiment. I never saw a more amazed crowd in my life than when I reached the ground and found these people gathered about the Parker Duofold Pens. They had expected them to be dashed to fragments—but found them quite whole, in fact, as good as new, except for a small abrasion on the end of the bigger pen. I have signed this letter with that identical Parker and it works to perfection. My hat is off to the Parker Non-breakable Duofold.

Yours very truly,

Frank Ketcheson

Supt. of Steel Construction George A Fuller Co., Builders of Stevens Hotel.

Such Proof is a Better Guarantee Than Any Maker Can Give You

YES, traffic stopped as big Frank Ketcheson, Supt. of Steel Construction for the George A. Fuller Co., hurled two Parker Duofold Pens from his perilous foothold on a slender steel girder of the new Stevens Hotel, Chicago.

One pen struck on asphalt, the other on cement—away they bounded into the air, then landed in the street—unbroken!

We wanted to give the public proof more convincing than any guarantee. So we have shown by a series of heroic tests that the new Parker Duofold Pens with Permanite barrels do not break.

Get this sturdy black-tipped lacquer-red beauty at any good pen counter. Point guaranteed 25 years for wear and mechanical perfection. But look with care for the stamp of the genuine "Geo. S. Parker." And carry the pen that all the world respects.

LEGISLATURE TO BE ASKED TO PUT WOMEN ON JURIES

Missouri Association for Criminal Justice Adopts Program of New Laws.

ELECTRIC CHAIR FOR EXECUTIONS

Intermediate Reformatory and Abolition of Technicalities That Protect Criminals Urged.

Women would serve on juries, criminals sentenced to death would be executed by electricity at the State Penitentiary, an intermediate reformatory would be established for first offenders, and legal technicalitis which enable criminals to escape justice would be abolished, if a legislative program approved at a conference here is adopted by the State Legislature to which it will be submitted in January.

The meeting, called by the Missouri Association for Criminal Justice, opened yesterday, at the Chamber of Commerce, and will be concluded today. Attending it are 40 men and women including members of the State Legislature, jurists, attorneys, police officials, civic workers and officers of the association.

"Do women want to serve on criminal juries and be locked up with men?" asked John T. Barker of Kansas City, president of the Missouri Bar Association and former Attorney General of Missouri, when the matter of equal jury service for men and women came up for discussion late yesterday afternoon.

"Is there a real demand for legislation to bring this about?" he added, seemingly shocked and surprised.

Women on Juries.

"Certainly," replied Mrs. George B. Mangold, independent president of the St. Louis League of Women Voters. "We do not want jury service simply for itself, but because jury duty should fall upon all citizens, men and women alike. Women should serve on juries as part of their civic duty."

By a vote of 5 to 4, jury service for women was then approved as part of the legislative program. Among those voting "Aye" were J. Hugo Grimm, former Circuit Judge, and Jones H. Parker, Speaker of the Missouri House of Representatives and former Assistant Circuit Attorney in St. Louis.

The proposal that an intermediate reformatory be provided for first offenders between the ages of 17 and 27 years was approved after Circuit Judge David Harris of Fulton had declared it shameful to imprison such persons with hardened criminals in the penitentiary at Jefferson City or with delinquent boys in the Boonville Reformatory as is done at present. If the intermediate reformatory is established, the Boonville institution will return to its former status as a training school for delinquent boys between the ages of 7 and 17. It is estimated the intermediate reformatory would cost $75,0000 exclusive of convict labor.

Electrocution Favored.

The proposal to install an electric chair in the State penitentiary at Jefferson City was approved without discussion. At present criminals sentenced to death are hanged in the county or city in which their crime was committed.

Considerable discussion was evoked by a proposal, also approved, that after an indictment had been returned or an information filed in a court of record, there shall be no nolle prosequi entered except when the prosecutor has filed a written statement of his reasons for dismissing the case; and that the trial Judge, if he deems the prosecutor's reasons inadequate, may reject the nolle prosequi and appoint a special prosecutor to conduct the case. Jurists say the present law compels them to accept a prosecutor's nolle prosequi even though they believe his reasons for dismissing the case are insufficient.

"Police in St. Louis and other cities use stool pigeons in making many cases and if the prosecutor had to file a statement giving the stool pigeon's name, there would be a new face in heaven next morning," delcared Jones H. Parker, adding: "The St. Louis mail robbery for which 'Dinty' Colbeck and his Egan gangsters are in Leavenworth prison was turned up by a snitch. Criminals hate snitches and kill them on sight."

Replying to Parker's objections, former Judge Thomas C. Hennings, president o fthe Missouri Association for Criminal Justice, said criminals know who the snitches are without being told, and Chancellor Herbert S. Hadley of Washington University, a director of the association, said it would not be necessary for a prosecutor in giv-

LEGISLATURE TO BE ASKED TO PUT WOMEN ON JURIES

Missouri Association for Criminal Justice Adopts Program of New Laws.

ELECTRIC CHAIR FOR EXECUTIONS

Intermediate Reformatory and Abolition of Technicalities That Protect Criminals Urged.

Women would serve on juries, criminals sentenced to death would be executed by electricity at the State Penitentiary, an intermediate reformatory would be established for first offenders, and legal technicalitis which enable criminals to escape justice would be abolished, if a legislative program approved at a conference here is adopted by the State Legislature to which it will be submitted in January.

The meeting, called by the Missouri Association for Criminal Justice, opened yesterday, at the Chamber of Commerce, and will be concluded today. Attending it are 40 men and women including members of the State Legislature, jurists, attorneys, police officials, civic workers and officers of the association.

"Do women want to serve on criminal juries and be locked up with men?" asked John T. Barker of Kansas City, president of the Missouri Bar Association and former Attorney General of Missouri, when the matter of equal jury service for men and women came up for discussion late yesterday afternoon.

"Is there a real demand for legislation to bring this about?" he added, seemingly shocked and surprised.

Women on Juries.

"Certainly," replied Mrs. George B. Mangold, independent president of the St. Louis League of Women Voters. "We do not want jury service simply for itself, but because jury duty should fall upon all citizens, men and women alike. Women should serve on juries as part of their civic duty."

By a vote of 5 to 4, jury service for women was then approved as part of the legislative program. Among those voting "Aye" were J. Hugo Grimm, former Circuit Judge, and Jones H. Parker, Speaker of the Missouri House of Representatives and former Assistant Circuit Attorney in St. Louis.

The proposal that an intermediate reformatory be provided for first offenders between the ages of 17 and 27 years was approved after Circuit Judge David Harris of Fulton had declared it shameful to imprison such persons with hardened criminals in the penitentiary at Jefferson City or with delinquent boys in the Boonville Reformatory as is done at present. If the intermediate reformatory is established, the Boonville institution will return to its former status as a training school for delinquent boys between the ages of 7 and 17. It is estimated the intermediate reformatory would cost $75,0000 exclusive of convict labor.

Electrocution Favored.

The proposal to install an electric chair in the State penitentiary at Jefferson City was approved without discussion. At present criminals sentenced to death are hanged in the county or city in which their crime was committed.

Considerable discussion was evoked by a proposal, also approved, that after an indictment had been returned or an information filed in a court of record, there shall be no nolle prosequi entered except when the prosecutor has filed a written statement of his reasons for dismissing the case; and that the trial Judge, if he deems the prosecutor's reasons inadequate, may reject the nolle prosequi and appoint a special prosecutor to conduct the case. Jurists say the present law compels them to accept a prosecutor's nolle prosequi even though they believe his reasons for dismissing the case are insufficient.

"Police in St. Louis and other cities use stool pigeons in making many cases and if the prosecutor had to file a statement giving the stool pigeon's name, there would be a new face in heaven next morning," delcared Jones H. Parker, adding: "The St. Louis mail robbery for which 'Dinty' Colbeck and his Egan gangsters are in Leavenworth prison was turned up by a snitch. Criminals hate snitches and kill them on sight."

Replying to Parker's objections, former Judge Thomas C. Hennings, president o fthe Missouri Association for Criminal Justice, said criminals know who the snitches are without berng told, and Chancellor Herbert S. Hadley of Washington University, a director of the association, said it would not be necessary for a prosecutor in giving reasons for a nolle prosequi to reveal the name of an informer, especially if to do so would result in another homicide.

LEGISLATURE TO BE ASKED TO PUT WOMEN ON JURIES

No Expansion of Judge's Powers.

The conference disapproved a change suggested by Chancellor Hadley which would have given State judges powers similar to those now possessed by Federal Judges in this county and by English judges, permitting the State judges in giving instructions to the jury to "make such comments on the evidence and the testimony and character of any witness as, in his opinion, the interests of justice may require."

Prior to the disapproval by the whole conference, this proposal had been disapproved in executive session by the Committee on Necessary Changes in Criminal Procedure. Opponents charged that the privilege of comment had been abused by certain Federal judges and would be abused by State judges.

Chancellor Hadley accepted defeat of the proposal, saying: "This is a most important provision, designed to make a trial judge more than a mere moderator, but it is not opportune, is controversial and might jeopardize the whole program."

A provision for a public defender to represent defendants too poor to engage an attorney was disapproved, those present being satisfied with the present practice whereby the trial Judge appoints an attorney to defend persons who are without counsel.

Prompt Hearings Voted Down.

Also disapproved was a provision under which persons, charged with felonies, would be taken immediately after arrest, before a magistrate and be given an opportunity to make a public statement and answer questions regarding the charge. Chancellor Hadley spoke in favor of this, saying it would tend to eliminate third-degree tactics by police in forcing statements from prisoners. Other speakers, however, said the present practice of giving defendants preliminary hearings some time after their arrest, should be retained.

T. R. R. Ely of Kennett, member of the House of Representatives, objected several times to proposals, on the ground that present laws would serve.

"The trouble is not with the law, but with the officers," he asserted. "For example, three men were shot and killed last fall at a roadhouse at Creve Coeur. A few weeks ago a minister's son from down my way shot and killed two men out there. Why did the authorities out there leave such a place open to sell liquor?"

Other changes in criminal procedure recommended are:

If a defendant testifies, he shall be subject to cross-examination just as is any other witness, and if he fails to testify, his failure may be commented upon by the Court and counsel in their statements to the jury.

Prosecution for crime may be either by indictment or information. It will be sufficient in either case to state the offense charged. The Court, for good cause, may require a bill of particulars. The purpose of this provision is to abolish the cumbersome legal phraseology, hitherto considered indispensable.

Cutting Time of Appeals.

Shortening time for appeals by filing bill of exceptions in six months instead of year at present.

Making separate trials on joint indictments a matter of discretion for the Court, thus saving expense. Permitting the State to make as many peremptory challenges of talesmen as the defense.

Making a five-sixths verdict of a jury sufficient to convict in felony cases except where death is the penalty, in which cases the verdict of the jury must be unanimous.

The defendant, in any case except where the death penalty may be imposed, may waive trial by jury and have the case tried by the Court.

When juries agree on a verdict of guilty but disagree on punishment, the trial Judge may tell the jury he has the right to set the punishment. At present, the Judge has the right to fix punishment but has not the right to let the jury know of this, and consequently many hung juries result.

Whenever a person under indictment intends to plead insanity he must notify the Court of his intention 10 days before the date of trial, so the State may prepare accordingly. At present most insanity pleas are made without advance notice.

State Constabulary Proposed.

The proposed changes in criminal procedure, both those which were approved and those disapproved, were formulated in part by Chancellor Hadley and in part by Jesse W. Barrett, former Attorney-General of Missouri, and were presented to the conference by State Senator Ralph Wammack, chairman of the committee which considered them. Also presented yesterday, and adopted in large part, were reports on judicial administration, bail bonds, record systems, pardons, paroles and commutations.

No recommendations were made concerning two important provisions—home rule in municipal police affairs and creation of a State police department. The committee considering the provisions reported today that lack of time and conflicting opinions precluded any recommendations.

The Board of Directors of the Missouri Association for Criminal Justice will meet in Kansas City Oct. 2 to formulate a final legislative opinion, taking into consideration the legislation recommended at the St. Louis conference.

OFFICE OF

CHICAGO May 21st,
1926.

The suburban district of New York is as much a part of the New York market as the city itself.

The suburbs include parts of New Jersey, of New York, outside the limits of the greater city, of Connecticut and almost the whole of Long Island.

When any manufacturer is laying out a sales campaign to cover the New York market, he must consider the suburbs and if he is going to advertise to cover that market he must look for at least one newspaper that covers the suburbs and covers them thoroughly.

The New York Herald Tribune has more circulation in the New York Suburban territory on week days, than any standard size morning newspaper. The better the neighborhood, the larger the Herald Tribune circulation.

FRIENDS FAR APART IN TOUCH BY RADIO

Communicate Between Arctic and East Africa by Means of Air.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17. — The shrinkage of the world through the use of radio and telegraph has permitted two Pathe News cameramen to maintain an intimate friendship for seven years, although their work often kept them actually a world apart.

This practice came to light recently, when they were so far separated that their messages, serious and joking, had to be relayed through their home office.

The men are Charles Charlton, now with the Smithsonian-Chrysler expedition in Tanganyika Territory, East Africa, and Maurice Kellerman, with the George Palmer Putnam expedition on the schooner Morrissey, off Ellsmereland, near the Arctic Ocean, hunting the norwhal.

The most recent message sent from Charlton to Kellerman follows in punctuated form, but otherwise as it appeared on the cable:

"Greetings Kelly. Hope you have your walruses and norwhals. Temperature here around 100 in the blue. Have just returned from 32 days safari. Charged four times rhinos. Get corking stuff, also thorns in leg. Mann (Dr. William M. Mann) and I charged by family lions, also herd buffaloes. Okeh, except native bearers hurt, also one Boer hunter recovering in hospital. Leaving now re Fiji fiveday distant for elepnant, rhino, hippo. Initiated member Wagogo tribe with technical right many wives as I wish. Bet you cannot beat that with Eskimaux. Will swap you leopard skin for good fox pelt. Mann joins me regards Putnam and bunch."

Soon after this message was relayed Kellerman answered with the following one:

"Your wire great stuff but will stack herd of wild walrus against your rhinos any day. Norwhal, muck-ox, polar bear, caribou seals all plentiful up here. No eskimo wives yet but Inyoughiteq offers let me adopt four children. Temperature 28. Hope to be home next month and thaw out."

The men will meet each other in a temperate clime in the fall, remaining until other difficult assignments send them again on such adventurous expeditions as have become routine with them.

PROHIBITION CHIEF ISSUE IN BAY STATE, DEMOCRAT ASSERTS

Interjection of Coolidge's Name Into Campaign Grossly Unfair, Candidate Says.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Sept. 17.—William A. Gaston, Democratic nominee for governorship, last night declared prohibition the chief issue in the coming election. He branded as "grossly unfair" the interjection of President Coolidge's name into the campaign in an attempt to elect a Republican Senator and a Republican state ticket.

He advocated a proper license law to eliminate the bootlegger and promote true temperance.

"The question of how to control intoxication, how to better our deplorable condition in regard to intemperance, is the one absorbing question of the hour," he said.

"Prohibition laws have not decreased crime. Prohibition itself is and always has been obnoxious to the free man everywhere. A license law under governmental control, as administered in Quebec and Sweden, can be enforced, but no absolute prohibition law such as we have can be. I believe that a modification of the Volstead act is imperative."

Street Car Conductor Loses $8 at End of Run; Negro Fare Robs Chauffeur.

Four holdups were reported last night to police, who arrested one man identified by two victims of an oil station robbery Tuesday night.

Alonzo Hazely, conductor of a Lee avenue car, was robbed of $8 by a man with a revolver at the south end of his run. Brownie Kersey, Yellow taxicab chauffeur, was robbed of $5 by a Negro fare at Eighteenth and Division streets. Grover Sullivan lost $50 to two men in his confectionery at 2702 Goodfellow avenue. Elmer Straszacker of 2205A Mullanphy street was robbed of $24 by three men at Twentieth street and Cass avenue.

Noble Reed, 20 years old, identified by two men as one of three robbers who took $62 from the filling station at 3538 South Kingshighway boulevard, Tuesday night, was arrested at 4208A Chouteau avenue. He denied the charge.

Gasoline Tax $3,946,710.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 17.—A total of $3,946,710.06 has been collected and paid into the State Treasury, and credited to the "good roads fund" of the state from the 2-cent tax on gasoline this year. This represents a total gallonage of gasoline on which the 2-cent tax was paid of 188,601,900. These figures cover the period from Jan. 1, 1926, to Sept. 1, 1926. For 1925 there was a total of 259,163,000 gallons of gasoline consumed in Missouri.

TWO MEN SURRENDER AFTER FEUD FLAREUP

Palazzolo and Russo Deny They Know What Shooting Is About.

Two men wanted by county authorities for questioning about a pistol fight at Joe Gonella's roadhouse on Olive Street road Wednesday evening and a subsequent running fight on the road, surrendered at Clayton yesterday and were released on bonds of $1000 each.

They are Alphonse Palazzolo, 28 years old, of 1433 North Fourteenth street, and Tony Russo, known as "Shorty," 23, of 1218 North Sixth street. Palazzolo is a partner of John Giannola, downtown Italian leader, in the whoelsale sugar and grocery business, who was wounded with two other men in the first St. Louis outbreak of the present Italian bootleggers' gang war on Aug. 19.

Russo and Palazzolo both appeared willing to discuss the shooting at Gonnella's, but they declared they had no idea what it was all about.

They said they were at a table in the roadhouse when the shooting began outside. In the panic which ensued in the place both fled out a rear door, they declared, and hid behind the building for an hour.

SLAYER OF TWO MEN IN ROADHOUSE HELD IN JAIL

Miles L. Mainord Admits Shooting at Creve Coeur Resort; Says He Was Drunk.

Miles Levi Mainord, 24 years old, of 4330 West Pine boulevard, who confessed that he shot and killed James P. Duffy and Malcolm J. McDonald at the Duffquin roadhouse on Creve Coeur Lake, Aug. 29, was held for the grand jury without bond at a preliminary hearing yesterday. He made no statement.

His confession, corroborated by his brother, Charles, and a friend, Tony Jordan, related that he shot the men while drunk after being evicted from the roadhouse. Duffy was part owner of the place, and McDonald, his cousin, was a bartender.

THREE MEN FINED AFTER AUTOMOBILE HITS A TREE

Motorist Pays $15 on Reckless Driving Charge and Is Rearrested for Being Drunk.

William Jarrett, 53 years old, was fined $15 and costs on a charge of reckless driving with an automobile, and Charles Koch and Albert Thoms, $10 and costs each, on charges of intoxication in Belleville yesterday, after an automobile driven by Jarrett collided with a tree at Fifth and C streets. After Jarrett had paid his fine for reckless driving, he was rearrested on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated, which was filed against him in the St. Clair County Court by an Assistant State's Attorney. Thoms was cut on the head and required surgical attention. Jarrett's bond in the County Court was fixed at $1000.

BOND SALE INQUIRY IS BEGUN

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 17.—An inquiry into the sale of $70,800 in bonds deposited with State Treasurer Eugene Stephens by the defunct American Exchange Bank of Sedalia, to guarantee state deposits in the bank, has been instituted by the State Finance Department, it was learned today, to determine if the bank liquidation officer had legal authority to recover the difference between the price received for the bonds by Stephens and the resale price received by the Jefferson City Bank, which bought the bonds from the Treasurer.

No charge of any irregularity has been made by the finance department, but it referred the matter to Attorney General N. T. Gentry some time ago for an opinion. No opinion has been rendered so far, it was said.

Dies Trying to Tell News of Death.

TOPEKA, Kan.—While trying to tell her aged husband of the death of their grandson, Mrs. M. L. Burson, 73 years old, was overcome with grief, fainted and a few minutes later was dead. The grandson, Glenn Burson, 12 years old, son of Glen Burson Sr., killed in an automobile accident, was the second son of Burson's to die within six weeks.

GROCERIES Home Economics FOOD

Put Properly Chosen Foods In Children's Lunch Box

Under Nourished Pupils Are Apt to Be Backward in Their Lessons and Susceptible to Disease Germs.

AMERICAN mothers, particularly those who have children of school age, are reminded that there are more than 5,000,000 undernourished children in this country which emphasizes the need for paying special attention to what is given school children in their mid-day lunch box.

Malnourishment is not necessarily a matter of under feeding. In fact, a majority of these malnourished boys and girls are not underfed. Some of them are overfed.

They are not getting the kind of food their bodies need for normal development, and when the young body is not properly nourished the young mind is not capable of making proper progress in studies.

Let the schoolboy and girl eat heartily of a varied diet, but see to it that this diet includes a bountiful portion of milk and a full allowance of green vegetables. In packing the noon lunch for those who must eat at school, remember that dainty sandwiches with lettuce or celery and some fruit with milk or cocoa.

In making the sandwich for box or basket much depends on the size of loaf and thickness of bread, whether two or three sandwiches are enough. Also the kind of bread and the kind of filling used for the sandwich. Whether the child has a glass of milk or a cup of cocoa with the luncheon.

Two dainty sandwiches, either celery, lettuce, minced meat, jelly raisin or peanut butter; a pear, orange, ripe banana, or an apple; one or two cookies, a drop cake or a cup cake makes an excellent luncheon and where a thermos bottle is carried a cup of cream of vegetable soup for a change, and if a box or basket is carried a cup custard, or a cup of rice, bread or tapioca pudding which is left over from the evening dinner.

In making sandwiches for the lunch box, remember that the bread should be at least one day old. Whole wheat and bran bread are excellent for sandwiches and stale rolls are palatable and attractive when used in sandwiches.

After the sandwich is made, cut it into three-cornered shape or in finger shape; wrap each sandwich in wax paper. Wrap the cake and fruit separately. If packed in a box or basket, put in order as it should be eaten. Each of the above menus give the child four thin slices of bread, besides cakes, cookies and fruit.

Some recipes follow for sandwiches for school lunch boxes.

Corned Beef Sandwiches.

Finely chop cold cooked corned beef, using a little of the fat. Season with paprika and spread between slices of Boston brown bread.

Chicken Sandwiches.

Finely chop cooked white meat of chicken and pound to a smooth paste. Season to taste with salt, paprika, oil and lemon juice and spread upon thin slices of bread. Spread thin slices of buttered bread with thinly sliced nuts and an equal number of slices with the chicken and put the chicken and nut slices together.

Jelly Sandwiches.

Spread thin slices of buttered bread with jelly. Wrap a cold chicken drum-stick in oiled paper and serve with the jelly sandwiches.

Egg Sandwiches.

Press hard cooked eggs through a potato ricer or sieve. Season with salt, pepper and salad dressing. Spread between slices of graham bread.

Raisin Sandwiches.

Put raisins and walnuts through a food chopper. Mix thoroughly and add lemon juice. Spread between buttered slices of bread.

PLANNING MENUS FOR THE COMING WEEK

The Necessity for Balanced Meals Is a Recognized Economic Fact.

THIS is the week of the first oysters and it is to be noted that they are used in the form of patties so as to extend their flavor. In preparing oyster patties or pie, sufficient creamed oysters are reserved to serve on toast for the children and any invalid member of the family, who should not indulge in pastry.

The ever popular green corn is used in a number of ways, and it is suggested that even greater variety may be achieved with this delicacy if the housewife will use her own ingenuity. She may care to can some for use during the coming winter, but this procedure is of doubtful wisdom. In these days of scientifically prepared canned goods it is only the housewife who luxuriates in spacious quarters who will care to do home canning.

Not every one realizes the possibilities of toasted cheese sandwiches. These are a simplified form of club sandwiches and are delicious. Simply have ready enough slices of delicately thin toast to make possible the desired number of sandwiches. Cut these in triangles and for each sandwich butter one side lightly and spread the other with American cheese. Place the triangle containing the cheese on a rack in the oven and heat just enough to cause the cheese to begin to melt, but not sufficient to let it "run." Press the buttered triangle on top of the cheese triangle and arrange attractively on a hot plate.

It is suggested that the possibility of pickles should be given some consideration during these autumn days when crisp and crunchy relishes are especially in order. One delightful variation of cucumber pickle is to slice the small gherkins and preserve them in olive oil.

POPULAR RELISHES FOR WINTER USE

Home-Made Pickled Sauces Will Come in Useful This Winter.

Tomatoes are probably the most versatile of all our vegetables. Green or ripe, they make appetizing pickles and sauces for winter use.

Tomato Catsup.

Although most housewives have a recipe for this popular relish a tested recipe calls for four quarts sliced tomatoes, four tablespoons salt, one quart vinegar, one tablespoon allspice, two tablespoons white pepper and three tablespoons mustard.

Cook tomatoes in salt and vinegar till tender. Rub through a sieve, passing through all the pulp possible, add spices and seasonings and boil all slowly for three hours. Bottle and seal when cold.

Chilli Sauce.

Use two dozen tomatoes, three green peppers, three onions, one-half cup sugar, one quart vinegar, two tablespoons salt, one tablespoon each of ground cloves, nutmeg, ginger and allspice.

Scald and peel tomatoes, cut in small pieces and put with all the other ingredients into a saucepan. Cook very slowly for three hours and then bottle and seal.

Piccalilli.

One peck of green tomatoes, one and one-half cups salt, one teaspoon tumeric powder, two cups sugar, one red pepper chopped fine, six medium-sized onions, one teaspoon cloves and two teaspoons cinnamon. Enough vinegar to cover mixture.

Slice green tomatoes and onions. Sprinkle with salt and let stand over night. Drain in a bag. Put in preserving kettle, cover with vinegar and set over fire. Add tumeric powder mixed with vinegar, cloves, cinnamon, sugar and red pepper.

Reasonable Use of Coffee Is In No Way Harmful

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.
United States Senator From New York,

A FEW days ago I read a report about some raids made in Jersey City by the health authorities. One of the inspectors followed a big motor truck smelling of fermenting dough. The cargo was discharged at a baking and drying place where as a side line they were conducting a grinding plant. According to this newspaper account the health inspector declared "sour and mouldy dough and other refuse of big New York bakeries were turned into substitutes for ground coffee in these places."

Fortunately we are imposed upon at the expense of our pocketbooks and rarely at the expense of our health. Few of the fraudulent additions to food are in and of themselves harmful to the human body. For instance, ground up bakery products are harmless so far as health is concerned and they possess some food value. But the real crime connected with this sort of a transaction is that people pay for something they do not get. In this case they pay for coffee and receive a practically worthless product instead of pure coffee.

You must not reach the wrong conclusion as a result of reading this story. It is not necessary for you to say, "I will never buy any more ground coffee." Every store has on its shelves cans or packages of ground coffee labeled with the names of the producers. These great concerns have established reputations for honest dealing. The laws demand that the labels shall tell the truth. When you have back of any given product the weight of Government authority and the reputation of a great business concern, you may be sure you are getting exactly what you want.

It has been my experience that what we call "reputable" concerns are reputable in every sense. They gladly assist constituted authorities to maintain high standards. They can't afford to sell inferior goods. Their dividends depend upon honesty in business.

The United States Government has passed wise laws relating to the purity of foods. Every civilized government is demanding high standards in all food products. The label must cointain a statement of the facts regarding the contents of the package.

A reasonable indulgence in this delicious beverage will hurt nobody.

There is a slight degree of exhilaration or stimulation following the drinking of a cup of coffee. In a way it increases appetite and adds to the sense of well-being.

The use of coffee as it is commonly induldged in in America is in no way harmful. On the contrary, in my opinion, it promotes the general welfare.

MAKE DAINTY SALADS OF EVERY DAY FOODS

The Salad Course Is the Popular Part of Modern Menus.

Every day salads are becoming better appreciated in American homes, though not all of us are yet up to the excellent French habit of a salad with at least one meal out of three.

But the salad really should be as much of a staple article of diet as meat or pie, for the American diet needs the diversification and lightening that a salad gives.

Watermelon Salad.

With a French vegetable cutter cut small balls from a watermelon which is very ripe and has a good red color. Remove the seeds carefully. Put the balls in the ice box to chill. When ready to serve arrange in cups of small crisp lettuce leaves and garnish with sprigs of mint. Serve with French dressing.

Combination Salad.

Cut cooked string beans into small pieces, then add an equal quantity of cooked green peas, lima beans and chopped pimento; mix and season with salad dressing and put on ice to chill. Fill scooped-out apple shells with the iced vegetable mixture and serve with chicory. Put a teaspoonful of salad dressing on top.

Stuffed Pears.

Stuffed Cucumber Salad.

Pare a short cucumber and cut in lengthwise halves, remove the seeds and let chill in ice water for an hour. Chop together the solid part of a peeled and seeded tomato, half a slice of raw onion, a stalk of celery and a sprig of parsley. Mix with mayonnaise or a boiled salad dressing and use as a filling for the well dried halves of cucumbers. Serve on cress or lettuce.

Tomato Radish Salad.

Take one bunch radishes, one head lettuce and three tomatoes. Plunge tomatoes in boiling water; remove skins and chill. Remove tops and roots from radishes and wash clean. Slice both thing and marinate with French dressing. Serve on bed of shredded lettuce.

Stuffed Tomato Salad.

Take six tomatoes, one tablespoon chopped celery, one green pepper, one cup cucumber, one-half teaspoon salt and pinch of pepper.

Wash, peel and cut slice from stem end of tomatoes. Remove pulp carefully in order not to cut shells. Chop celery, green pepper and tomato pulp. Peel and cut cucumber into dice. Mix all together adding salt and pepper. Fill tomato cups and top with teaspoon mayonnaise.

TRY THESE SOUTHERN RECIPES

This Is the Last Call for Peaches.

Southern cookery, which probably offers as many delicious cooked dishes as any of the American types of food, has evolved a way of putting up peaches which should be more generally made use of.

This method of canning peaches goes by many different names, probably Maryland Peaches is as suitable as any other of the names.

Pare as many peaches as are needed and put them into dry, clean jars. Fill in all available space in the jar with granulated sugar, shaking the sugar down in the jar solid around the fruit. Put on the rubbers and the jar covers and seal. Wrap each jar in dark blue paper and set in a dark place where it is dry and cool. Allow the jars to remain undisturbed for at least three months, when the peaches will be ready to serve.

Peach Mangoes.

Take fine, large free-stone peaches. They should be ripe, but not the least bit bruised. Large, white free-stone are best for this purpose. Having rubbed off the down with a clean flannel, throw them into salt and water for 24 hours. A brine made of a cup of salt to a gallon of water will do. Then cut the peaches in half, remove stones and put the halves into cold vinegar and water in equal parts. Make a stuffing of grated horseradish, white mustard seeds, mace, cloves, allspice, pepper, ground nutmeg, and a very little minced onion, with brown sugar enough to make the stuffing rich. Fill the cavities, then put together the two halves of each peach (making them fit exactly) and tie them round with coarse thread or fine twine. Put them into stone jars, filling each jar rather more than three-quarters full and laying among them little thin muslin bags of tumeric to color them yellow. They are very good without the tumeric. Fill up jars to the top with cold vinegar of the best quality, real white wine vinegar, if you are sure it is real. Close the jars and seal well. They will be ready to eat in two months. This is an old Southern recipe and very good.

Peach Leather.

Take one-half peck of peaches, wash and remove stones. Weigh fruit and to each pound allow one-quarter of a pound of sugar. Put peaches in kettle, cover, and stew slowly, stirring occasionally until the mass is smooth and rather dark. Add the sugar and continue cooking until a teaspoonful cooled in a saucer will roll into a soft ball. Then turn into tumblers, cool, and cover as for jelly. Apples and quinces may be treated in the same way. This is very nice for the school or other lunches.

Braun needs the body-building elements of good malt and finds them most desirably provided in Buckeye

The labors and trials of each man's day are different but most men's choice of malt extract is the same. For in Buckeye, they find, best provided, body-building elements that keep them fit. This purity and its fascinating flavor won for Buckeye nation-wide leadership.

It will win your preference instantly for, actual tests have proved that the 2½ pound can of Buckeye is much to be preferred to 3 pounds of ordinary malt.

ATTRACTIVE DISHES MADE OF CUCUMBERS

This Dainty Vegetable Adds an Artistic Note to Cookery.

This is the season for cucumbers. They should not be given to young children, but for grownups they are admirable salad vegetables. Their reaction is alkaline and they are so crisp in texture as to make a salad in which they appear palatable to the average individual.

As an aid in this connection, the following recipes may prove of assistance.

Cucumber Boats.

Take two and one-half tablespoons gelatine, one-half cup cold water, three and one-half cups tomatoes, one-half onion, one-half bay leaf, one stalk celery, two cloves, pinch of salt, pinch of pepper and two tablespoons tarragon vinegar.

Soak gelatine in cold water five minutes. Mix remaining ingredients, except vinegar, bring to boiling-point and let boil ten minutes. Add vinegar and soaked gelatine, and when gelatine is dissolved, strain. Turn into cold mold and chill.

Wash and cut small cucumbers in halves lengthwise, without peeling. Scoop out centers; drain and add pulp to tomato jelly when it has become as thick as molasses. When set fill cucumber boats and serve with French or Mayonnaise dressing.

Cucumber Salad.

A nice cucumber jelly salad is made of two tablespoons gelatine, two tablespoons cold water, two cups of meat or chicken stock, one-fourth cup diced celery, one-fourth cup grated onion, one bay leaf, two medium sized cucumbers, one-half cup chopped parsley and some green vegetable coloring.

Soak gelatine in cold water five minutes. Add bay leaf, onion and celery to chicken stock and bring gradually to boiling point and cook 15 minutes. Remove from fire and strain. Add soaked gelatine and green coloring and let cool. When thick as molasses consistency, add 1½ cucumbers, which have been finely chopped and turn into molds, in bottom of each of which is a slice of cucumber sprinkled with chopped parsley. Chill and serve on lettuce, garnishing with mayonnaise and shredded almonds.

Tempting dishes are a necessity in the hot weather. Summer months require light, nourishing foods that tempt the appetite and do not overheat nor overtax.

Fruit juices should alternate with fresh whole milk and buttermilk to form the beverage, although ice tea may be used with discretion by grownups.

Apple Peach Jelly.

Wipe apples; remove stem and blossom ends and cut in quarters. Put in preserving kettle and add cold water to come nearly to top of apples. Cover and cook slowly until apples are soft; then drain through a double thickness of cheesecloth or a jelly bag.

Scald peaches two minutes; dip quickly in cold water. Skin, cut in halves and remove stones. Add cold water to come nearly to top of peaches. Cover and cook slowly until peaches are soft; then drain juice and use equal quantity apple and peach juice. Boil 20 minutes and add sugar in the proportion of three-fourths cup sugar to each cup of juice. Bring to boiling point, boil five minutes, then skim and pour into sterilized jelly glasses. When cold cover with melted paraffin and lid.

RECIPES FOR DISHES IN WEEK'S MENUS

Here Are Different Ways of Cooking and Serving Every-Day Foods.

This is one variety of the standard fruit betty. The proportions of fruit and bread crumbs may be varied according to taste. Have ready a pudding dish and place alternate layers of nicely buttered bread crumbs and crushed fresh and sugared berries, being careful to have a layer of crumbs on top. Pour around enough juice to make the pudding the desired consistency. What our grandmothers called judgment must be used here. The pudding should be neither too soft nor too dry, but "just right." One factor in helping to decide the quantity of juice is naturally the dryness of the bread crumbs.

To make the hard sauce use pulverized sugar and proceed as follows: One-third cup butter, one cup confectioners' sugar, one teaspoon vanilla extract. Cream the butter very light, adding the sugar little by little and heating thoroughly. Stir in flavoring last and heat on glass dish.

Oyster Pie.

Prepare patty shells of puff paste, enough for individual servings, according to size of the family. Have ready nicely creamed oysters and add a generous portion of the mixture to each patty shell.

To make the puff paste proceed as follows:

Use bread flour, one cup; lard, one tablespoon; butter, one-eighth cup, and cold water to work. Rub the lar dinto the flour, chopping with a knife and then using finger tips. Moisten with cold water and pat out on a floured board. Knead for five minutes and cover with a towel and let stand five minutes longer. Pat out and roll one-quarter inch thick. Place a bit of butter in the center of each one and fold the other part of the puff over. Press firmly on the edges so as to allow as much air as possible to be enclosed. Repeat this process until the butter is used. Roll out, shape and shell. Baking requires [illegible] care. Have the oven very hot, baking the paste on a tin sheet which has ben covered with a double thickness of brown paper. In this instance, the paste is shaped with a cutter first dipped in flour and the centers removed so that the patty shells will be the proper shape.

Corn Griddle Cakes.

Three cups flour, one egg, three-fourths teaspoon salt, one cup milk, three teaspoons baking powder, two tablespoons margarin, one and three-fourths tablespoons sugar, one cup corn cut from the cob. Sift all dry materials and add the well-baeten agg which has been mixed with the milk, beating thoroughly until the two mixtures are thoroughly combined. Stir in the shortening and cook on a well-oiled griddle.

Ginger Bread.

One cup molasses, two cups flour, two teaspoons ginger, one-half cup sour milk, one egg, one-third cup margarin, one and three-fourths teaspoons soda, one-half teaspoon salt. Mix the margarin and molasses and bring to the boiling point. After taking from the fire add the soda and beat well. Add the combined milk and beaten egg and lastly the sifted and combined and resifted dry material. Bake in a small buttered tin filled two-thirds full.

Orange Omelette.

Three eggs, two oranges, one-half tablespoon margarin, two and one-half tablespoon orange juice, two tablespoons powdered sugar, one teaspoon lemon juice, few grains salt. Separate the whites from the egg yolks. Beat the yolks well with salt, pepper and orange juice. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Have ready a hot omelette pan well buttered. Pour in the egg and fold in a portion of the orange slices sprinkled with powdered sugar. Remove the folded omelette to a serving platter and arrange a border of the remaining slices of orange.

Fresh Fruit Compote.

Six California cherries, two oranges, two cups white grapes and one small fresh pintapple.

Wash, dry and cut pineapple into slices. Remove peeling and cut into small sections. Peel and section oranges, carefully removing skin. Wash and cut grapes into halves, removing seeds; wash and remove stems and stones from cherries.

Into each cocktail glass place a small amount of cracked ice. In the center of the glass arrange a mound of orange and pineapple sections, bordering with halves of grapes. Garnish with a sweet cherry.

Salmon Cutlets.

One-pound can pink salmon, cupful thick white sauce, tablespoon lemon juice, one egg.

Pick over the salmon and remove skin and bones. Mix the salmon and lemon juice, then stir in the thick white sauce. Turn out on plate to cool, divide in 12 portions and shape like cutlets. Beat the egg slightly, roll cutlets in it, then cover thoroughly with fine bread crumbs. Fry in deep fat until brown. Garnish with parsley and serve.

Where an egg-beater is not handy, use a fruit jar for beating eggs. Rinse the jar with cold water, to prevent eggs sticking, break the eggs into the jar, and shake.

HOW TO EAT AN EGG

The Process Described by One Who Loves Eggs.

Let the lover of a good egg—the man who eats eggs every morning the whole year round, and who rejoices in the real egg flavor—stand his soft or medium boiled egg on end in a small egg glass and then, ever so cautiously, tap on the other end until a hole is made.

Let him, still proceeding cautiously, take off the broken shell until there is a bare white surface exposed about the size of a 5-cent piece. Now with an egg spoon, puncture the surface of the egg, and after dropping in a piece of butter as large as a white bean, a dash of pepper and two of salt, chop up the entire egg until it rests in its shell, all cut up and ready to be eaten. It is still deliciously hot and has parted with none of its pristine loveliness.

Just as soon as prepared the egg should be eaten before it has had time to cool. Those who eat eggs prepared in this way will testify to their glory, and those who do not will do well to try this recipe out.

USE OF FISH DISHES IS RECOMMENDED

Seafoods Are Valued Highly Because of Their Body-Building Properties.

It is rare indeed for anybody to eat too large a quantity of fish. Perhaps when fish eating is "popularized," there will be seen cases of fish overeating.

The old myth about ptomaine poisoning from fish eating was exploded long ago. It is just as safe to eat fresh and properly kept fish as it is to eat fresh and properly kept anything else.

Not only can we get good fresh fish, but there are many kinds of tinned and preserved fish. Indeed, in one form or another, even with present knowledge, the public can have fish any day.

I cannot immagine a cleaner and sweeter food than well prepared fresh fish. With infinite variety from which to choose, and many methods of cooking it, the housewife can vary the menu amazingly.

Fried Fish.

Clean, wash and drain fish. Cut in convenient sizes for serving. Dredge with flour or cornmeal and fry in deep, hot lard. Fish fried in this way will not be grease soaked and is therefore more palatable and wholesome.

Baked Fish.

Skin and bone fish and cut in sections one inch thick. Add salt and pepper to milk, and stir until dissolved. Dip each piece of fish into milk and seasonings; then toss into bread crumbs. Place in oiled baking pan, sprinkle each piece with teaspoon oil. Bake in a hot oven for ten minutes; then reduce to moderate oven for ten minutes longer.

Serve with tartare sauce or lemon and garnish with parsley.

Broiled Fish.

Dredge fish with flour, salt and pepper. Place on hot broiler; brown quickly on one side, turn and brown on the other side. Lower heat, open broiler door and cook twenty minutes, turning several times.

Dress fish with four tablespoons butter, three tablespoons lemon juice and four tablespoons chopped parsley.

Baked Stuffed Fish.

Sprinkle the fish with salt and fill with stuffing; sew or skewer the edges together. Cut gashes on each side across fish and put strips of salt pork into them. Grease baking sheet and place fish on it, dredge with flour, salt and pepper, and put into baking pan with pieces of pork fat. Baste every ten minutes. Cook fifteen minutes to the pound and fifteen minutes over.

Fish Plate Service.

For plate service, at one side arrange a mound of fish, dressed; next to it on a lettuce leaf put a tablespoon potato salad and garnish with a slice of tomato and pickle. Buttered rolls may be served on the plate or they can be passed.

Wonder Cake.

Cream one-half cup butter with one and one-half cups powdered sugar; add alternately, a little at a time, one-half cup milk and two cups pastry flour into which two level teaspoons of baking powder had been previously sifted. Add one teaspoon vanilla. Lastly fold in six beaten egg whites. Bake in three buttered layer cake tins in moderate oven for 20 minutes.

Put together with an icing made out of one and one-half cups granulated sugar and one-half cup of water boiled together until syrup threads when tested in cold water. Add syrup slowly to three beaten egg whites and beat until cool. Add one-third cup seeded raisins cut in pieces, one-half cup shaved pecans, one-third cup chopped figs and one-third teaspoon vanilla. Spread between layers and on top and sides of cake.

Fresh Pear Salad.

Pare, cut in halves and remove cores from three pears. Cut fruit in thin slices and place on bed of shredded lettuce. Serve with a mint dressing made out of one-half cup water, one-fourth cup sugar, one teaspoon butter, one egg yolk, one tablespoon cornstarch, one-third cup lemon juice, one sprig of fresh mint and one-third cup whipping cream.

Boil water and sugar three minutes. Mix butter, egg yolk and cornstarch; and when blended pour on gradually hot syrup. Cook in top of double boiler 15 minutes. Remove from fire and add lemon juice. Strip mint leaves from stems, wash clean and stir into hot mixture. When cold, remove mint and fold in whipped cream.

Patty Shells.

One level cup of flour and pinch of salt sifted together. Two rounded tablespoons shortening cut thoroughly through the flour having it as nearly as possible in kernel form. Add three tablespoons ice water. Keep mixture in crumb form as nearly as possible. Pour out on board. Fit over muffin pan backs cut through between and bake in a hot oven.

To form patty shell baskets, cut dough in strips, braid and fit on a square pan. When baked, slip into patty shells and fill. These are delicious and very attractive.

Creamed Beets.

Wash beets and cook until tender. Drain, saving one cupful of water. Plunge beets into cold water and rub off skins. Sauce is made by melting one tablespoon butter to which has been added one tablespoon cornstarch, mixed smooth and cooked until frothy. To this add the cup of beet water, one tablespoon sugar, one-half cup vinegar, one-half teaspoon salt, pepper and cook until thick. Cube beets and reheat in sauce.

When Mother is Alarmed!

CONSTIPATION, biliousness, coated tongue, feverish headache, sick stomach—then is the time when mother relies upon Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. "My son had been constipated and bilious since birth. At the age of five he had such an attack of sour stomach and bad breath I had to take him out of kindergarten. It was then I gave him Syrup Pepsin. He improved from the first dose and soon was back to school completely restored and healthier than he had ever been before. It is a great comfort to have a medicine for children in which we can have such implicit confidence." (Name and address sent on request.)

Wins Confidence of Old Folks
Old people are charmed by the gentle, kindly action of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. No pain, gripe or depressing "flushing" of the bowels. Just an easy movement and the fine feeling of restful comfort. There's seldom any real sickness in the home that learns to use Syrup Pepsin at the first sign of coated tongue, fever, biliousness, headache and such troubles due to constipation. Recommended in a million homes. Sold by all druggists.

SPORTS EDITOR WRAY NOT IMPRESSED AFTER SEEING TUNNEY WOR

Challenger Appears to Be at Least 10 Pounds Lighter Than Dempsey

Hands, Instead of Being Larger and More Rugged, Seem Much Smaller and Frailer Than Champion's—Forearm and Biceps Look Small.

By John E. Wray,
Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Sept. 17.—Up here among the hills of this little town on the rim of the tourists' center known as Delaware Gap, Gene Tunney has built up a wonderful popularity and a considerable following. His praises are sung on every hand and stories setting forth his gentlemanliness, his scholarly polish, his poetical and literary leanings and his Country Club complex greet the scribe who makes his first pilgrimage here.

The visitor is also greeted by the suave and convincing Billy Gibson, who first as manager of Benny Leonard and now of Tunney, converts his own optimism into columns of convincing reading publicity for his charge.

Gibson blandly admits that he doesn't know whether he has the next champion or not; but ere he finishes, he will convince the listener that he has a fighter the equal of Dempsey in brawn, his superior in mere boxing skill and entirely in another class than the champion intellectually.

And then he leads you, all primed and in a receptive state of mind, to the country club where Gene has been training for three weeks or so. One is all set and Tunney need only touch off the piece, to etch permanently into the mind the fine sketch of his charge, drawn by the jovial Billy.

Writer Is Disappointed.

You are presented to Tunney, collectively introduced along with Benny Leonard, Tom Gibbons (whom Tunney once knocked out), Billy Rocap, former Philadelphia Boxing Commissioner and veteran referee, and others who shake hands with Gene and say a lot of nice things they mean, and some they hope will come out all right.

And then you are disillusioned. Watching and listening to Tunney, getting a good eyeful of the challenger, the first time I had seen him since he fought Soldier Jones more than five years ago, I felt disappointed. Physically he did not shape up with Dempsey. He left the impression of being at least 10 pounds lighter than Dempsey. His body lacked the mahogany brown tint of Dempsey's skin; his legs shaped up skimpily, by comparison with the sturdy props of the champion. His lower legs were almost skinny. Above the waistline he appeared to better advantage, but still far below the Dempsey physical machinery. His hands, instead of being larger and more rugged than Dempsey's, seemed much smaller and frailer. They are backed up by a wrist that does not compare to the champion's; and Gene's forearm and biceps will seem small beside Dempsey's when they line up in the ring.

Tunney's power plant of deltoid, triceps, trapezius and other striking muscles do not shape up with the unusual knockout factory of the champion, which has an output of 47 kayos, of which 26 were in the first round.

Tunney displayed a fairly strong neck, a forward thrust to his chin, and jaws that semed good enough. His light eyes were reflective, if rather restless and had none of the concentration shown by Dempsey's.

Little Vim to Tunney's Punching, While Shadow Boxing Is Amateurish

Tunney attempted some horseplay, while being photographed, which seemed rather forced, then, to the applause of about a thousand tourists all admitted free. He marched to his stand and began to shadow box. There was very little vim to Tunney's punching; his shadow boxing seemed rather amateurish and his work with the heavy bag seemed perfunctory. It even provoked a laugh when Tunney ordered one of his camp followers to hold the sand bag, while he, himself, slammed the helpless, immovable leather unmercifully.

"You'd better get someone to hold Dempsey, too," a wag suggested, but Tunney worked on unsmiling.

After about 10 minutes of preliminary work Tunney took on a really good sparring partner, Jimmy Delaney, who helped train Tom Gibbons for the Dempsey go at Shelby. Delaney is a very shifty fellow weighing 175 pounds, and will oppose Tommy Loughran, of Dempsey's staff in one of the preliminaries to the championship next Thursday night.

Is Protecting His Hands.

Neither Delaney nor Tunney wore head protectors, although it was noticed that on one hand underneath his glove and displayed when he removed his mitt, Gene wore a heavy leather or rubber protector that fitted over his knuckles. Tunney, it is said had very bad hands, after one of his later fights and has taken care to protect them in his training. Tunney's face was then smeared with grease as a safeguard against cutting the skin. against cutting the skin.

Then with his trainer, Lou Frank, holding the watch, Tunney began the first boxing he has indulged in for three days. Delaney, throughout the ensuing rounds, carried the fight to Tunney, simulating the two-fisted readiness with which Dempsey steps in, crowding on top of his foe.

If Dempsey has proved easy for his partners to hit, in his workouts, the burden of all critics, complaints against the champion, Delaney was no less so. Without being formidable as Loughran he swarmed over the challenger and cuffed him for a few seconds, then Tunney, backing away to get the range began to counter with his left and drove the imitation Dempsey into a clinch.

Telegraphs His Blows.

Tunney hits straighter than Dempsey with his left hand and perfectly straight with his right; but he telegraphs the latter. When this blow is coming, Tunney's shoulder reveals it first; then the crooked elbow has to be drawn back, and finally he lets it go. More than once he missed with it because Delaney saw it coming. Dempsey's blows hook more, but they are delivered more swiftly with either hand and without the slightest drawing back of the arms for leverage. Tunney must have plenty of time to hit a blow with his body behind it, where Dempsey merely swings his shoulder rapidly in behind all his hooks and jolts.

After a minute of work with Delaney, Gene's split lip had been reopened, as it was said, it is reopened nearly every time he boxes. It is almost certain that it will be tender when he enters the ring against Dempsey, and if that is the case, Dempsey, in the language of the "Lunnon" prize ring rules will literally "score first blood."

Challenger Hits Hard Enough, But Does Not Follow Up Quickly

The Tunney-Delaney workout concluded without Gene having shown the proper speed and quick response required of the man who must drive off effectively the dangerous champion. Tunney seems to hit hard when he can take his time, and while not actually slow, he does not follow up his opportunities as he should, if he is to win the title from Dempsey.

His two rounds with the much lighter partner, Vidabek, who followed Delaney, revealed nothing as Tunney was merely giving the youngster a chance to do most of the leading.

Around the ringside after the show the comments were colorless. At Dempsey's camp, the day before, the onlookers were outspoken in saying that Dempsey "looked bad." That was because he had looked so good in a previous appearance. In Tunney's case his performance was apparently the usual output, and, therefore, occasioned no remark.

Not Fighter's Keen Interest.

From Tunney's appearance he is in as good condition as he can get. There seems no fault to be found with it. But on what he showed in the one workout he seems to lack both the physique, the speed, the punch and the fighter's keen interest in his preparation.

In this last, a most notable difference is manifest to the visitor at the two camps. At Dempsey's one is imbued with the fact that there is a system, carried out by experienced men. The helpers move quickly to their tasks; there is a referee, a timer and a bell. Ring conditions prevail. Dempsey comes out snappily and does his stuff. He is impatient of photographers. He looks at nobody, but settles down to do his job. With him working for a fight is not an effort. He does not have to be told to start. He has to be ordered to quit. He is ceaselessly on top of his man, whom he crowds and never lets alone.

At Tunney's camp the show lumbers along. System is lacking. The outfit seems to muddle its way through its acts. Tunney shows up if he feels like it. If he doesn't feel disposed, as happened the day before, he hides out and lets the hundreds of curious go home disappointed.

Works When He Wants To.

In the ring, Tunney looks around at the crowd casually. He boxes none too keenly. One seldom thinks to himself: "Now I am seeing some of the real Tunney."

He does his stuff, he gets his daily sweat and split lip and then marches off to a diet of literature and high art conversations, if those who have been close to him tell it correctly.

"This is almost amateurish," commented one critic, a man who refereed one of Tunney's good fights. "And I can't see where Gene has gained in speed, science or physique since I last saw him."

All of which seems to indicate that some of the stories about the challenger's great physique and marvelous development were nothing more than pretty good tries with the old long bow.

Kearns' Advice Valuable, Says Tunney; Dempsey Goes Into Past Title History

"Always Glad to Learn of Strong and Weak Points of an Opponent," Asserts Challenger for Crown.

By Gene Tunney,
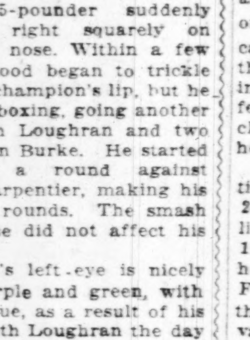
(Copyright, 1926.)

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Sept. 17.—Jack Kearns, who made a champion of Jack Dempsey, has advised me through articles he has written and in conversations with me, just how to fight his former protege. I have been asked if I will take heed of his advice.



Tunney.

The answer, of course, is an affirmative one. Kearns knows his business, and he knows Dempsey. After having handled the champion in all his important fights, Kearns ought to have a definite line on him. I would be extremely foolish if I refused to pay any attention to "Doc's" suggestions.

As I have said before I am always open to advice. I want men who know the boxing business to give me tips for, as I have said, I always go into a match with a certain plan of action mapped out. This plan must be elastic, but for the most part it is followed out in the fight. I think any man who didn't have such a plan and who didn't follow it would be silly.

Must Study Opponent.

In order to be successful in an important contest a boxer must analyze his opponent; study his strong points and his defects and then make up his mind just how to cope with those strong points and how to pierce the flaws in his foe's armor.

Kearns, better than anyone, can and has told me of Dempsey's weaknesses; personal observation has taught me the few glaring faults in his style as well as the best features of his attack. Between Kearns and myself (and with the advice of other intimates thrown in) I have been able to sketch a campaign I believe will be crowned with success next week.

Benny Leonard, the greatest fighter I have ever seen, has given me valuable advice, too. Benny has the keenest mind of any boxer the ring has seen in many, many years, and his thoughts have helped me before and will help me in this, the most important battle of my career.

Great old Jim Corbett (what a marvel he must have been), has drilled me, and Jim Jeffries has added his word of advice. Of course I have absorbed it all.

Dempsey's Nose is Bloodied in Bout With Loughran

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 17.

JACK DEMPSEY'S remodeled nose, in which he invested $10,000, went the way of all pugilistic noses yesterday. It lost blood for the first time, but it proved its shock-absorbing strength.

Dempsey was stepping through a lively first round with Tommy Loughran when the Philadelphia 175-pounder suddenly crossed a right squarely on Dempsey's nose. Within a few seconds blood began to trickle down the champion's lip, but he continued boxing, going another round with Loughran and two with Martin Burke. He started off with a round against Frankie Carpentier, making his usual five rounds. The smash on the nose did not affect his breathing.

Tunney on Edge, Leonard States

By Benny Leonard.
(Undefeated Lightweight Champion of the World.)
(Copyright, 1926.)

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Sept. 17.—I got my first look at Gene Tunney at training for his coming fight with Jack Dempsey here yesterday. The thing that impressed me most at first glance was that he was in marvelous physical condition.

He loomed up bigger than I have ever seen him. He looked robust. Gene always looked good, but he did not look as sturdy. His eye is clear, and he laughingly told me that his lip was pretty well healed.

Tunney looks to be on edge. He's at that fretful period that shows tip-top fighting condition. I have the impression from Gene that he will go into strictly private training.

I'm going to box with Tunney and I'll tell you all about it. I'll also go on the road with him, and I'll let you read all about that when it happens, which will be soon—very soon.

"John L. Came Back When He Was 31, So Why Can't I?" Champion Asks in Discussing Bout.

By JACK DEMPSEY.
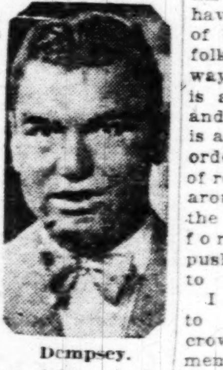
(Copyright, 1926.)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 17. This article has two purposes. One is to show that a world's champion did come back at the age of 31, after years of loafing, and fight one of the greatest battles of his career. The other is to prove by the record books that instead of being a "fightless champion" I've defended my crown oftener in actual championship battles than any title holder in history.

John L. Sullivan, who won his title at the same age that I did—24—fought Charlie Mitchell in 1888 and was held to a draw. For nearly a year thereafter, Sullivan never put on a boxing glove and perhaps never indulged in an hour of training.



Dempsey.

In 1889, he was matched to meet Jake Kilrain in a finish fight—a year when Sullivan was 31, the same age as I am now. But whereas I was only about eight pounds beyond fighting weight when I was signed to meet Tunney, the great John L. was about 45 over weight; and where I had a year of hard and sincere training behind me, Sullivan was soft, flabby and regarded by many as a hopeless "comeback" prospect.

Yet Sullivan, at 31, went 75 rounds and finally punched his way to victory.

Sixth Bout For Title.

If Sullivan, at 31, could win over Kilrain; if he could make a wonderful comeback from the physical depths to which he had slipped, why do some folks get so skeptical about my ability to display championship form?

When I climb into the ring against Tunney it will be my sixth battle in defense of a championship won seven years ago.

Sullivan won his title in 1882, and held the crown for 10 years. In that time John L., although appearing in many exhibitions, actually defended the title only against Alf. Greenfield, Paddy Ryan, Charley Mitchell, Jake Kilrain, Dominick McCaffery and Jim Corbett. That gave Sullivan a total of seven fights in 10 years, against my six battles in seven years.

Jim Corbett won in 1892. In 1894 he defended against Charlie Mitchell. In 1897, fighting the second time in five years, he was beaten by Bob Fitzsimmons. And Fitz, who won in 1897, never fought again until 1899—a two-year lapse—when Jim Jeffries beat him.

Jim Jeffries' Record.

Jeff's championship lasted from 1899 to 1910—11 years. In that time he fought Jim Corbett twice, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jack Munroe, Tom Sharkey, Jack Johnson and Gus Ruhlin, in addition to exhibitions against Joe Kennedy, Jack Finnegan and Hank Griffin. Therefore, Jeff's total of real defense battles was seven in 11 years.

Johnson, the winner in 1910, met Jim Flynn in 1912, Frank Moran in 1914 and Jess Willard in 1915—three fights in five years. Jess Willard, the 1915 winner, met and won from Frank Moran in 1916—and then I "took" Jess in 1919, which meant that in four years he fought but twice.

My record embraces Miske, Brennan, Carpentier, Gibbons and Firpo—and on Sept. 23 the name of Tunney will be added to the list. With six fights in seven years, I think I have made good on the promise given to the public in Toledo, when I said: "I'll be a fighting champion."

Challenger Must Develop Speed, Gibbons Writes

Having Trainer Hold Heavy Bag Will Do Tunney Very Little Good.

By Tom Gibbons.
Only Man Who Boxed Both Dempsey and Tunney.
(Copyright, 1926.)

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Sept. 17.—I had my first close-up of Gene Tunney in training yesterday. I went to the challenger's dressing room and had quite a chat with him. Gene talked just about the way I ever knew him to and was very pleasant. He was strained though, and much more nervous than Dempsey, who is the calmest guy in the world right now. To talk with Jack you would think he didn't have a thing on his mind while Gene appears fidgity, his face is drawn and he frankly admits that the crowd is beginning to get his "goat." They have a poor way of handling the folks here anyway. Everybody is admitted free, and while there is a semblance of order in a couple of ropes stretched around the ring, the mob jams forward and pushes right up to the ringside.

Gibbons.

I told Tunney to forget the crowd and to remember that the crowd was out there to see him. Another thing is worrying Gene. He's afraid he's not pleasing the more rabid fans, who show their disapproval when Gene doesn't go through his sparring partners like a woman driver goes through a dummy traffic cop.

In his workout, Gene showed me that he ought to get more exercise to help him develop faster footwork. Normally his legs are fast and deceptive, but he'll have to be superbly agile to get away and out from under Dempsey. For instance, Gene stood flatfooted and punched the bag in contrast to Jack, who always stands on his toes and circles while he soaks the leather. Again, while Tunney was smashing his mitts into the big body bag he parked himself flatfooted and stood waiting for the bag to come to him instead of fighting it the way Dempsey does. I don't think Gene's system is practical. Jack isn't going to stand there and wait for Gene to plop him. Also, to add to what I call a blunder of judgment, Mike Fink came over and held the bag while Gene stood calmly by driving it with rights, lefts and one-two punches. There won't be any third man in the ring at Philly, who will hold Dempsey still so Gene can pick out a soft spot.

Jimmy Delaney, from my own town of St. Paul and the first man to box Tunney, is an old friend of mine and a mighty sweet fighter. I had him up with me at Shelby and consider him invaluable around anybody's camp. Of course, he isn't to Tunney what Loughran is to Dempsey, inasmuch as Loughran resembles Tunney much more than Jimmy does Dempsey, but just the shame he'll help Gene a lot. They fought two fast rounds and smeared each other up quite a bit. Jimmy opened a cut on Tunney's lip and also scored a couple of nifties that must have shaken up the challenger, who got kind of sore and then started hammering Delaney.

Gene also boxed a couple of rounds with Billy Vidabek, Jersey City. Billy wasn't lively as Delaney and the didn't have to over-exert Judging from what I've both men so far, I should Gene must concentrate on ing more speed if he wants on being effective against pressing tendencies and his fully hard left and right

Gene has one trick, though I think will aid him in Jack. I remember Gene a couple of times on me; sey will do well to be on for it. Gene likes to duck shoulder under a left jab hook, swerve his body quarter turn, lam home a to the liver, then follow it with a sock to the jaw.

Speed and even more though, will be Gene's for a victory.

FINALS SUNDAY IN HARD ROADS LEAGUE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BENTON, Ill., Sept. 17.—The regularly scheduled games for yesterday in the Hard Roads League were moved up to be played as parts of double bills on Sunday, which is the closing day of the season. Two games will be played at Benton with Harrisburg as the visiting club; Carterville will face the Fords twice at West Frankfort, while Duquoin will compete a pair of tilts at Murphysboro, and Marion will wind up the season in a double bill with the Z C 4s at Christopher.

Duquoin has already fastened its claim to the second flag, but it will require Sunday's games to determine the winner of second place as Benton, West Frankfort and Zeigler are closely bunched and either of the trio has opportunities of capturing the runner-up position.

HILL ASKS PRIMARY RECOUNT

Maryland Representative Defeated for Nomination by Close Vote.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 17.—Representative John Philip Hill has instructed attorneys in several Maryland counties to file petitions for a recount in his primary contest with United States Senator Weller for the Republican senatorial nomination. After the election boards in all but two or three of the counties had finished their canvass of the returns, Weller had won the State convention votes of 17 of the 23 counties in the State, and seven votes in Baltimore city—86 in all. Hill won the votes of six counties and 35 in Baltimore—61 in all.

The count for Weller and Hill was very close in several counties. In Queen Anne's County the returns gave the county to Weller by only 31 votes.

GLO-CO
LIQUID HAIR DRESSING

Success is indicated by a man's grooming and clothes. You're sure of well-groomed hair when you use Glo-Co Hair Dressing. Keeps the hair in place all day.

And without that artificial look men dislike. Glo-Co Hair Dressing is a liquid—not a sticky, greasy paste or cream. It's great for the scalp too. Is what your doctor would recommend. Stimulates the roots of the hair and helps keep dandruff away.

Watch out for baldness if you're troubled with dandruff. Take a Glo-Co treatment each week. Apply Glo-Co Hair Dressing to the scalp to soften the scurf, then wash with Glo-Co Shampoo. The cleansing, antiseptic lather frees the scalp from every trace of dandruff and bacteria.

After the shampoo, comb your hair with Glo-Co Hair Dressing to keep it in place.

Sold at drug and department stores and barber shops. If your dealer cannot supply Glo-Co Hair Dressing or Shampoo, a full-sized bottle of either will be sent for 50c. Glo-Co Company, 6511 McKinley Ave., Los Angeles, California.

Gaston Likely to Oppose Athletics In Today's Game

Yesterday the Browns Won the Opening Contest but Dropped the Second.

By Jack Alexander.

Milt Gaston, who pitched a 2-hit game against the Red Sox his last time out, will probably oppose the Philadelphia Athletics this afternoon at Sportsman's Park in the third game of the series. Yesterday a double-header was divided, the Browns winning the opener, 1 to 0, and the Athletics taking the second contest, 5 to 1.

The first game furnished an interesting contrast in southpaws, the veteran Tom Zachary of the Browns and the young and high-powered "Lefty" Grove, for whom Connie Mack is reputed to have paid $100,000. Grove allowed only four hits and lost while Zachary permitted seven and won.

"Lefty" has so much smoke on the ball that all the Browns could do at first was wave at it. If the Mack pitcher had used a bean ball he could have killed the whole Brownie team. Sisler finally solved the delivery for a triple in the sixth and Schang bounced a single off Grove's shins to score George. That was all the scoring. Zachary kept the Mack hits dribbled all over the score card and when they got dangerous, he made them fan or pop up.

The second game was quite another story. Ballou with a 1-run lead started out like a winner, retiring the visitors on strikes in the third but Simmons lashed out a double in the sixth and Poole brought him around with a homer that bounced off the roof of the pavillion into Grand boulevard. Another was scored in the seventh and two more in the eighth.

The Browns made theirs in the second inning when McManus singled, stole second and scored on Robertson's single.

NEW ORLEANS WINS SOUTHERN PENNANT

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 17.—New Orleans will be Dallas' opponent for the Dixie baseball championship this year, the Pelicans today having clinched the pennant in the Southern Association by beating Birmingham, while Memphis lost one game of a double header to Nashville, which put the Chicks out of the race. Dallas won the pennant in the Texas League.

Officials of the two leagues and New Orleans and Dallas club officials conferred today and agreed that the first game will be played in New Orleans, Sept. 22.

The schedule for the series: Sept. 22 at New Orleans; Sept. 23 at New Orleans; Sept. 24, travel; Sept. 25 at Dallas; Sept. 26 at Dallas; Sept. 27 at Dallas; Sept. 28, travel; Sept. 29 at New Orleans.

Springfield Wins, 6 to 5.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 17.—The Springfield Senators yesterday repeated their opening day victory over Bay City in the Three I-Michigan State League baseball series by winning 6 to 5 in the second game.

With a safe margain the Three I champions almost cast the game away in the ninth inning. In their eagerness for double plays Springfield's three errors, with a single, gave the Bay City Wolves three runs.

Billiken Hopes Look Up Slightly As Team Improves

Three Lost but Others Spring Up to Fill the Open Spaces.

As the practices progress at St. Louis U. athletic field, it appears certain that the Billikens will have a stronger representation on the gridiron than was at first expected.

Bad and good features developed during the past week. Three players of the 1925 varsity, it appears, will be lost to the squad. Wehtker, a very fine center, has decided that his studies need him more than the football team and has turned in his uniform with the approval of the coaches.

Albin, a tackle last year, has left school and Holz, one of last season's substitute ends, is not out for the team.

On the other hand there is a 204-pound sophomore working for a regular job at center. He is Joe Downey, who played freshman at the University of Pennsylvania two years ago and on Finnegan's frosh last year. Then there is Gail Stampfli who didn't get much chance to show his stuff at center in 1925.

The guards will have to be developed from the sophomores except for Torress, who played a fine game here last season. Blum has been shifted from guard to tackle and a sophomore, Red Oelschlager, seems the most likely candidate for the other tackle. Captain Kahle and Tom Sweeney are available at the ends, with Browning and Tyson, sophs, also ready.

In the backfield the situation has not yet cleared up. Eddie Jordan probably will serve at quarterback. Bob Denvir, a soph, is exhibiting nice form as a half and Buddie Kearns, former Western Military star, is working at the other half.

Prominent among the freshmen are Red Campbell, Billiken High Preparatory League star last year, and Lintzinger, Webster Groves High fullback.

Argentine Four Wins.

EASTBURY, N. Y., Sept. 17.—The Argentines made their debut in the American open polo championship yesterday by vanquishing Roslyn, 10 goals to three in the second game of the tournament at the Meadowbrook Club.

New Fall Styles
"As You Like It"
Act II Scene VII

Three hundred and thirty-one years ago Shakespeare said "All the world's a stage, and all the men and women merely players".

Today I'm going to make a stage of my window and show all the styles worn by all the principal "players" in all the important cities over here and over there.

The most popular style for early Fall will be the hat worn by the man looking at this paragraph. It is a soft felt with a raw edge, snap-down brim and a luxurious wide silk plain or fancy band.

If you will walk "backstage" we will show you everything from the raw-edge, snap-down brim to the conservative Silver Grey Alpine, which is silk-bound, silk-banded and silk-lined.

JONES 3 UP ON QUIMET AFTER 18 HOLES OF SEMIFINAL MATC

VON ELM GAINS 6-HOLE EDGE ON DAWSON

By the Associated Press.

SHORT HILLS, N. J., Sept. 17.—Bobby Jones of Atlanta and George Von Elm of Los Angeles were well out in front at the conclusion of the first 18 holes of their 36-hole semifinal matches in the national amateur golf championship at Baltusrol today.

Closing with a brilliant spurt on the last two holes after a nip-and-tuck fight, the defending champion became three up on Francis Ouimet of Boston, while the Pacific Coast player made a runaway race of his match with George Dawson of Chicago, covering the round in even par at 72 to gain a six-hole advantage.

Jones Finishes Strong.

The champion finished with a sensational spurt after he and Ouimet had halved the fifteenth and sixteenth in par figures, winning both the seventeenth and eighteenth holes, to become 3 up.

At the seventeenth, Ouimet lost control of his clubs and was in three traps to taking a seven. Bobby was just short of the green on his long midiron approach. He then chipped up to get his par five.

Champion Eliminated Evans.

Jones got into the semifinals by downing Chick Evans yesterday.

It needed all of the Atlanta star's skill to overcome Evans, the old master, by 3 and 2. Outdriven by Jones, Evans was the Chick of old in accuracy with his irons and getting close to the pin on approaches, but his putter failed him. After 18 holes in par 72 Evans was two down to Bobby, who took a 70. Chick was only one down after 26 holes. Then the champion did some magic putting.

Frederick J. Wright Jr., of Boston, lost to Ouimet by five and three, while Von Elm brushed aside young Watts Gunn, protege of Jones and finalist last year, 8 and 7.

Dawson, Red Grange's friend, playing through his first national championship, nosed out Eddie Held of St. Louis, 2 and 1.

Today's match is a rubber for Ouimet and Jones, close friends, in the national amateur tournament. Ouimet beat Bobby at Engineers in the 1920 tournament by 6 and 5. Two years ago at Merion, Jones put Ouimet out in the semifinals by 11 and 10.

Many Coaches Hunt in Vain for Skilled Linemen

Real Reason Is That Requirements Have Multiplied as Game Develops.

(Copyright, 1926.)

NEW YORK.—Pessimistic outgivings concerning experiences of linemen have come from several universities where coaches have assembled to greet the candidates for gridiron honors.

At Yale, for instance, the plaint is that while many star backs are available, the coaches look for a lot of trouble in building up a forward wall chiefly because of a scanty supply of material from the 1925 reserves.

If it were only a question of building a strong forward wall the problem at Yale, or anywhere else, would not be particularly serious. But the line in these modern days is not a wall. It is on the contrary an organization of seven men, every one of whom has duties to perform that are as specialized and important as the more spectacular tasks that fall to the backfield.

The Value of a Line.

The way to stardom for many a fine back has been hewn down in the muck of the line, and if any one wishes to satisfy himself as to the truth of this let him compare the exploits of Red Grange when he had the Illinois line in front of him and his achievements in professional football.

Rather than a forward wall a set of linemen these days may be likened to a mechanism consisting of seven battering rams, each working as a dynamic unit.

On defense, as a matter of record, it was the necessity imposed by ever increasing deceptiveness of attack that brought about the naming of various positions on the rush line coincidental with the imposition of specialized duties.

Today those duties are so ramified and highly technical that a coach has all the sanction in the world for regret and apprehension when his line material is meager or inexperienced or both. For this the unbalanced line may be thanked for one thing.

A Changing Game.

Creakily and fearfully indeed did the line shift the first day that two tackles or two guards were paired as in those early days the shift was not so well down as it is today the defense knows a whole lot about shifts and can handle them quite well except when the shift is in motion at the snapping of the ball. When this happens there is no real defense against the shift, a fact which all officials should accept as saddling them with heavy responsibility.

Then there are the spread formations, the line divides. The defense to this today does not understand as much about spread plays as it should and it has often surprised the writer that some of our most enterprising offensive coaching intellects have not made more capital of them than they have. When they do, though, the defense will study it out and come up abreast with it and the basis of the problem will lie in the line.

15 Fighters and Managers Pick Dempsey to Win Easily

Not One Thinks Tunney Capable of Withstanding Terrific Jolts He Will Be Forced to Take.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. —Jack Dempsey will whip Gene Tunney when they stage their battle in the Sesquicentennial stadium in Philadelphia next week. This is the unanimous opinion of fighters and other boxing experts interviewed today. In fact, of the fifteen of those interviewed, all of whom have watched Dempsey train here, not one picked Tunney. Here are the views expressed:

TOMMY LOUGHRAN, Philadelphia light-heavy, who has sparred with Dempsey and also went 8 no-decision rounds with Tunney: "I don't figure Tunney can stand up under any more than three or four rounds of Dempsey's terrific battering."

BENNY LEONARD, retired light weight champion: "Dempsey's condition is remarkable. He's a marvel at taking punishment and I don't think a man lives who can survive in a ring very long after Dempsey crashes that fearful left hook to the chin, or his right hand to the body."

"PHILADELPHIA JACK" O'BRIEN: "When I first saw Dempsey I thought he was slow, and not so good. But today he looks like a million dollars worth of fighting machinery and I can't see anything now but Dempsey—and maybe in about five rounds."

JOHNNY DUNDEE, featherweight champion: "This bird Dempsey will be champion until a long set of whiskers interferes with his marksmanship.

TOMMY GIBBONS, who fought both men: "When Jack Dempsey is at his best I don't figure any man in the world to beat him. And he looks in marvelous shape to me."

FRANK CHURCHILL, fight manager: "From the form Dempsey has displayed in his workouts, he looks as great as he did in the so-called prime of his career. And Dempsey at his best is so far better than the best of the field that there's no comparison."

AL AUERBACH, Salt Lake City, former manager of the champion: "It will hardly be a workout for Jack. Tunney will be knocked out of the picture before Jack gets fairly warmed up.

HARRY GREB, former middleweight champion: "Tunney's good. I think the public underrates him. But I can't get away from the conclusion that Dempsey will win. It'll be a tough fight—if Gene can keep Jack from hammering his chin. But if Gene gets his jaw in the way of too many of Jack's left hooks—well, it'll be tough for Gene, that's all."

JACK RENAULT, former sparring partner of Dempsey's, who fought Tunney: "Im one of those reporter things these days and I am not allowed to broadcast my own ideas, but, say, this Dempsey is in great shape and those who all him the greatest of champions aren't far wrong."

GEORGE GODFREY, sparring partner for Dempsey in 1923: "Nobody can beat this Jack—and that includes Tunney. This man Jack, well, he is a fighter."

GEORGE ENGLE, former manager of Greb: "Nothing to it but Dempsey, and in a hurry. Nobody can take his punching, and stay on his feet very long."

MARTIN BURKE, sparring partner for Dempsey, who twice fought Tunney: "Jack can't loce this fight. Tunney isn't in his class. But I'm trying to pick the round. Gene might find the going rough and start hanging on. And when a fairly clever man does that he can go a long way."

Segal Feared a "Frame-Up" in Taylor Bout

Charges Indicating a Gambling Coup Hurled in Chicago Fiasco.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Charges that a gamblers' coup attempted a stranglehold on Illinois boxing were aired today in a series of questions and answers hurled through newspaper columns by the principals in the sunken Rosenberg-Taylor bantamweight championship battle prohibited by the State Athletic Commission last Tuesday, 48 hours before bell time.

Chairman O. W. Huncke, who has guided the revived sport since the establishment of the commission early this summer, denied today that he had submitted his resignation to Gov. Small because of threats and pressure from obnoxious elements on the fringe of the Illinois fistic ring, but admitted to newspaper men that the demands of his business would compel his resignation from the post as soon as matters can be arranged with the State executive.

Harry Segal, manager of Charley (Phil) Rosenberg of New York, the deposed and disqualified titleholder, issued a signed statement charging that "a lot of suspicious things" he had heard about betting on the scheduled bout had caused him to be chary over the selection of the referee, and that his failure to post the $12,500 forfeit required by the law, had been due to a misunderstanding with Promoter James C. Mullen, whom the commission Tuesday cleared of any blame in connection with the wrecked program.

Beer Runner Is Named.

Segal's published charges that Mullen had offered in negotiating for the bout to post a $50,000 guarantee with Terry Druggan, widely known beer runner who is awaiting trial in Federal Court for conspiracy to bribe county jail officials, was emphatically denied by the promoter.

Segal denied he had used political influence in an effort to bring about appointment of any particular referee.

"I went to Mullen Tuesday and told him I wanted an understanding on the referee question, because I had heard a lot of suspicious things about bets being laid against my man and I did not intend to be framed in the ring."

"I gave him a list of four names, all but one of which would be acceptable to myself and Rosenberg.

"My man was suspended without being given a fair hearing. Mullen conducted all the negotiations for me with the body. I had no intention of dodging the fight with Taylor."

JOHNSTON AND TILDEN LOSE HARD MATCHES

Six-Time National Net Champion Has No Alibi to Offer, Says He'll Be Back Next Year.

By the Associated Press.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 17.—The six-year reign of Big Bill Tilden as tennis champion of America is at an end. Along with him have gone the title hope of that other famous veteran, Little Bill Johnston and today finds a new era dawning in the net game. Three Frenchmen and the youngest of Aemrica's aces, Vincent Richards, alone survived for today's semifinals in the national tournament. Three of his country's big four went down before the wearers of the tri-color yesterday. Tilden, the master of all he has surveyed since 1920, bowed to the blade of Henri Cochet, 24, who was not considered strong enough to play for France in the Davis Cup singles. Johnston fell before the smashes of Jean Borotra. Richard N. Williams, the American Davis Cup captain, lost to Rene Lacoste in straight sets.

Tilden was beaten by 6—8, 6—1, 6—3, 1—6, 8—6, Johnston by 3—6, 4—6, 6—3, 6—4, 6—4.

In sweeping aside the fourth French contender, Jacques Brugnon, yesterday, with the loss of only five games in three sets, Richards flashed an attack of unusual brilliancy. He had sturdier opposition for today, however, meeting Borotra in one semifinal with Lacoste and Cochet battling in the other, starting at 2:30 p. m.

Tilden has had a bad knee throughout the tournament. He offered no alibi, however, saying Cochet played marvelously.

"I'll be back next year," the dethroned champion added.

Serrano and Drewes Favored In Tennis Final

Oppose Joe Smith and Weinstock for District Title Today.

By Davison Obear.

The final round match in the doubles event of the St. Louis District tennis championship will be played this afternoon on the Triple A Club courts. Theodore Drewes and Edmund Serrano will oppose Joe Smith and Herbert Winstock for the title. Drewes and Serrano are the present champions.

In the semifinal round match played yesterday. Drewes and Serrano defeated Fred Josties and Teddy Eggman. Only three sets were played, Drewes and Serrano winning, 6—3, 8—6, 7—5. Steadiness was the main factor in the victory.

Smith and Weinstock gained the final round in the other bracket by defeating Richard Rosebrough and Proctor Wright, the Kirkwood Country Club team, in a semifinal match last Sunday. The score was 8—6, 8—6, 4—6, 6—4.

Drewes and Serrano appear to be the favorites over Smith and Weinstock today owing to their greater experience. This is the first time that Smith and Weinstock have played together as a team. However, if Smith and Weinstock play at top form and Drewes and Serrano become erratic, the younger players may be the new champions.

Play in the St. Louis District singles championship is down to the final round. Wray Brown will meet Fred Josteis for the honors. Ted Drewes won the title last year, but was defeated by Josties in the semifinal round last Sunday. Wray Brown reached the final by defeating Joe Smith in a close match.

The doubles final in Class A of the Triple A Club tennis tournament was completed yesterday. Dr. Ray Hollinshead and Harry Hotze won the honors by defeating Herbert and Gus Weinstock in straight sets. The score was 6—4, 6—4, 6—1.

Fred Josties and Wray Brown are the two remaining players in the Triple A championship singles event. They will probably play the final match some time next week.

Women's Tourney Starts.

The St. Louis District tennis championship for women players opened yesterday afternoon on the Triple A courts. Play was originally scheduled for Monday, but rain and wet courts for three days delayed the opening round.

Mrs. Melicent E. Baehr, the defending champion, advanced to the third round by winning two matches yesterday. In her first round match she defeated Marion Brokaw and then elminated Louisiana Weber in the second round. Mrs. Anna Lindeman reached the second round by winning from Hortense Doyle, 6—0, 6—2, yesterday.

The first round of the women's singles must be completed this afternoon or defaults will be issued. First round matches in the mixed doubles and women's doubles are also scheduled to be played this afternoon.

Yesterday's Results.
Women's Singles.

First round—Mrs. Melicent Baehr defeated Marion Brokaw; Mrs. Anna Lindeman defeated Hortense Doyle, 6—0, 6—2; Ann Kaiman defeated Mrs. Joy Allison, 8—6, 6—0.

Second round — Mrs. Melicent Baehr defeated Louisiana Weber, 6—0, 6—1.

CARTER LOW MEDALIST IN TRI-STATE EVENT

By the Associated Press.

JOPLIN, Mo., Sept. 17.—Dave Carter of Nevada, Mo., was low medalist in the qualifying round of the Tri-State Golf Association annual tournament here yesterday, shooting a 75 on the par 71 course. Joe Pappin, runnerup in last year's tourney, was second with 77. Only three other golfers were in the select 70 class, with scores ranging up to the hundred mark.

A strong wind made the going hard, largely accounting for the high scores. Thirty-eight golfers from the tri-State district of Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma are entered. Match play will get under way today.

Fifteen are entered in the women's division.

Pro Football To Open Sunday

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—The professional football season will open officially here Sunday when the Chicaog Cardinals clash with the Columbus (O.) eleven in the first game of the 1926 National eLague schedule.

The Cardinals have lost their star player, Paddy Driscoll, who had been their manstay during the past five seasons. Driscoll was sold to a rival organization.

Chris O'Brien, Cardinal manager, has a formidable array of former college huskies, however, and declared his team is better balanced, in spite of Driscoll's absence, than ever before.

Ryan Signs for Steadman Go

Bout Will Be Held Next Thursday Night at Battery A.

Matchmaker Frank Britton of the Business Men's A. C. announced today that he has succeeded in closing negotiations with Tommy Ryan of McKeesport, Pa., for a 10-round match with Paul Steadman, local featherweight, puncher. The contest will feature an outdoor glove card to be held at the Battery arena on Thursday night of next week.

Ryan reported in St. Louis yesterday and signed articles for the match after a conference with Britton, during which the local promoter assured him that he will be brought back to this city in the near future for a match with Charley "Phil" Rosenberg, the bantam champion, or one of the leading contenders of the bantam division, in the event that he proves his qualification for the match by defeating Steadman.

In a no-decision contest with Bud Taylor at Louisville, Ky., last May, Ryan won a popular verdict over the Terre Haute "Assassin," after 12 furiously contested rounds. He was matched with Taylor for a return bout at the White Sox ball park in Chicago where Taylor was awarded the decision on a foul, committed by Ryan during an exchange of body blows in the third round.

BOND TO RESIGN AS TIGER BASKET COACH

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 17.—Coach George Bond of the University of Missouri basketball team will resign his position here to enter business in St. Louis within the next few days, it was learned here yesterday.

Bond, who was captain of the Tiger basketball team in 1922, has been coach of basketball ever since his graduation.

It is expected that George Edwards, former Kansas City Westport coach, will succeed him as cage mentor. Edwards joined the Missouri staff Sept. 1.

RICKARD SAYS HE WILL NOT PAY FIGHTERS UNTIL AFTER BOU

PROMOTER NOT WORRIED OVER LATEST SUIT

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—Jack Kearns, former manager of Jack Dempsey, has entered the list of those attempting to throw legal barriers in the way of the Tunney-Dempsey fight.

By the latest move Tex Rickard, promoter of the bout, is summoned to appear in court here to answer allegations that he intends paying Dempsey and Tunney their guarantees before the fight in violation of the law creating the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission. The suit was filed by Sol Wittenburg, described as "taxpayer and ticket-holder," but counsel for the plaintiff announced that Kearns was his "major client in interest."

The plaintiff sets forth that in the event the fight is not an honest exhibition, the State can collect all of the receipts, or more. It is alleged that Dempsey and Tunney are plannng to draw their money in advance and send it to another state so that it cannot be forfeited. The plaintiff asks that Rickard be restrained from paying them before the fight.

Counsel for the plaintiff said that his clients had no desire to stop the fight.

So far as stopping the fight is concerned, Rickard said he would lose no sleep over the Kearns suit or the injunction obtained in Indianapolis by the Coliseum Club of Chicago.

B. C. Clements, president of the Coliseum Club is due here today with the Indiana injunction which upholds his claim that he holds a contract binding Dempsey to meet Harry Wills before engaging any other opponent. Should the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission refuse to declare the Dempsey-Tunney match off, Clements plans to seek a writ in the courts of this State forbidding the payment of any money to Dempsey for the fight.

"I'm not such a sucker that I would pay either Tunney or Dempsey before they fought," Rickard said.

Coach Higgins Shapes Up His Bear Line-Up

Captain Mahan Used at Fullback, Veterans Are Shifted.

With surprising shake-ups in both backfield and line, Coach Bob Higgins indicated in yesterday's practice that the Washington U. lineup for the initial game of the season will be distinctly different from all those prognosticated by the Pikeway followers. With three elevens on the field, a distribution of varsity men through the group indicated that not all of the lettermen will have as ample opportunity to distinguish themselves this fall as last year.

Capt. Robert Mahan, who has performed at halfback for the Bears, has been shifted to full where the combination receives full benefit of his demonstrated ability to back up the line. Running at half is the freshman combination of George McDonough and Richard Heinrichs, both of whom are speedy, bulky lads. At quarter, Al Hayes continued as signal-caller, with Ted Whitler, otherwise used at tackle, alternating.

Tentative Lineup.

Jack McDonald, strong defensive halfback, has been sent to end to complement John McCarroll in a promising combination. At tackles, Ted Whittler and Clyde Collins, recruits, were placed and besides them the two veterans from last year's squad, Ivan Kaplin and Arthur Hannibal, guards. Walter Vesper, letterman, was placed at center.

On the second eleven, the two recruits who seemed most desirous of ousting varsity players from coveted berths were the pair of frosh guards, Ralph Kurz and Charles Bradley. Both of these huskily built aspirants are new at their posts.

At center, Choice Elliott, lengthy Arkansas passer, is striving to cut down the advantage of Vesper's experience. On the wings of this eleven, George Duncan and Harley Miller promise to provide no little amusement for the first strong ends when actual scrimmage commences. Flanking these were Cecil Drake and Otis Sturbois, tackles, with Earl Millard, quarter, George Sene, full, Harry Campbell, half, and Thies, Lohrding in the backfield.

Jack Dempsey to Do His Last Boxing for Bout Tuesday

Challenger Tunney Will Finish His Training a Day Earlier — Both Heavies Are Ready for the Test, Edgren Writes.

By Robert Edgren.

(Copyright, 1926.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Just about this time the training camps are becoming tiresome, even to the fighters. Everybody is ready and waiting for the big bout. Either man could go into the ring on 24 hours' notice, properly conditioned and "dried out" for speed and wind and endurance.

The strain of training is nothing compared to the strain of waiting. You can see in the scores of news stories from the fighting camps that both Dempsey and Tunney are having "off days." The fact is they completed their real training long ago, and wouldn't be doing much of anything this last week if it wasn't for the necessity of pleasing the public.

These last few days, when you see that Dempsey isn't showing any punch and has grown unaccountably slow and indifferent, you can put it down as a fact that Dempsey has his punch if he wants to use it, and simply doesn't want to do anything but go along softly and ease himself into the ring next Thursday night with two whole hands, wind unhampered by any lingering inside fat and plenty of pep. If he shot away that pep every day he might be a little bit slow against Tunney. Nobody knows better than Dempsey that lack of speed would be fatal. He always won his fights by beating the other fellow to the punch as well as by punching harder and more accurately.

Dempsey Not Worrying.

Dempsey will box Tuesday for the last time before the fight, but he won't do any more hard boxing. If he has cared to try out his k. o. punch he has done it in private. Probably he knows whether he can hit as hard as he used to or not. As he seems unusually cheerful it's likely he isn't worrying over that item.

As for Tunney, Gene came back from a session with the moving pictures and went into training. He wasn't far out of shape and he didn't need to train as long as Dempsey. He has been fit to fight for two or three weeks, and has been avoiding the boredom of doing unnecessary work by taking occasional days off.

Bill Gibson, visiting the camp, is anxious about Tunney's condition because Gene hasn't been talking any more about knocking Dempsey out in a couple of rounds. Gib figures that Tunney may have overtrained his vocal cords. Also in the past few weeks of training, Gene has dropped from 192 to 187 pounds, cutting into one of Gibson's best-talking features. With Tunney down to 187, Gib is almost tongue-tied. If Tunney went down to 183, which he may do before ring time, William will have to converse on his fingers.

At No Disadvantage.

At that, Tunney will not have much the worst of the weight against Dempsey. Jack weighed 194 pounds when he began the mild drying out of the last week. He's very likely to scale under 190, as he did in fights with Willard, Brennan, Firpo and others.

Dempsey says he will box up to and including Tuesday, while Tunney sets Monday as his last day for a workout. When the training is over both will go into hiding.

Tex Rickard has been dodging and sidestepping from spot to spot for a week. There are about a million people around these parts who think Tex ought to put them in the first row of ringside seats who want to tell Tex indignantly that the ticket sellers are gypping them with the claim that the nearest seats left on sale are two blocks from the ring.

1 TO 40 PAID ON TATTLING, WINNER OF WOODBINE FEATURE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TORONTO, Sept. 17.—Bleak and dismal racing weather greeted race goers for the second day of the Ontario Jockey Club autumn meeting at Woodbine yesterday, and one of the smallest turnouts in years was present.

The Maple Leaf Stakes, carrying a purse value of $3000, was the outstanding attraction and only three starters accepted the issue for this number. Tattling, Commander J. K. L. Ross' fleet filly, winner of the Quebec Derby and other races of note, was installed a prohibitive choice for this issue. She rewarded, and without the semblance of being extended at any stage of the mile and one sixteenth route. The smallest price recorded this season was hung up on the winner, she being quoted at 1 to 40.

Will He Wrestle ?

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 17.—The fourth of the Munn brothers, Glenn, is now a student in the University of Nebraska. He will be a candidate for the 1926 freshman football team and next year will try for a varsity berth.

HORNSBY'S ANSWERS

Bases full. Batter hits a ground ball and is thrown out, while all runners advance. Is the batter charged with a time at bat?—F. T. GRADOVILLE, Sedalia, Mo.

Yes, unless it was an intentional bunt with less than two out, in which case it would be a sacrifice and no time at bat would be charged.

Batter hits the ball to first baseman. The first baseman, with the ball in his hand, beats the runner to first base. After stepping on the base the first baseman stumbled and fell. He dropped the ball when he fell. Umpire called the runner safe. What was the decision?—C. C. P.

Purely one of judgment by the umpire as to whether the ball was held long enough to be called an out or whether there was an error.

U. OF WASHINGTON DEFEATS MEIJI, 2 TO 1

TOKIO, Sept. 17.—The University of Washington baseball team defeated the University of Meiji by a score of 2 to 1 in a fast game here today.

Flowers Stops Hunter.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 17.—Tiger Flowers of Atlanta, Negro middleweight champion, knocked out Happy Hunter, Memphis Negro, here last night in the third round of a scheduled eight-round bout.

Flag Hopes Gone, Ax Swinging Due For Many Clubs

Ruth Includes Athletics Browns Senators and Giants Among Disappointments.

NEW YORK.—It may be a little early yet to talk about the world series, but it isn't too early to predict one thing.

That is that there'll be a lot of changes in the big league clubs this winter. A lot of old-timers are going to find themselves out of jobs, and a lot of unknown kids are suddenly going to be tossed into the limelight.

Babe Ruth.

And all because a couple of dark horses have upset the dope this year. The Yanks and the Cleveland Indians were predicted to finish anywhere from sixth to eighth. That means that a lot of fans will be disappointed, and some of the boys who expected to win pennants will be howling for blood. Mark my word, before another season comes along you'll see a big change in the Washington club, for one. Bucky Harris already has started to clean house—and he still has a lot more to do, he says.

Browns Due, Too.

Then the Browns are due for a shakeup. So are the Athletics. Connie Mack had his heart set on winning a pennant this year. He thought it was as good as in the bag and then things went wrong. Connie never says much, and he swallows his sorrow without letting on. But take it from me, Connie Mack is the most disappointed man in baseball right now—and a lot of the boys who disappointed him most are apt to find themselves wearing a different uniform next season.

The Indians and the Yankees can just about stand pat. Of course they need the usual amount of young blood that comes up every year, but they won't have to make any big trades during the winter.

Over in the National League my friends tell me there's about the same situation. John McGraw already has announced that he expects to tear his club all to pieces this winter. Like Connie Mack, John McGraw is a disappointed man. Not so much at losing the pennant as from the fact that he feels the Giants didn't make the best fight they could. And that's one thing Mac won't stand for.

Cubs Big Surprise.

Unless the Pirates win the pennant you can look for some real shakeups there too. And Uncle Bobbie already has declared his intention of weeding out a lot of the old timber and building up with new.

I guess the biggest surprise in the National League this year has been the Chicago Cubs. And the credit, of course, goes to Joe McCarthy. He took a minor league outfit and made them into major leaguers just by fight alone. No matter where they may finish or how bad they may go between now and the end of the season, I maintain that the Cubs are the real National League surprise—and Joe McCarthy has done the best job of managing that the league has seen this season.

Just one other thing while we're on this subject of next year's clubs. Keep your eyes on the Red Sox. They're the most improved team in the league during the last two months.

New Greyhounds Will Be Seen in Tonight's Events

Sunny Whiff and King Flash Meet in Hurdle Race.

The third series of races at the Madison Kennel Club tonight will introduce some new greyhounds along with those which have already shown heer. The feature event will be decided over the five-sixteenths of a mile distance and will bring together dogs more or less familiar to patrons of the Collinsville track. With the exception of Rocker Coin, every dog in this event has already raced at the present meeting.

Bromley, because of her fine race between Maid of Honor in the Inaugural Stake on opening night, will probably go to the post a favorite. She came from behind in the initial feature of the meeting to finish a bang-up third behind the winner and No Foolin. The Madison track appears very much to the liking of Bromley. At the last meeting here her racing was one of the outstanding features of the last few days.

Eyebrow, an imported dog, and Rambling Raby are expected to offer the most opposition to Bromley. Springfield Swoop and Outlet, too, are also to be figured well up in the running.

The sixth race over the short three-sixteenths distance is expected to offer a rare contest of speed. In this, Garden Park, which ran well at Erlanger, Ken., and Majors Billet, may be seen in a speed duel. Red Line, a star at Miami last winter, is entered in this race. Char-a-Bane fell after going only a few yards in her initial start here and may prove a surprise.

Sunny Whiff and King Flash may have it out between them in the hurdle race. The Flash finished third on opening night behind Lester D. and Cimaroon Pat and a repetition of that race may land him the verdict over Sunny. The latter jumped to a few victories over the King at Erlanger, however.

VARDOM AND TAYLOR WIN OVER BRAID AND HERD

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—The famous English golf veterans Harry Vardon and J. H. Taylor have bridged the gap of 21 years and confirmed their 1905 victory over James Braid and Alexander Herd, by defeating the Scottish player twice this week in an epic challenge match.

In the faroff days when the Anglo-Scottish quartet dominated the ancient game Vardon and Taylor defeated Braid and Herd 13 and 12 in a 36-hole match, which has become history.

In a similar contest on Tuesday at St. Albans the Englishmen beat the Scotchmen 10 and 9 and won again yesterday 5 and 4 at Crews Hill.

PETER MANNING SETS NEW TROTTING MARK

By the Associated Press.

READING, Pa., Sept. 17.—Peter Manning, 10-year-old bay gelding and world's champion trotter, established a new world mark for trotters over a half mile track here yesterday by completing the mile in 2:02¼.

He was driven by Tommy Berry of Flemington, N. J.

The old record was 2:02¾, set by Manning in 1924 at South Bend, Ind., and driven by the late Pop Geers.

$200,000,000 Estimated Expense of Exploration Campaign This Year; Most Tests in Northwest.

MONEY IS NOT ALL WASTED, HOWEVER

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

AUSTIN, Tex.—It is estimated that more than $200,000,000 will be spent in drilling wildcat oil wells in Texas this year. This exploration campaign is not confined to any particular part of Texas. Activities in drilling test wells are especially widespread in the northwestern counties, and extending south for 300 miles from the Texas-Oklahoma line. Burt C. Blanton of Dallas, consulting engineer, has just compiled figures showing various facts connected with the oil industry in Texas.

"There were 6430 wells drilled in Texas during the calendar year 1925, which number represented an aggregate cost of approximately $174,054,600," Blanton said. "And of this number, about 33.7 per cent or 2162, were dry holes, representing a total cost of approximately $56,079,500.

Not a Dead Loss, However.

"This huge sum expended on dry holes during 1925 was not a dead loss, for, due to salvaging operations, a saving of approximately 12.8 per cent was realized.

Referring to oil refineries in Texas, Blanton said there are now approximately 100 refineries in operation, having an aggregate daily capacity of about 554,730 barrels, which is equivalent to approximately 19.2 per cent of the total daily capacity of all oil refineries in the United States.

"The 512 oil refineries now operating in the United States have a combined daily capacity of about 2,887,466 barrels.

"Texas has a total of about 157 casinghead or natural gasoline plants in operation at the preseet time, which plants have an aggregate daily capacity of approximately 1,026,730 gallons, as compared with a total of 1144 natural gasoline plants in the United States with a combined daily capacity of 4,494,361 gallons," Blanton said.

Heavy Production in Texas.

"The aggreggate production of natural gasoline for all plants in the United States for the year 1925 approximated 1,104,900,000 gallons, as compared to Texas' production of 184,700,000 gallons, which was about 16.7 per cent of the natural gasoline production of the nation."

Blanton called attention to the fact that the aggregate investment in refineries in Texas today approximated $209,813,250, which is equivalent to about 20.2 per cent of the investment in refineries in the United States.

The total value of crude and refined oil production of Texas for 1925 was $728,149,343, according to Blanton.

"Texas today has an aggregate of approximately 7379 miles of main oil pipe lines and 4665 miles of gathering lines in the various fields," Blanton said. "The total mileage of natural gas lines in the States is about 4772 miles. Oil companies in Texas own approximately 10,000 oil tank cars.

"Texas ranks seventh among the states of the Union in the production of natural gas and today Texas' consumption of natural gas exceeds 55,000,000,000 cubic feet per annum.

"The waste in natural gas production in the United States approximates 30 per cent, as compared to 8 per cent waste in Texas."

Time Saved with a Car

With the greater value now placed upon a man's time it is often an expense not to have an automobile.

To accomplish in 15 minutes with a car what would ordinarily take an hour, means four times as much time to do things.

Why be without an automobile, especially when good used cars are to be had at such low prices and for a small down payment.

Former Austrian Tyrol Rapidly Being Italianized

Herr Josef Fuchs Doesn't Much Mind Being Signor Giuseppe Renardo If Change Means Peace at Last.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch and Chicago Daily News. Copyright, 1926.

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Sept. 5.—Italy certainly got a good helping when she hacked off the Austrial Tyrol for herself.

From Venice to the skirts of the Engadine the Italian flag now rules supreme—and in enormous quantities! An Italian veneer, albeit a thin one, is being smeared over the Dolomites. The Kaiserstrasse is now the Via Vittorio Emanuelle. The Gasthaus Lowen has become Albergo Leone. Die Weissen Huhn—the white hen—is now the Polo Bianco. And Her Joseph Fuchs is now Signor Giuseppe Renardo.

Everywhere there are soldiers. In Pieve one comes upon bus loads of Fascists, dog-tired, sleeping over their carbines. A sullen Austrian jaeger stares at them defiantly. In the Pordoi pass—7000 feet up, Gen. Cadorna and his troops are maneuvering. In the little town square of Balzano a Fascist band jingled out "Giovanista," where once the townspeople sentimentalized over "Wein, Wein, nur du alein. . . ."

In villages which were as Teuton as Passau or Linz the screws were still fresh in the Italian street signs.

But the Italians were smiling; it was to be a friendly Italianization, if possible. The Fascist band in Balzano endeavored to please. Italian officers, sauntering among the townspeople in the gay little square, did not "chuck their weight about." There was none of the wretched defiance one meets in Transylvania, or the furtive terror of Bessarabia. Children ran out to the roadside and gave us the Fascist salute. They were not hauled back and cuffed by their fathers.

Of course the defiance is there. An innkeeper of Cortina, which is only six hours from Venice, bewailed bitterly, "Ach, if I could only see an Austrian officer again I would put him in a shrine!"

But the next instant he was bowing an Italian officer to his chair.

And, of course, depending on how one looks upon such things, Italy has a certain claim to this territory. It was Italian once, and unquestionably the present inhabitants are sick of dissension, and would be glad enough to settle down unheckled.

Whether a peasant is to be called Herr Fuchs or Signor Renardo is probably not so important to him as whether he and his pleasant little farm are to be left unmolested. That is the vital question of the Dolomites.

AMENITIES OF WARFARE IN NICARAGUAN REVOLUTION

One General Offers to Stake His Surrender on Correctness of News of Rebel Victory.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Sept. 17—Gen. Jose Marie Moncada, leader of the revolutionists in Eastern Nicaragua, has sent to Gen. Gustavo Arguello of the Chamorro Government forces a note inviting him to surrender El Bluff. Arguello in reply requested Moncada to cease his attempt to capture El Bluff, but said if the revolutionists had been victorious on the Pacific Coast, as stated by Moncada, he would surrender El Bluff conditionally on Moncado's surrender if the Pacific Coast victories have not occurred.

"For the sake of humanity, for the welfare of industry and commerce, now stagnant in Nicaragua," says Moncada's note, "I, as the representative of the Constitutional Government, invite you to surrender El Bluff. I promise to guarantee the lives of all and to provide provisions for all troops at El Bluff and Bluefields until they can return to their homes. I make this proposition in view of my victories on the Atlantic Coast and because the revolutionists have triumphed on the Pacific Coast."

"Inspired by the same humanitarian feelings you express," Arguello answered, "I request you to desist in your useless attempts to capture El Bluff. I propose that an agreement be signed on board the United States cruiser Rochester, in the presence of the American Admiral, that if the revolutionists have conquered the Pacific Coast I will surrender El Bluff in accordance with your note, but if the revolutionists have not been victorious on the Pacific Coast you will surrender and I shall extend similar guarantees to you and your troops."

General Moncada has not replied, but the bombardment of El Bluff by the revolutionists has been suspended.

Five Bands Are Released When Victim of Attempted Theft Fails to Identify Them.

Five bands of gaily bedecked gypsies riding in expensive automobiles were rounded up by police of various districts yesterday afternoon in a search for a young woman, who had earlier in the day attempted to rob Manuel Goldberg, proprietor of an oil filling station at 2135 Washington avenue of a purse and $40. None of those detained could be identified by Goldberg and all were released.

Goldberg reported the woman drove to the station with a band of men and women in a large automobile. While the men filled the tires with air the woman begged Goldberg to have his fortune told. He refused, he reported, and turned to go into the office when he felt a hand in his pocket and grabbed it. He said the woman had obtained his purse which he took from her and the band departed before he could find a policeman.

The various bands arrested were found mainly in North St. Louis and were part of a recent influx of nomadic tribes either to or passing through the city. They were told by police to "keep moving."

WANTS NO SHOOTING OVER TRAFFIC LAWS

Judge Gayer Rebukes Patrolman Who Apologized for Not Using Pistol.

"What right have police to shoot at anyone for violating a traffic law?" Judge Gayer wrathfully demanded, when Patrolman Fred Proehl testified yesterday that "because the traffic was too heavy," he did not shoot at Archie Wagner, who left the scene of an automobile accident.

"Some of you fellows are altogether too ready to use your pistols whether circumstances justify it or not. If you want target practice you had better go out on the range."

However, Judge Gayer sustained the fine of $150 imposed on Wagner, who lives at 4653 Tyrolean avenue. Wagner had appealed to the Court of Criminal Correction from the judgment of the Police Court.

Although Anton Schumart, 4945 Arco avenue, insisted that he suffered from hernia instead of alcoholism when arrested, June 13, for driving his automobile across a fire hose at Page boulevard and Whittier street, Judge Gayer added $100 to a fine of $100 and 30 days in the workhouse assessed by Judge Beck, June 15. Schumart was relieved of the workhouse sentence.

Negro Injured in Fight.

A friendly scuffle between Cairo Simmons, 31 years old, a Negro, of 3442 Laclede avenue, and William Davis, 25, Negro, of 823 South Eighteenth street, at their work in a metals' corporation yard, 4041 Park avenue, yesterday afternoon led to a fight between them in which Davis was hit on the head with a five-foot iron crowbar. He is at city hospital No. 2, unconscious. Simmons surrendered to police.

Water Bonds Vetoed, Wells Go Dry.

JUNCTION CITY, Kan.—Fate hadn't been long in reproving the city of Milford for refusing to vote $19,000 in bonds for a waterworks system. Drillers working at emergency speed have been unable to locate water. The bonds lost by four votes.

GIVEN 50-DAY SENTENCE FOR CARRYING LOADED WEAPON

Gus C. Henson Says He Thought He Had Right Because He Belonged to K. K. K.

Gus C. Henson pleaded guilty before Circuit Judge Frey today on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. The judge sentenced him to a 50-day term in jail, but ordered deduction of the time he has been held awaiting trial since Aug. 4. This will leave him less than a week to serve.

Henson, who is 45 years old and lives at 811 Chambers street, was arrested in front of a house on North Market street, where he quarreled with a man about money which he claimed as a debt. When he was found to be carrying a loaded revolver, he said he had authority to do so, as a member of the Ku Klux Klan. Since learning of his mistake, he has been unable to furnish bond, and he told Judge Frey that his wife had been oblige dto sell their furniture.

The Circuit Attorney proposed a 70-day term, with allowance for time served, but the judge cut the suggestion down by 20 days, saying he did not think Henson would carry a weapon again. The judge said he wished to avoid any appearance of punishing Henson for belonging to the Klan.

PHYSICIAN REPORTED ABDUCTED

Chicagoan Thought Overpowered in Apartment by Robbers.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Armed men are believed today to have abducted Dr. Albert D. Zwick from his apartment.

When the wife of Harry Zwick, the doctor's brother, returned with her mother last night to their apartment, adjoining that of the doctor, they were confronted by three armed men who fled after flourishing revolvers. They had ransacked the flat. The physician was last seen two hours previously, and it is believed he was overpowered as he entered his home by the same men who fled from the other apartment. His wife was away for the evening, visiting.

FLOOD CONTROL LEVEES ON LOWER RIO GRANDE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN BENITO, Tex.—In order to adequately supply the additional irrigation systems which are to be constructed on the American and Mexican sides of the Rio Grande along 500 miles of its lower course immediate steps for the conservation of the normal flow of that stream should be taken, according to W. E. Anderson of San Benito, a member of the United States-Mexico commission for the equitable division of the Rio Grande waters.

According to Anderson more than 200,000 acres of land are to be put under irrigation between Del Rio and the Gulf of Mexico on the American side of the river, and projects involving upward of 400,000 acres are being fostered on the Mexican side. Other smaller developments will add greatly to the irrigated acreage, he said.

"To care for the demands of the present users of the water and for the much greater demand that is foreseen in the future," he said, "it will be necessary to impound water from the river in immense quantities, either in the river proper or in its larger tributaries. Some of the smaller developments may be supplied from storage in reservoirs, canyons and lakes."

The committee of which Anderson is a member was appointed by the Federal Government two years ago to make recommendations looking to the drafting of a treaty to govern in the matter. Mexico was to have appointed a similar committee to study the proposition for the benefit of the Mexican Government, but so far has failed to do so.

Mexicans Co-operating.

Anderson said that the Mexican Government is co-operating with the American authorities in the carrying out of flood control projects along the lower course of the Rio Grande. The work which is now in progress on both sides of the river will, when completed, protect large areas of agricultural lands from overflow.

Plans for the flood control work on the Mexican side are under the direction of Jose Lewis, appointed by the Mexican Government because of his experience in this class of work. Lewis has been in frequent consultation with Anderson and other engineers engaged in the project, and the work on the Mexican side is being co-ordinated with the major project on the American side of the stream. Commenting upon this phase, Anderson stated that the co-operation of the Mexican Government extended through Lewis is proving a big factor in simplifying the problem for the valley.

Large Overflow Area.

Work on the Mexican side consists principally of constructing floodway levees which will prevent the waters from spreading out over a large area. A number of these floodways are contemplated under the present plan, opening on the Rio Grande at several different points between Reynosa and Matamoras. The lagoons are being utilized, the flood waters to be diverted from the river through artificial floodways into reservoirs, the latter to be leveled in all low lpaces. These all lead to the head of the Arroyo del Tigre.

Practically the entire area between Matamoros and Reynosa, extending back several miles from the Rio Grande, is subject to overflow during heavy floods. The flood control program will eliminate the flood menace for thousands of acres part of which is now under cultivation. Land owners on the Mexican side state that with the
gram practically the entire will be planted to cotton and crops which will mature with irrigation.

LIBERTIES UNION LOOKS INTO OREGON FLAG LAW

SEATTLE, Wash.—Should parents with conscientious scruples against war sacrifice their children to their scruples? Should the State, seeking to inspire partiotism in its school children, go to the extent of separating parent and child in its unbending insistence on allegiance?

The issue has been joined in the State of Washington and the State has won.

The issue has been raised several times in fact within the last year. In two cases the parents, after months of resistance have yielded and permitted their children to salute the flag and pledge it allegiance, as required by State law.

In only one case have the parents stood adamant.

In this case, though the parents have submitted to the State's penalty, separation forever from the child, and have made no effort to appeal the issue will be opened anew, perhaps to be fought to the Supreme Court of the United States to determine whether the State's authority over the child exceeds that of the parent in an issue the parent considers to be religious.

Civil Liberties Union in Case.

The American Civil Liberties Union is investigating to determine whether the rights of the child and its parents have been transgressed If the union so decides, its strength will be thrown into the battle, which the parents, in their passivity, have declined to make. As the question involves Constitutional rights, the appeal could be carried to the United States Supreme Court.

The case under investigation is that of Russell Paul Tremain, 11 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Tremain, now living in Seattle, but until recently residents of Bellingham, a city 100 miles north of Seattle. Both parents are native Americans. The boy was born in Bellingham.

The parents are fervid followers of Pastor Russell, the Brooklyn preacher. The father has been a Russellite a quartercentury. Undoubtedly he is a zealot. He, himself, says he can understand how others would consider him crazy for giving up his only child rather than permit the boy to salute the flag once a week, as required by school regulations and State law, and to repeat the covenants of allegiance uttered by the children en masse.

The State law stipulates the ritual to be followed and expressly refuses exemption on any ground, religious or otherwise. The pupil may be disciplined by suspension or expulsion for failure to conform, but no penalty to be imposed on the parents was specified.

But the State also has a Compulsory School Attendance Law, under which parents who refuse to send their children to school may be fined or sent to jail. And under this statute Russell Tremain's father was sent to jail when school and court officials failed in their efforts to dissuade him in his religious objections to the flag ritual.

The parents were appealed to. They quoted their religious teachings and stood by their convictions. The boy was kept out of school by the parents. The school authorities passed the case to the courts, and the father was haled in and fined $25. He was sent to jail eight days to serve out his fine.

Still Tremain refused to recognize the State's right to impose its will in the interests of patriotism. The boy was ordered to the Juvenile Court detention home, from which he was sent to school. The parents bewailed the fact their child was thrown into contact with children of criminal tendencies, but did nothing to resist he court ruling.

Then the arrival of a decidedly undesirable juvenile presented the court with the problem of sending the Tremain boy elsewhere, and he was given into the custody of an aunt, R. E. Mutchler of Greenwood, in the same county as Bellingham, on condition that he be sent to school regularly and taught the principles of good American citizenship, including the flag salute. The parents were given permission to have the boy visit them occasionally, but never overnight.

This arrangement did not last long. In a month the aunt's illness made it impracticable for her to continue her care of the boy, and his custody once more was referred to Judge W. P. Brown.

He was sent back to the detention home, but again the problem of contacts with older persons arose and he was transferred to the care of the Washington Children's Home Society, which conducts an orphanage in Seattle. There the parents were permitted to visit the child.

Last June, after repeated court hearings, at which the parents, pursuing a passive resistance, failed to make an appearance to renew their representations against the school law and the "kidnaping" of the child, as they call it. Judge Brown made permanent his order removing the boy from his parents and placing him with the children's home, to be adopted as the home society saw fit.

A short time later the boy was placed with a family outside of Seattle, the identity of which has not been disclosed.

SOVIET OFFERS $60,000,000 CONCESSION TO AMERICANS

Dneiper River Project Acceptable if Russians Provide $5,000,000 to Buy Equipment.

MOSCOW, Sept. 17.—A $60,000,000 concession for hydro-electric development on the Dneiper River to serve the Ukraine has been offered to an American group. Hugh Cooper of New York, representing American capitalists, told Alexis I. Rykoff, president of the Council of Commissars, with whom he had a three-hour conference, that plans providing for the expenditure of $60,000,000 were acceptable if the soviet government would make an initial appropriation of $5,000,000 for the purchase of American machinery and equipment. (Cooper built the Keokuk dam in the Mississippi River).

The Americans, who were asked to undertake the construction and financing of this immense project, rejected plans involving an additional outlay of $11,000,000.

Should the Americans undertake the work, most technical help employed would be Americans, while the bulk of the ordinary labor would be Russian. A clause is suggested for the contract that would allow either party to withdraw from the undertaking within six months if conditions warranted. Cooper started home for New York today to confer with his associates regarding the projects. He expects to return to Russia in three or four months.

NEW CAPITAL OF TURKEY HOT

Angora Not Yet an Enjoyable City in Summer.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

ANGORA, Turkey, Aug. 16.—Although during the last five years Angora has grown into a town of about 100,000 inhabitants, it is not a delectable spot in the summer. Despite the local health officers' efforts, backed up by the Rockefeller Foundation, to improve the drainage, the town abounds in mosquitoes, sand flies and other pernicious insects. Some newly paved roads have been laid, but the dust is terrific and rendered worse by the number of buildings that are going up.

Angora is undoubtedly progressing and if the money lasts it may develop into a decent capital. But funds are scarce and little foreign capital is flowing into Anatolia. This is largely because foreign investors are frightened; also because Turkey fears that foreign lenders might again try to obtain control of the country as when capitulations were in force. The only capital of which the Turks are not afraid is American capital, and the Turkish Government deplores that strong anti-Turk propaganda which it is said is being conducted in the United States, thus preventing financiers and others from interesting themselves in the development of Anatolia.

KILLS HERSELF FIVE WEEKS AFTER HUSBAND'S SUICIDE

Mrs. Catherine Hill, 51 years old, bedridden for three years with cancer, and whose husband, John, killed himself by drinking poison in Forest Park, Aug. 9, today swallowed poison in her room at 5556 Hebert street and died before a physician could be summoned.

Her sister, Mrs. William Giselmann, with whom she and her husband resided, said she believes Mr. and Mrs. Hill had a suicide pact. Mrs. Giselmann did not know how Mrs. Hill had obtained the poison, but expressed the opinion that her husband had left it with her before he took his own life.

Hill, who was a book salesman, had been despondent because of his wife's ill health and his inability to find work.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls, or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

E. L.—Any book store can procure for you Ayers' Newspaper Directory, which contains all the information you are seeking. This directory is published yearly and the 1926 edition is now available.

B. N. C. — The cable between Italy and the United States that was laid in 1925 was opened by messages between President Coolidge and King Emmanuel on March 16, 1925.

M. N. O.—Alcohol mixed with household ammonia will remove the spots caused by the sticky flypaper. If the mixture is put in a corked bottle and heated by immersing in boiling water it will be more effective.

PAT O'D.—Consult a copy of the 1925-1926 Missouri Blue Book at the Public Library for the names of candidates for state offices in 1924. You will find Missouri newspapers listed in the Blue Book also.

A. J. K.—Consult books of astronomy at the Public Library for the various constellations or grouping of the stars. The location of the Great Dipper varies slightly each night. Another group of stars is sometimes called the Little Dipper.

CONSTANT READER.—Make a medium thick paste of pipe clay and water. Apply it flat to the grease spots on the wallpaper and avoid all friction when putting it on the paper. Let the paste remain for 10 or 12 hours. Remove carefully with a soft cloth. A repetition of the process may be necessary.

MARY.—Persons of all ages are admited to the night school classes at the public schools. Apply at the school nearest your home or ask the principal of the nearest school to recommend a teacher who would give you private lessons for a nominal fee.

SCHOOL TEACHER. — Horace Mann, Adam Smith, William Ellery Channing, Michael Faraday, Ralph Waldo Emerson, John Stuart Mill, Charles Robert Darwin, Herbert Spencer, Louis Pasteur and Joseph Ernest Renan were selected by the late Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University, as being the 10 men of modern times who would make up the best university faculty that could be selected.

HY LE.—According to the Constitution of the United States, the legislative powers are vested in Congress, which consists of the Senate and the House of Representatives. The powers of these groups are listed in Section 8 of Article 1 of the Constitution. The executive power is vested in the President of the United States. Section 2 of Article 2 describes the powers of the President. The judiciary power is vested in the Supreme Court and in such other courts as Congress may establish. Section 2 of Article 3 describes the powers of the judiciary. These sections of the United States Constitution are too long for publication in this column. Consult books of civil government at the Public Library for detailed information.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

MRS. B. R.—You have no legal right to stop the natural flow of the water from your neighbor's yard if by doing so you flood his property.

MRS. K.—If the real estate is held jointly heirs have no interest in it when one holder dies, in Illinois. Heirs would inherit personal property.

MRS. J. F.—The builder can recover for the reasonable value of the plans and specifications he made for the house you contemplated building.

TEACHER-TO-BE. — Inquire of the Board of Education, 911 Locust street, about required qualifications for teaching in St. Louis grade schools.

Y. Z.—The listing of personal property does not affect a person's will. You had better have a lawyer make an investigation if you feel you have been cheated.

C. D.—You can report the condition of the sidewalk built by the county at your expense to the county court. The court can compel the contractor to remake the walk.

E. A. G.—You can report the boisterous neighbors in your apartment house to the landlord or police. Disturbance of the peace charges might be brought against such people.

MANY THANKS.—We do not understand your question. You probably have grounds for divorce or might obtain separate maintenance, if that is what you want to know.

P.-D. READER.—Inquire of the Public Service Department about the quafilications necessary for becoming a city fireman. You must be at least 21 years old, a citizen and a resident of St. Louis for two years.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

SUBSCRIBER.—Gangrene means that some of the soft tissue of the body is dead and it is not the same sort of condition as blood poisoning. Necrosis means dead bone tissue.

G. F. S.—Psychiatry is the science which treats of the pathology, clinical conditions, progress, causes and treatment of diseases affecting the mind. Whether diseases are in the domain of neurology or that of pyschiatry is determined by a study of the symptoms and physical signs. Many diseases affecting the mind present marked physical changes, such as tremors, alteration in tendon reflects, pupilary anomalies, as well as perversions of conduct or of action. A physician who devotes himself to a study of psychiatry is termed a psychiatrist or alienist.

L. W.—We do not know the address of the physician which you request.

HEART.—There are four forms of aortic incompetence. The first is endocarditic and occurs when the heart valves fuse and vegetations are present. The atheromatous form is present when the heart leakage reaches 44 per cent and it is usually caused by an excessive use of alcohol. The third form is syphilitic. The fourth form is called aoritis and is caused by inflammation of arteries. Symptoms of the disease are (1) heart beat prominent at the apex, (2) heart shock powerful and palpitation, (3) a pulsating piston pulse in the uplifted arm, (4) difficult breathing. You should be examined by a physician to determine the possibilities of relief and for proper treatment.

New Securities

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Investment bankers placed on sale this morning $51,000,000 of new bond issues and will offer about $50,000,000 additional new securities within the next few days. Today's offerings included $20,000,000 of Canadian Pacific Railway bonds; $10,000,000 of Consolidated Cigar convertible notes and $7,500,000 of Missouri bonds. The London Irish Trust Co. also is offering capital shares. Important new issues about to be floated include: $30,000,000 of Siemens, Halske & Schuckert notes; $13,000,000 of Pennsylvania-Dixie Cement Corporation bonds and $13,000,000 of Union Tank Car Equipment trust notes.

The Canadian Pacific Railway, through the National City Co., the Guaranty Co. and the Bank of Montreal, offers $20,000,000 of 20-year 4½ per cent collateral trust bonds at 96½ and accrued interest, to yield 4.77 per cent. Proceeds will be used for payment of steamships now under construction, the building of branch lines and other corporate purposes. This issue will have priority over $100,148,587 preference stock and $260,000,000 of common shares.

The Consolidated Cigar Corporation, through a syndicate headed by Hornblower & Weeks offers $10,000,000 of 6 per cent convertible notes at 99¼ and interest. They are convertible into stock. The syndicate includes Caesatt & Co., Hemphill, Noyes & Co., W. A. Harriman & Co. and Charles D. Barney & Co.

Missouri, through Speyer & Co., offers $7,500,000 of 4½ per cent road bonds, due 1943 to 1946, inclusive, at prices to yield 4.15 per cent for all maturities.

Tidewater Power Co., through Hemphill, Noyes & Co., E. H. Rollins & Sons, Coffin & Burr, Inc., Stroud & Co., Inc., and Otis & Co., offers $3,750,000 of first mortgage 5 per cent four-year bonds at 98¾ and interest to yield 5.45 per cent. Proceeds will be used for expansion purposes.

The New Orleans Pontchartrain Bridge Co., through Peabody, Houghteling & Co., Inc., and William R. Compton Co., will offer $3,500,000 of first mortgage 7 per cent bonds and $2,000,000 of 6 per cent debentures.

Missouri, through Eldredge & Co., Kean Taylor & Co., George B. Gibbonds & Co., Roosevelt & Sons and Federal Commerce Trust Co., offers $3,000,000 of 4½ per cent road bonds at a price to yield 4.15 per cent.

The London Irish Trust Ltd., through the American Trust Co. and W. A. Harriman & Co., Inc., will offer 50,000 shares of a par value of 10 pounds sterling each.

The Pennsylvania-Dixie Cement Corporation, incorporated in Delaware yesterday, will offer next week: $13,00,000 of first mortgage 15-year 6 per cent bonds $7,215,300 of 7 per cent preferred stock and 300,000 common shares. Lehman Bros. and Hemphill, Noyes will offer the common stock. National City Co., Hemphill Noyes & Co., Mitchell Hutchins & Co., and Bond, Goodwin & Tucker will offer the bonds and preferred stock.

Pennsylvania on Sept. 23 will open bids on $10,000,000 of 4 per cent highway bonds.

The Union Tank Cars' $13,000,000 of equipment certificates will be used to retire $12,000,000 of preferred stock at $115 a share Dec. 1 next.

What Representative Organs Say

WOOL

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 17.—The Commercial Bulletin, in its weekly review tomorrow, will says:

"While the demand for wool may be hardly so great this week, owing to the firmer stand of the dealers, there has been a fairly good volume of business put through. Prices are unmistakably dearer and may now be said to be fully back to the June level on everything, and a bit dearer on others, notably the choicest fine Australians.

"Reports from the goods markets indicate much better business, which is borne out by the heavier buying on the part of the mills and their anxiety for quick deliveries. The goods market has shown very excellent improvement.

"London has helped boost this market by showing fully the 5 to 10 per cent advance generally predicted for it a week ago. The foreign primary markets also are all conspiring to help the market here.

"Mohair is moderately active and very firm, with best hair in Bradford up a penny for the week to 19 pence for Turkey, fair average.

"The rail and water shipments of wool from Boston from Jan. 1, 1926, to Sept. 17, 1926, inclusive, were 137,689,000 pounds, against 109,021,000 for the same period last year. The receipts from Jan. 1, 1926, to Sept. 17, 1926 inclusive, were 282,597,357 pounds, against 225,449,300 pounds for the same period last year."

Domestic: Ohio and Pennsylvania fleeces—Delaine unwashed, 45@46c; ½-blood combing, 44@45c; three-eighths blood combing, 44@45c. Michigan and New York fleeces—Delaine unwashed, 43@44c; one-half blood combing, 42@43c; three-eighths blood combing, 44@45c; one fourths blood combing, 44c. Wisconsin, Missouri and average New England—One-half blood, 40@42c; three-eighths blood, 43c; one-fourth blood, 42c.

Scoured basis: Texas—Fine, 12 months (selected), $1.10@1.12; fine 8 months, 88@92c. California—Northern, $1.05@1.08; middle county, 95c@$1; Southern, 80@85c. Oregon—Northern, $1.08@1.12; fine and F. M. clothing, 90@95c; Valley No. 1, 93@95c.

Territory: Montana and similar—Fine staple, choice, $1.10@1.12; one-half blood combing, 97c@$1.02; three-eighths blood combing, 88@92c; one-fourth blood combing, 78@82c.

Pulled—Delaine, $1.12; A. A. $1.08@1.10; fine A supers, $1@1.05; A supers, 92@97c.

London Wool Auction.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—The offerings at the wool auctions today amounted to 11,465 bales. There was spirited competition and late values were well maintained both for merinos and cross-bred varieties. A few withdrawals took place owing to the high limits asked by holders.

Progress in Canadian Road Issue

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—The Financial Times says it learns that negotiations between a representative of the Canadian National Railways and a committee appointed by the holders of Canadian Northern 5 per cent income bonds for the purchase of the securities by the Canadian Government, are nearing completion. A basis of settlement of the outstanding questions between the stockholders and the railroad has been reached, and it is understood, the paper asserts, that the 5 per cent income charge convertible debentures will be redeemed in the near future at no less than 80 pounds sterling per 200 shares.

The issue in question consists of £5,000,000 (about $24,137,846) of old Canadian Northern convertible 5 per cent income charge debentures due in 1930.

Textile Market.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Cotton goods markets were slightly easier yesterday in the gray cloth divisions after the recent decline in raw material and some constructions may be had ¼ cent a yard lower. Business in colored domestics held steady and wash fabrics were being ordered moderately. More blanket and flannels orders were placed.

The stronger tone in raw wool is strengthening goods markets in some directions and more active spot business has been done this week on men's wear and dress fabrics.

Raw silk continued higher than mills cared to pay but there was better trade in cloths for spot and future use.

Burlaps were quiet and unchanged here and in Calcutta. Jobbers reported a steady demand for small parcels from retailers.

Police Hunt for Joseph J. Crapa.

Relatives of Joseph J. Crapa, 31 years old, of 438 Lee avenue, Webster Groves, have appealed to police to try and find him, following his disappearance Sept. 11. His wife and two children are in need, police were told. The relatives told policemen Crapa had been ill and despondent and before he disappeared said he was going to the grave of his mother and "end it all." The mother, relatives said, was buried somewhere in Illinois. He has not been heard from since.

Robbery Suspect Identified.

August Zerbst, identified Thursday in connection with the holdup of Armin Schroeder of 5028 Alabama avenue, and a girl friend in their automobile Sept. 6, was identified last night, police reported, by John R. Tubbesing of 3741 Sullivan avenue as one of two men who had robbed him Sept. 10 of $5 and a watch after they had crowded his automobile to the curb near Thekla avenue and Kingshighway boulevard. Zerbst would make no statement.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted financial review today says:

"In the most active session of the stock market in six weeks prices of speculative shares broke sharply to new low levels for the movement today. Sales approximated 2,500,000 shares. Although some traders saw a precedent for the reactionin the March collapse, which followed by about six weeks the January advance in the local rediscount rate, there were no actual developments during the day to account for the increased selling pressure. On the other hand, maintenance of the 4 per cent bank rate might have been expected to stimulate confidence in the market. Investments drifted to lower levels, although trading in the bond market was again in small volume. Government issues sagged, while foreign securities and other groups took a downward course in response to liquidation.

Selling for Decline.

"Although speculators were somewhat at a loss to explain the market's weakness, they were quick to take an advantage of the downward movement, and selling for the decline gained momentum in the afternoon, pressure being exerted against several of the recently active amusement stocks as well as many other specialties and some of the motor shares that had been weak yesterday. In some quarters concern was expressed over the credit situation as a result of the decline in the New York Federal Reserve Bank's reserve ratio of more than 4 percentage points to below 75, although it was pointed out that discounts had fallen in the week almost $49,000,000. An increase of almost $144,000,000 in holdings of Treasury certificates of indebtedness was not unexpected, in view of the Government's financial operations during the week and the increase will doubtlessly be taken care of in the coming week.

Call of Bank Loans.

"One of the factors which encouraged bear traders was the rise in coal loans rates to 5 per cent again after renewals had been arranged on the Stock Exchange at 4½ per cent. Banks called loans to the extent of about $15,000,000. This stiffening in rates was about in line with expectations, although in some banking circles it had not been anticipated before next week. The outburst of heavy selling came as a surprise to many traders, who had looked for a brisk rally to result from the decision of the Reserve Bank directors to maintain the 4 per cent rediscount rate. As a result of the turn in the market, doubt was cast on the influence of this factor in yesterday's trading. Gossip in commission house circles attributed the decline to closing of pool syndicates which had failed to attract outside interest because advances in many parts of the list had frightened the public out of the market. Specialties, such as Warner Bros. Pictures, International Combustion, Continental Banking "A" shares, Fox Film and others were depressed along with standard industrials. Hudson Motor and Mack Trucks led the automobile group to lower levels, although General Motors was well bought.

Improved Tone to Echange.

"The foreign exchange market displayed an improved tone, European rates ruling firm and advances being recorded in the Far Eastern and North American group. Sterling held steady at $4.85½, while continental exchanges were slightly firmer. Rates on Japan passed forwar to a new high for the movement, the yen being quote at 48⅝ cents, the highest in three years. Argentine exchanges continued strong.

Stop-Loss Orders Uncovered.

"U. S. Steel dropped to a new low for the movement, but came back somewhat before the close, while other favorites were offered in large volume after an early rally. Stop-loss orders were uncovered in large volume in the afternoon, further depressing the list.

Grains Are Lower.

"In the principal commodity markets grains joined in the downward trend, wheat losing more than 1 cent a bushel and corn falling about the same amount. Cotton received fairly good support, however, weather reports again proving a factor in determining prices. FIRST AD POST—

SELLING MARKS THE TRADING ON CURB

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The curb market today continued one of bear pressure and speculative liquidation. Selling was caused in a number of issues because of a desire to fortify Stock Exchange accounts in which curb issues are carried, and the supply from this source was in volue enough to be an important market factor. Operations for short account were also in larger volume and with the supply from the liquidation helped force prices generally to lower levels. Singer Manufacturing was one of the features, the decline of 16 points yesterday being followed by a further loss today, bringing it down close to 350. Servel made a new low record on a fractional decline to 16½. Travelers insurance which had a loss of 5 points yesterday moved up 7 points to 1245 around midday.

Humble and Prairie Oil, after being in fair demand at the opening, both became weak, and Tidal-Osage, which had been prominent recently, had a loss of two points. South Penn dropped about a point. Standard Oil of Indiana had a fractional loss.

Strength was shown in some of the industrials. Durant Motors was in special demand and advanced a point from its low level of the early trading. Swift International also was well maintained and Glen Alden moved up over a point. In many other stocks in this group there was weakness. Warner Bros. Pictures common had a loss of over six points and Fox Theaters were also in supply. Freshman reacted with other stocks, falling over a point. General Baking A also was under pressure.

There was little feature to public utilities. United Light & Power was heavily traded again, but after moving up to a moderate extent, lost all its gain. Atlantic Gas & Electric more than recovered its dividend in the opening sale and then became dull. Electric Bond & Share and Commonwealth Power were in supply at declines.

Chicago Cotton Market.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Cotton futures closed as follows: October, 16.25c; December, 16.45c; January, 16.54c; March, 16.60c.

St. Louis Spot Cotton.

COTTON PRICES IRREGULAR ON NEW YORK MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The cotton market opened steady today at a decline of three points to an advance of two points, most of the active months being lower under overnight selling by the South and realizing.

Initial offerings appeared to be readily absorbed and the market soon steadied up on covering promoted by relatively steady Liverpool cables and the uncertainty of the tropical storm situation. December sold up from 16.49c to 16.57c, the general market showing net advances of about 6 to 9 points at the end of the first hour. Much of the buying was supposed to be based on the market's technical position, following the decline of approximately 2 cents a pound the past week.

After December had advanced to $16.59 in the early trading, prices reacted. There appeared to be some apprehension that one of the tropical storms would hit the South Atlantic Coast and that another would probably cause showers or rains along the Gulf Coast, but except for covering, the market appeared to be without much support and offerings increased later on one side of the private reports placing the indicated yield at 15,100,000 bales compared with an end-August condition at 14,800,000. December sold off to $16.38 with active months generally showing net losses of 9 to 12 points at mid-day.

The early afternoon market was quiet, but steadier on reports that one of the tropical storms was approaching the Florida coast and might pass into the East Gulf. December was selling around $16.50 at 2 o'clock, when the market was about net unchanged to 2 points higher.

†Dividend rates as given in the table are in the annual cash payments based on the latest quarterly or half-year declarations, or in case of newly listed securities, the dividend intention announced at the time of the original sale and listing. Unless otherwise noted, extra or special dividends are not included. The letter (e) indicates including extras.

NEW MO.-PAC. VICE PRESIDENT

E. M. Durham Jr. has been appointed vice president of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, a new position made necessary by recent increases in mileage and general business gains, it was announced today.

Durham, who formerly was with the Southern Railroad and the United States Railroad Administration, has been assistant to President Baldwin since coming to the Missouri Pacific two years ago.

CONSOLIDATED LEAD HIGHER ON EXCHANGE

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, Sept. 17.—Consolidated Lead sold higher on the local market today, as did Waltke. Sheffield Steel was unchanged.

Subsequently International Shoe sold at 159 and Wagner Electric 17.

St. Louis Public Service was 16⅝ in transactions in last log of session. There were 2000 shares of Granite-Bimetallic sold at 30 cents a share.

Personal and Business Notes

The weekly statement of the St. Louis Federal Reserve Bank shows decrease of $1,174,000 in total bills discounted. Treasury notes decreased $4,369,000. Total gold reserves increased $7,008,000. Ratio of total reserves to deposit and Federal reserve note liabilities combined rose to 56.6 from 53.3 per cent.

M. H. Rodemyer has been elected a director of the Real Estate Mortgage Trust Co.

The Shaw Bank will hold open house tomorrow in the new banking quarters at Grand boulevard and Park avenue. The bank is moving from Thirty-ninth street.

PRICES WEAKER ON BOND MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Despite easier turn of the money situation following the passing of the quarterly settlement period, the bond market was subjected to further selling pressure today and prices weakened throughout the list.

French obligations, after a steady rise of several weeks, encountered rather general profit taking. Losses ranging from fractions to more than a point were recorded by the Government, municipal and railroad and steamship issues. Italian 7s, Finland 7s and Hungarian municipal 7½s were other heavy spots.

Unsettlement in the stock market was reflected in a lighter demand for domestic railroad and industrial liens. Declines of about a point were registered by Delaware & Hudson 5s. Canadian Pacific 4s, Illinois Central refunding 4s, New Haven 3½s and Wisconsin Central 4s. Skelly Oil 6½s and Andes copper 7s were heavy, but Granby Consolidated Mining 7s moved counter to the general trend, jumping points to a new high record of 132.

*Red wheat.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS EXCHANGE, Sept. 17.—Wheat and corn futures closed lower on the local market, dominated largely by weather both in this country and in Canada.

The trade took view of prospects of increased movement of Canadian wheat as result of clearing weather. Winnipeg was weak.

In the local cash grain market soft wheat was 1c to 2c lower and hard 1½c lower. There was fair demand at declines established. Receipts were moderate. Corn was steady to 2c lower. Demand was fair. Oats were steady and demand fair.

Improvement in the weather over the Canadian west and 2¼ to 2½c decline early in prices at Winnipeg were accompanied by setback of more than 2c in December wheat here in the early trade. Liverpool wheat closed ¼ to ⅝c lower. Corn here sold off more than cent, the action being credited to higher temperatures and lack of rain. The weather was reported clearing.

December wheat opened at $1.37¾ and December corn, 83c.

The three Northwestern markets combined has 1977 cars of wheat compared with 1676 a week ago, and 3019 last year. Minneapolis receiving 283 cars, Duluth 363 and Winnipeg, 1331.

Local wheat receipts, which are 128,800 bushels, compared with 165,200 a week ago and 73,000 last year, included 73 local and 19 through. Corn receipts, which were 31,600 bushels, compared with 7,800 a week ago and 46,200 last year, included 42 cars local and 2 through. Oats receipts, which were 28,000 bushels, compared with 20,000 a week ago, and 46,000 last year, included 12 cars local and through. Hay receipts were 11 cars local and 2 through.

Primary receipts of wheat were 1,952,000 bushels, compared with 1,985,000 a week ago and 2,124,000 last year. Corn receipts were 520,000 bushels, compared with 340,000 a week ago and 314,000 last year. Oats receipts were 442,000 bushels, compared with 449,000 a week ago and 967,000 last year. Wheat shipments were 758,000 bushels, compared with 1,144,000 a week ago and 1,325,000 last year. Corn shipments were 275,000 bushels, compared with 298,000 a week ago and 217,000 last year. Oats shipments were 253,000 bushels, compared with 411,000 a week ago and 605,000 last year.

St. Louis Hay Market.

Hay quotations: No. 1 timothy, $22@ ; standard timothy, $20@22; No. 2 timothy, $19@20; No. 3 timothy, $16@17; mixed, $12@15; sample, $11@14; Ch. prairie $19@20; No. 1 prairie, $17@18; No. 2 prairie, $15@16; No. 3 prairie, $13@14; Ch. alfalfa, $27@28; No. 1 alfalfa, $25@26; stand alfalfa, $21@23; No. 2 alfalfa, $18@19; No. 3 alfalfa, $17@18; straw $7.50@8.

DOWNTURN TO WHEAT ON CANADIAN WEATHER

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Buyers were scarce in the wheat market today due to the increased receipts of Canadian wheat and the improvement in weather over the Canadian provinces. Corn also was affected by the clearing in weather and oats were weaker with other grains. Provisions were dull and easier.

Rallies in wheat were feeble and closing prices were 1⅛c to 2¼c lower, September $1.34½, December $1.36⅝@1.36¾, May $1.41⅜ to $1.41⅞. Corn closed ⅝c to 1⅞c lower, September 76⅝c, December 82¼c to 82⅜c, May 88⅞c to . Oats were quarter to ¾c lower, September 39⅝c, December 42¾c to 42⅞c, May 47¼c to 47⅜c. Lard closed 12½c to c lower, ribs 30c lower, and bellies unchanged to 30c lower. Local cash sales were 25,000 bushels wheat, including 15,000 bushels to exporters, 140,000 bushels corn and 34,000 bushels oats. The seaboard reported 500,000 bushels of wheat, domestic taken for export. Red wheat premiums were half cent lower.

Dealers made a rush to sell wheat and featured the opening of the market. Most of the traders were long after yesterday's market and they apparently lost confidence when reports of clearing weather in the Canadian west came. Northwest houses were on the selling side, while buying power was limited to shorts and against commitments.

Canadian farmers marketed 3,300,000 bushels of wheat yesterday, thus averaging over 3,000,000 bushels per day so far this week and that in the face of considerable precipitation during the early part of the week. It is this heavy marketing by farmers which again caused hedge selling and tended to scare away buyers in the wheat trade. Local shippers sold a good lot of wheat to seaboard exporters overnight. Mills were good buyers of choice wheat and fancy premiums were paid for the best. Minneapolis wheat stocks increased 1,900,000 bushels for the week. Sales to go to store were 420,000 bushels.

Corn also was weak under liquidating pressure prompted by the clearing weather and higher temperatures over the corn belt as well as the free offerings of cash corn to arrive by the country. Crop reports are more assuring and this has a tendency to check buying power ever after the decline sustained this week. Country sales about 200,000 bushels of corn to arrive.

Weakness in other grains and the improved weather were depressing factors. Shipping demand was slow owing to the advanced offers sent out from this market.

Provisions were dull and easier. The decline in grain was a bear factor. At midday lard was 5@17½c lower; ribs 20c and bellies unchanged to 30c lower.

Chicago Grain Carlots.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Car lot receipts: wheat, 46; corn, 81; oats, 89; rye, 4; barley, 28.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—As no sales were reported in the local raw sugar market early today, prices were unchanged at 4.40c for Cuban, duty paid. Raw sugar futures were higher, reflecting the firmness of the spot market with prices at midday 1 to 3 points higher. Houses with trade and Cuban connections were the principal buyers, most of the activity being centered on the December position. No change occurred in refined sugar. List prices range from 5.65c to 5.80c, with higher priced refiners still willing to accept orders below list quotations. New business showed no improvement, although withdrawals on old contracts were again in liberal proportions.

Sugar futures closed firm; approximate sales, 51,000 tons. Sept., 2.67; Dec., 2.76; Jan., 2.77; March, 2.69; May, 2.78.

New York Cottonseed Oil.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Cottonseed oil closed easy; prime summer yellow $14@13.50c; prime crude 8.86½c; January, February 9.88c; March, April 10c; September 10.80c; October 10c; November 9.85c; December 9.82c.

One Hundred Per Cent Sound.

There is concurrently appearing an advertisement which contains a warning that should be read and studied by every one who is interested in safe-guarding the fruit of his labor. The keynote of the announcement is that in making investments the thought of safety should be considered in advance of any consideration of the rate of interest.

Every investor who has not had good advice has been tempted by the thought of large returns. It frequently happens that the temptation is so strong that the elemental question of whether the principal is safe is completely lost sight of. Ten per cent has a fine appearance. It looks large and much handsomer than five per cent, but it frequently happens that the security paying ten per cent entirely disappears at the end of the first year with a loss of one hundred per cent, whereas the less attractive five per cent security remains sturdily in its place at full face value.

So, after all, the real thought to bear in mind is whether the principal is safe. This sounds fundamental. It is so simple that one wonders whether it is not an insult to intelligence to press the idea home; but when it is realized that thousands upon thousands of dependents year after year respond to the lure of a high return and lose both principal and interest, it will be seen that the warning cannot be expressed too often or with too much emphasis.

The advertisement here discussed bears the signature of the Mercantile Trust Company and was written out of the fullness of a ripe experience. "A single poor investment may cause more loss than the yield of a dozen good investments." The widow, the orphan, the saver who is putting aside his pennies against a rainy day should read these words until they are a part of his consciousness.

Investment is today more than ever a matter of serious investigation and study. The trap of high return yawns on every industrial highway.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS :IMELY

GLITTER

By KATHERINE BRUSH

(Copyright, 1926.)

CHAPTER XXVI.

YVONNE comprehended in some degree Jock's state of mind that night, but only by intuition, for at the time he said nothing. Not until two weeks later did she hear from him how complete a change in his attitude toward Terrace Tavern Cecily's visit had wrought.

During those two weeks, she saw less of her lover than at any time in all the year of their intimacy. His days, formerly hers exclusively, were now the joint property of herself and Cecily—with the balance of hours perhaps a little on Cecily's side. This was right. This was as it should be. She encouraged it; and in the evenings, while they waited their turn at the roadhouse she listened to Jock's account of his afternoons with Cecily and smiled and smiled . . . [illegible] to cry . . . [illegible] she invited Cecily to her apartment when Jock was not there to eat chocolates and discuss clothes, plays, parties—and him. She learned many things that Cecily did not intend to tell; and Cecily learned many things that Yvonne did intend to tell. And both of them seemed very happy, and one of them was.

Jock seemed happy only at intervals. At other times, he was troubled and morose. Yvonne saw plainly that he failed to understand his own mood, that he did not analyse it—probably for the reason that, deep in his subconscious mind, he was afraid to. She was not altogether surprised, therefore, one Saturday evening in mid-January, when he burst into a sudden storm of abuse of the Tavern, which he apparently blamed for all his present discontent.

He said, without preamble, "Oh, good God, but they turn my stomach! Look at them, will you, Yvonne? Just look at 'em!"

Yvonne looked, and perceived nothing but the usual diners, the usual drinkers, the usual dancers, neither better nor worse than they usually were. She looked back at Jock again. His dark glance brooded over the room and his lips were twisted to sneer.

"It's enough to make you sick!" he went on savagely. "Damn' swine! Look at the way they paw each other, and kiss each other, and leer unspeakable rottenness out of their eyes! 'Children of disobedience.' That's from the Episcopal prayer book, and I've remembered it since prep school, and lately every time I look around this hole I think of it. . . . lust, evil concupiscence . . . for which things' sake the wrath of God falleth on the children of disobedience.' When—if I ever write a book that'll be the title, and it'll be all about people like these—"

He ceased, smiling. "I'm popping off, as usual."

Yvonne was silent, running her fingers up and down the stem of her water goblet. Presently Jock resumed speaking. "To tell the truth," he said in a somewhat mollified tone, "I guess it's not so much that I'm sore at the Tavern as that I'm sore at myself. I have been ever since the night they started flinging money. That was the night I began to see just what a caricature of a real he man I look like. First year out of college—year of laying a lifetime's cornerstone, it ought to be—and what did I do with it? And what did I allow you to do?" He indicated the surroundings with a sweep of his hand, and his scowl deepened. "Fine!" he finished witheringly. "Most laudable! Jock Hamill, the human jellyfish!"

Another lull. Yvonne lit a cigarette and eyed its slender upward twirl of bluish smoke. Jock dug his hands into his pockets, seeming by this gesture to pull his whole long body lower in the chair. His eyes focussed themselves on a bar pin fastened to the bodice of Yvonne's gown, but she knew he was not thinking of the bar pin.

"Now you take Cecily," he said. "The poor kid looks up to me as if I were her father or somebody. She does everything I tell her. And who the hell am I? That's the point. I've got a sweet nerve to be advising her what to do and what not to do, when all I rate is a rag-picking job in a low-life"—

"Jock Hamill, let's leave tonight."

Jock had been so engrossed in his diatribe that he had almost forgotten Yvonne. Now, with her interruption, he appeared to bethink himself of her. His face softened. "I'm sorry, honey! I've got you all upset, haven't I?"

"No, that's not it. But I see how you feel, and since you do feel that way why should we stay on here two weeks more? You'll only hate it. Let's go find August and tell him we're quitting right now, don't you want to?"

Jock shook his head. "I've thought that all over, but it won't do. Rum trick on the old boy—he's been pretty good to us in his way. We agreed to hang on till the first of February. I suppose we'd better stick to our word.

"Don't look so worried!" he added, laughing at her. "I can stand it all right! I've stood it an awful lot of weeks already, remember, and thought it was hot stuff."

"You did, didn't you? You enjoyed it for awhile?"

"Sure I did! You know that."

Yvonne changed the subject abruptly. "Tell me about this afternoon."

(Cruel, the swift light of his face!) "We went up to mother's to lunch," he said, "and you should have seen mother and Cecily! They hit it off from the word go."

"I knew they would," said Yvonne.

"Well, they did! Chattered away, and giggled—I felt like an old man with a couple of high-school daughters. Had such a time getting them apart that Cecily and I were half an hour late to the matinee. Say, the show was good, too!" He paused, regarding Yvonne. "Shame you missed it, honey."

"I'm sorry, too. But I simply had to go to the hairdresser's, as I told you. I needed all sorts of things done to me."

"You look great. Well, after the show we went to the Ambassador and had tea and danced, and got to talking about the books I picked out for her. She's read them all already, though when she gets time I can't imagine, because between Bill Burnholme and the rest of her string, not to mention yours truly, the nurse, she's busy all the time"——

"Have you found out yet whether she's really engaged to Bill?"

"Nope. Little devil won't say yes or no."

"I don't think she is," opined Yvonne. "And even if she should be, it probably won't pan out. About one girl in a hundred ever marries her first fiance."

"She could do a lot worse, though," Jock said generously. "Bill's a good boy. I like him better every time I see him. Well, anyway, as I was saying: Cecily's comments on those books—I wish you could have heard 'em, Yvonne! Clever as they could be. If it had been anyone else I'd have thought she was plagiarizing from some big critic's book reviews, but not Cecily. Everything she said was original, you could tell that, and it was great dope. She had me humping, I can tell you."

"She does sort of stimulate your mind, doesn't she?" Yvonne said, making the "your" impersonal.

"You bet it's the truth!" agreed Jock vigorously. "I have to look out or this'll be one of those pathetic cases of pupil telling teacher where to get off. She's got no mean head there, let me say, for all it looks so frivolous."

Yvonne took a little sip of water and set the goblet down carefully. "You know," she remarked, "sometimes it occurs to me that Cecily is the kind of a girl you should have married—would have if I hadn't come along."

As she voiced this, quite without appearing to, she watched Jock so narrowly that she felt her eyes burn in their sockets. But she could detect nothing in his face except surprise and instant repudiation.

"Don't be silly," he advised, and smiled easily, as though she had said something humorous.

Yvonne thought, "No, not that way. It's got to be more drastic than that. He isn't on to himself yet, and even if he were, his conscience wouldn't let him listen to reason." . . .

"Two more weeks—isn't very long, is it?" she mused aloud, with what might have been irrelevance.

"Absolutely will."

But when the receiver was back on its hook Jock said to himself, "No, I won't. I'll take Cecily."

True to their word, Peg and Johnny Havens had summoned him to their home in Washington Square soon after the November day when they had had tea together; and he had been there often since. He loved to go there. Peg amused him always, Johnny he was enormously fond of, and their host of friends he found exactly to his taste. There was a special brand of informality about the Havens' parties. Everyone was expected to do just what he pleased in that apartment, and did so. People came if, and when, they wanted to, entertained themselves according to the dictates of their fancies, and departed at such time as they saw fit. They danced, and sang, and stirred weird concoctions on the kitchenette range, and played stud poker on the dining-room table, and made light love in the hall, and laughed. . . . Nowhere under the sun, Jock thought, was there ever so much laughter. Into this environment he had taken Yvonne one afternoon around Christmas time, and he was left with a distressing belief that the experiment had not been successful. Yvonne had been an onlooker, not a participant; and the crowd resented onlookers, however lovely and gracious, on the ground that they "crabbed a party." The fun had been rather subdued that day, and Jock had known why and been both grieved and disappointed. He had felt that in this small but somehow not trivial matter, Yvonne had completely failed him.

Cecily would not fail him. She was fundamentally adapted to just that sort of thing.

He reached for the 'phone again with a view to calling Peg back and announcing the substitution, but thought better of it. "No use," he reflected. "They don't care who I bring, and anyway I'm going to see Johnny at lunch"——

It was the last Friday in January, and the luncheon engagement was a business one. Johnny's father was to be present, for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not he agreed with [illegible] that Jock would prove an asset to the paper owned by him, the New York Log. A matter of form only; Jock was as good as hired, sight unseen. But he did not know this and the meeting seemed to him crucial and precarious. He dressed for it with vast attention to detail, and, in the conviction that the first requirement of a reporter was punctuality, reached the appointed place on the stroke of one—and waited half an hour.

While he waited, he planned the dialogue to come. "Then he'll say" . . . "Then I'll say" . . . He examined his watch at minute intervals, and once he held it to his ear. As one-thirty approached he was assailed by a panicky suspicion that Mr. Havens had declined to present himself after all. In fancy he saw Mr. Havens, a sort of Johnny-grown-old with a beard and a belly, pounding his fist on a pile of newspapers and roaring, "Why should I waste my time?"

Why, indeed? Jock could think of no good reason, and it began to seem to him that his mere presence here in expectation of the Great was most presumptuous.

But Mr. Havens came, and was not ostentatiously Great at all, but quite human. You felt at once that he enjoyed cards and horse races, that he commanded a supply of excellent stories, and that he had a cellar full of bottles with cobwebs upon them. That type of man. He was of medium height, thick-set, with an abundance of graying hair, a square, strong face, and at once the shrewdest and jolliest eyes Jock had ever seen. He spoke in an abbreviated way, as though before presenting each sentence he mentally blue-penciled it to the bone. "Late," he said, pumping Jock's hand. "Kept you waiting. Couldn't help it. How're you? Glad to know you."

Nor was the ensuing meal at all as Jock had thought it would be. Almost to the end of it, business remained unmentioned. He himself dared not introduce the issue, Johnny would not, and Mr. Havens appeared much more interested in the information that Jock had once played the Valleydale course in two below par than in the fact that he wanted a job. They talked golf until dessert.

"Have to have a round together," Mr. Havens remarked at last, "spring comes."

Jock said, truthfully, that he would like that very much. "But you'll probably beat me 10-up, sir," he added smiling. "I've hardly had a club in my hands since I left college, and I never was any great shakes. That Valleydale score Johnny told you about was an accident."

"Haven't been playing?"

"No, sir."

"Why not? No time?"

Jock hesitated, and Johnny supplied the answer. "No inclination. Tread softly, dad, the boy's in love."

Mr. Havens elevated an eyebrow at Jock. "Fact?"

"I'm going to be married about the last of next month."

"Good!" said Mr. Havens. "Mean you'll take hold. Look at Johnny. Engaged, perfectly useless. Wrench in the wheels of progress. Sat and mooned from morn till eve. Marriage made all the difference. Now look at him, works like a steer."

"First time you've ever admitted it," Johnny muttered.

His father ignored this. "When can you start?" he shot at Jock.

"Monday, sir."

Mr. Havens jerked his head in manifestation of approval. "Come 'round. Ten a. m. My office. What do you want, anyway? Business end? News end? What?"

"News," said Jock with emphasis.

"Ever done any writing"

"Just at college. Of course that doesn't mean anything. But I think I can, Mr. Havens."

"Damn right he can!" put in Johnny. "I've read some of his stuff my brother-in-law sent Peg in the olden days. He's got more literary ability than any staff man ever needed. Also personality, guts, and everything else you'd want."

"Seems to be," Jock said, also grinning.

"Well, we'll try you, see if he's right."

Which was all there was to it. They parted soon after; the Havens, pere et fils, to return whence they had come; Jock to rush into the nearest telephone booth, demanded his mother's number, and say in a voice which he vainly strove to control, "Hello! Mrs. Madelaine Hamill? A reporter from the Log speaking." . . .

The TRAGEDY of a Too Great Devotion

Mrs. Mary Tapola, the self-sacrificing mother.

Mother-Love Knew No Law When Pretty Daughter Needed a New Dress—"I Took It for Myself!" Toil-Worn Woman Tells Court in Effort to Shield Her Girl.

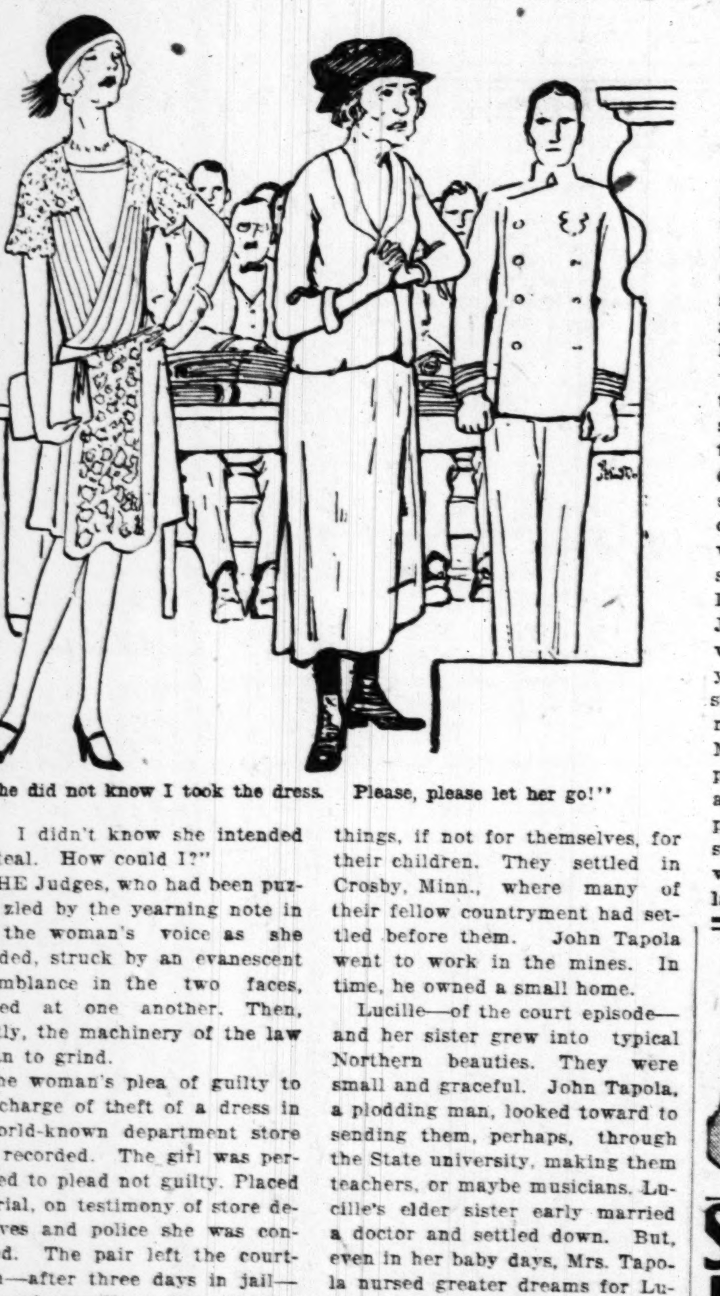
By Alan Macdonald.

THE woman—tired, faded and looking every one of her 50 years—raised toil-roughened hands to the three Judges in New York's Court of Special Sessions. She wore a nondescript, worn black suit, cheap blue shirt waist, a frowsy old velvet hat. She had said she was a chambermaid in a hotel. She turned horrified eyes at the dainty, tastefully attired, aristocratic young blonde who had been arrested with her.

"How can you hold this beautiful young woman?" she cried. "She is so refined, so educated. She took nothing, she did not even know I took the dress. Look—you see how I need dresses, and how little she needs to steal. Please, please let her go."

The girl—frail and delicate, her summery blue and white ensemble emphasizing the pastel coloring of her blonde beauty—nodded. She was wide-eyed—as much the breath of sheltered innocence, in appearance at least, as the woman was world-worn and weary.

"This woman worked in my father's home," she said. "I met her outside the store. She asked me to help her pick out a dress, and I had just a little time before tea. I didn't know she intended to steal. How could I?"



"She did not know I took the dress. Please, please let her go!"

THE Judges, who had been puzzled by the yearning note in the woman's voice as she pleaded, struck by an evanescent resemblance in the two faces, looked at one another. Then, swiftly, the machinery of the law began to grind.

The woman's plea of guilty to the charge of theft of a dress in a world-known department store was recorded. The girl was permitted to plead not guilty. Placed on trial, on testimony of store detectives and police she was convicted. The pair left the courtroom—after three days in jail—on parole pending investigation before sentence. They were in charge of Mrs. Agnes Breck, veteran probation officer.

Mrs. Breck had watched them throughout their ordeal; now a shrewd look narrowed her eyes. She turned suddenly upon the woman.

"How old is your daughter?" she demanded.

"Why—I have no daughter. What do you mean?"

They faced each other in the dingy passage. Here was a duel of eyes.

"Come, I'm a mother, too," Mrs. Breck declared, softly but indomitably. "You can fool men, but you can't fool me. This girl is your daughter. You are shielding her, as you've always done. How old is she?"

The eyes of the prisoner fell. She trembled. Mrs. Breck's matronly arm went around her. Then, with a gesture of tired surrender, came the admission.

"You're right. She is nineteen. She's a bride, and has a career ahead. I'd die for her. Please help me save her!"

PROPERLY, this story begins in Finland. For 20 years ago, this hotel drudge came from there to America, with her husband and two baby girls, one of whom grew up to be the young woman arrested with her. Man and wife looked forward to great things, if not for themselves, for their children. They settled in Crosby, Minn., where many of their fellow countryment had settled before them. John Tapola went to work in the mines. In time, he owned a small home.

Lucille—of the court episode—and her sister grew into typical Northern beauties. They were small and graceful. John Tapola, a plodding man, looked toward to sending them, perhaps, through the State university, making them teachers, or maybe musicians. Lucille's elder sister early married a doctor and settled down. But, even in her baby days, Mrs. Tapola nursed greater dreams for Lucille. Often, as Lucille lay in her arms, she visioned New York, London or Paris theaters—pits of darkness and still banked humanity looking to a single spotlight upon the stage wherein Lucille—romantic figure of chiffon, silk and shapely, slender limbs—bowed to a world's applause.

Lucille Tapola, who now believes that a mother's love is the greatest thing on earth.

WHETHER occult power of this dream transferred grace to the growing child is akin to other mysteries science has never explained. At any rate, Lucille gained daily in beauty and charm. She sang her way through school, an elfin, alluring little figure in the children's plays. She was musical, too, and teachers predicted for her something of the stuff of her mother's dreams. But John Tapola, heavy, silent man who viewed the world as a struggle, sometimes shook his head.

Yet Mary never wavered. In the last of Lucille's grammar school days, she slaved at washtub and ironing board to keep her daughter clad becomingly, while she herself went about like the child's drab shadow—though she was, according to all report, herself comely and attractive. When Lucille's clothing bill outgrew John's pocketbook, Mary Tapola went to work in a hospital. For years, then, she did this double stint, that her daughter's development might not be hindered. Mary became a nurse and was praised for her calm detachment and kindly sympathy. And few patients traced her gentleness to sweet dreams she had of days when Lucille would be a great lady.

LUCILLE kept pace with her hopes. Her high school career was a triumph. Studies were simple, and no school play was complete without her dancing. She had friends and sweethearts, but she kept heartwhole, perhaps because her mother told her of a wider world to come.

Eventually, she entered the University of Minnesota. Stolidly, her father sent her money for necessities, and warned against frivolities. Secretly, her mother sent her luxury money, and enabled her to study music at the famous McPhail school in Minneapolis.

At a fraternity dance, then, Lucille met a girl from New York. This girl's family had been in the show business for years. They were well off. They had a home just off Riverside Drive. In Lucille they glimpsed a coming star. They invited her to live with them until she should be established in New York.

John Tapola opposed Lucille's going. But to Mary Tapola, here was the start of all the things she had visioned and desired.

SO, IN October, 1924, Lucille began living in New York. She was, from the first, something of a belle in the more or less moneyed, artistic circle of her friends. Theaters, dances, authorities wired to Crosby d they had never before been in trouble. In the end, each was fined $50 and dismissed. And, according to Lucille, the last of Joe's savings paid the fines.

ONE interesting detail remains to be told. From the day of their arrest until the trial they were in jail. Through bars, mother and daughter could see one another, but could not converse. Lucille says she was beside herself with anger. How could her mother involve her in such a theft? The mother says she wept continually. Whatever had possessed her to let her love get Lucille in such disgrace. Would she ever be forgiven?

Yet when they were free, they rushed into each other's arms. And in an instant, Lucille says, she realized her mother's love—the love of one who would lay down her life for her child—was the greatest thing on earth.

They are to live together—so Lucille plans—while she seeks work and the far goal of stage success.

A Queer Partnership

Reasons that do not appear
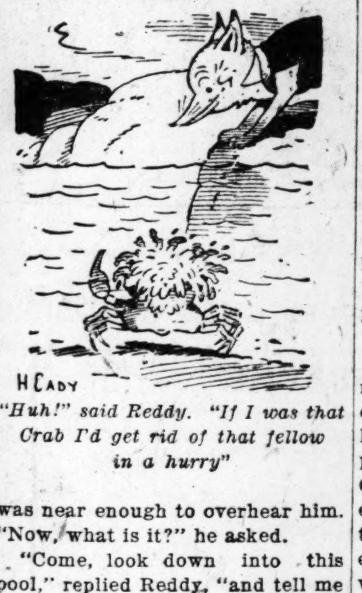
—Old Mother Nature.

THERE are many of these queer partnerships among the little people of the Great Out-of-Doors. Some of them are most surprising. The Oyster and little Mrs. Oyster Crab form one of these queer partnerships, as Reddy Fox had explained to him by Graywing the Gull. But there are others quite as curious. Reddy discovered one of these in one of the little pools among the rocks on the beach. He discovered it without knowing that he had discovered it. That is, he didn't know what he had discovered.

Reddy was looking down in the water to see if he could see one of those queer fellows called Squid. You will remember, he was one who made the water all black with ink one time. He didn't see the ink maker, but he saw something else that surprised him quite as much. He saw one of those so-called "flowers-of-the-ocean," the Sea Anemone, which he had learned was not a flower at all, but belonged to the animal world. But the surprising thing was that this one was moving rapidly, while all those he had seen before had appeared unable to travel about.

"Now, what do you know about that?" exclaimed Reddy. "Am I really seeing things, or not?"

His friend, Graywing the Gull, was near enough to overhear him. "Now, what is it?" he asked.



"Huh!" said Reddy. "If I was that Crab I'd get rid of that fellow in a hurry"

"Come, look down into this pool," replied Reddy, "and tell me whether or not that Anemone down there is moving."

Graywing looked down and chuckled. "No," said he, "it isn't moving. It is being moved."

"What do you mean by that?" demanded Reddy.

"Just what I say," replied Graywing. "Look a little closer and you will see for yourself."

Reddy looked a little closer. Then he discovered that that Sea Anemone was on the back of a Crab. Yes, sir; it was so! The Crab was carrying the Sea Anemone about. "Huh!" said Reddy. "If I was that Crab I'd get rid of that fellow in a hurry."

"No, you wouldn't," replied Graywing. "Those two fellows are partners. That Crab likes to have the Sea Anemone on his back, and the Sea Anemone likes to be there. So there you are!"

"I don't see it yet," said Reddy. "I can understand why the Sea Anemone should like to be carried about, but I don't understand why the Crab should like to carry him."

"All you saw when you first looked was that Sea Anemone. You didn't see the Crab at all, did you?" asked Graywing.

"No," said Reddy, "I didn't."

"Well, there's your answer," replied Graywing. "Crabs have enemies, just as other people have. With that Sea Anemone pretty well covering him that Crab isn't likely to be seen by his enemies. The Sea Anemone likes to be carried about, because it is easier to get plenty to eat in that way. Having to stay in one place and trust to luck that enough food will come her way isn't always satisfactory. So the Crab and the Sea Anemone have formed a partnership, and it works out pretty well for both. It may seem queer, but it isn't as queer as it seems."

Reddy rubbed his nose thoughtfully. "Live and learn," said he. "I'm getting where I don't dare call anything queer."

"It is a good place to get to," replied Graywing.

—said Christopher Columbus, dreamer who dared the threat of the unknown to make a dream come true.

"It can be done," has echoed down the years, the watchword of the land he found.

Of this land, Hendrik Willem Van Loon tells us in his "America, An Episode in the History of the World," beginning in the October Companion.

The brilliant author of "The Story of Mankind" and "Tolerance" makes plain to us by word and picture that history is no stirring of the dull dust of ages, but a re-creation of living men and women; of the hopes and fears; of the vision and sacrifice; of the bitter failure and glorious achievement that have all gone into the building of this land we proudly call our own.

More absorbing than fiction, more dramatic than the theater are the tragedy and comedy of a nation in the making—America!

Three outstanding serials by Margaret Deland, Mark Lee Luther and Grace S. Richmond. Brilliant short stories by Sherwood Anderson, Zona Gale, Elsie Singmaster, Victor McClure and Grace Torrey.

Feature articles, gravure pages, and all the fashion, beauty, service and home departments which have made the Companion the most distinguished and authoritative publication in its field.

CERTIFIED CHECKS.

THOUGH fate intervene in our roseate plans
And a pennant we may not annex,
A lesson in finance was taught to the fans,
For, they learned about certified checks.

Just when they were ready and rearin' to go,
And fit in all other regards,
In their march to the pennant, the Eastern foe,
Gave a certified check to the Cards.

Won't care one iota by heck!
Dough cast on the water, they say, will return
In the form of a certified check.

OH, YES!

The Boston club favored the Cards to win the pennant and then proceeded to knock 'em for a row of ash receivers. Another case of the uncertainties of baseball.

Everybody has a kind word for the underdog, but it takes more than kind words to make him come out on top.

"Founds Fund for Animals."

Hope the animals found fund found sufficient.

In case we miss out on the pennant why not stage a hog-calling championship for the rooters?

Or, maybe, Cincinnati sometimes called Porkopolis, would be a more appropriate place to hold it.

We don't know what the points are in a hog-calling contest but we take it that the guy with the strongest voice brings home the bacon.

MEXICAN TROOPS KILL 13 IN CHASE OF BANDITS

Three Were Identified as Having Been in Band That Kidnaped and Killed American.

SEVEN SUSPECTS KILLED IN FIGHT

Mexican Government Assures American Embassy It Will Do All Possible to Punish Murderers.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 18.—Thirteen men have been killed by Mexican troops pursuing bandits who stabbed Jacob Rosenthal of Woodmere, N. Y., to death, after holding him for ransom.

Six of those killed were regarded by the troops as guilty; the others were suspects.

Three bandits were killed when soldiers disguised as civilians went to their lair ostensibly to pay them the $10,000 ransom which had been demanded. Seven suspects were killed yesterday in fighting with Federal troops near Huitzilac.

The three other men, who had been identified by Joseph Ruf, Mr. Rosenthal's son-in-law, as having been with the bandit party that last Sunday robbed the members of Mr. Rosenthal's automobile party and took him away into the mountains, were shot last night when an attempt to rescue them was made, it is announced.

These three had confessed. They were being taken under military escort from Mexico City to Huitzilac to be examined at the scene of the kidnaping. A statement issued by the police says "a party of men, presumably their bandit friends, attempted to rescue them, and in the ensuing fight they were killed.

The laconic statement from police headquarters that the three confessed bandits who were shot last night "were killed during the fight" is interpreted here as a euphemistic manner of announcing their summary execution.

Federal troops are still scouring the region where the crime was committed in an endeavor to round up the rest of the bandits.

In reply to a formal note sent by the American embassy to the Foreign Office, the embassy has received assurances that the Mexican authorities have been doing and will continue to do everything possible to punish the murderers. All armed men in the region where Rosenthal was killed are likely to receive short shrift from the authorities, as a recent law forbids the carrying of arms.

While the bandits killed last night confessed that they were members of the gang that kidnaped Rosenthal, they said other members of the band had murdered him.

OHIO TO VOTE ON PRIMARIES

Proposal to Cancel System to Be on November Ballots.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 18.—Secretary of State Thad Brown has announced he will place the proposal to cancel the direct primary method of nominating candidates for office before voters in the November election.

Brown's statement followed his receipt of petitions bearing a sufficient number of signatures, asking that the question be placed before the voters of the State. An appeal to the Supreme Court is the only recourse of those who oppose the repeal movement, Brown said.

PLANES COLLIDE, MEN ESCAPE

By the Associated Press.

HONOLULU, Sept. 18.—Two United States Army airplanes collided 4000 feet above Lukefield, without injury to the aviators, yesterday.

Lieut. Charles C. Williams leaped from his machine and drifted to earth in a parachute. The airplane crashed. Although his plane was badly damaged, Lieut. Harry C. ischeart landed with it.
